New Labor Act Now Effective; Rules Issued

Conciliation Service Heads For Shakeup

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Labor-management relations moved into a new era under the Taft-Hartley Act tonight as the government issued new rules and its conciliation service headed for a shakeup.

With the new law fully effective at midnight, these things happened:

1. The National Labor Relations Board put more pressure on unions by announcing a strict policy regarding the hundreds of cases now pending before the board in Washington.

2. The United States Chamber of Commerce commended the new act and said that calling it a "slave labor law" is "absurd."

3. The AFL and CIO kept silent. Their policies toward the new act with its many curbs on unions have not been fully formed.

4. But the AFL International Typographical Union, in convention at Cleveland, approved a policy of signing no more contracts with employers.

5. There were reports that the federal mediation and conciliation service, which comes into existence tomorrow, will begin with an important reshuffling of officials brought over from the Labor Department's Conciliation Service.

Another big independent union, the Communications Workers of America, announced it has registered under the new law and its officers have provided sworn statements that they are not Communist sympathizers. The machinists union registered yesterday.

NLRB Becomes Labor Court

Some provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act took effect June 23, when Congress passed the law over President Truman's veto. But most of it, including a thorough overhauling of the Wagner Act, has an August 22 effective date.

The NLRB, which becomes mainly a labor court under the new law, announced it has 605 old cases pending.

The board ruled that 410 of these—which are petitions for plant elections to determine what union, if any, shall represent the workers—will be dismissed unless the unions involved comply with the registration and non-Communist provisions of the law within 20 days.

Thus the board agreed with Robert N. Denham, the new NLRB general counsel who has independent powers. Denham yesterday announced the same policy concerning about 3,000 cases pending in the 28 field officers.

The board ruled that 195 cases in which unions have charged employers with "unfair labor practices" will be decided under the new law, and not the law as it existed when the alleged practices occurred.

In addition, there are 262 cases in which the board has already issued orders and is awaiting compliance or court enforcement. The board said it will take another look at those cases and throw out whatever orders are inconsistent with the new act.

At Cleveland, the typographical union voted, without a dissenting voice, to force employers to hire printers from now on without a contract—only a brief memorandum of "conditions of employment."

Thus the union supported its president, Woodruff Randolph, who had urged this course.

Law Bans Closed Shop

The new law bans the making of closed shop contracts. The printers have a long tradition of the closed shop, under which only union printers are hired. They don't want to give this up.

The new law, in creating a new and independent mediation agency, provides for automatic transfer of the 425 persons in the expiring conciliation service.

But Cyrus S. Ching, New York industrial relations expert who will direct the new agency, can hire and fire the leaders of the service as he pleases.

Death Stills Bilbo's Claim To Senate Seat

"White Supremacy" Advocate Dies At 69

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 21 (AP) —Death came today for "The Man" Bilbo, ending a two-week fight for his life and stilling his strident claims to a seat in the 80th Congress as Mississippi's senior senator. He was 69.

The vinegar-tongued, wizened politican, who won election in 1946 on a platform of "white supremacy," succumbed suddenly at Foundation Hospital. It was a swift reversal of an apparent improvement yesterday when Bilbo sat up and declared he was "feeling fine."

Doctors gave "progressive heart failure" as the immediate cause of death. They said he had never rallied from an operation Monday to tie a vein and seal off the blood clot from the heart.

Denied Accusation

Center of bitter controversy, Theodore G. Bilbo maintained to the end his unqualified determination to take his seat in Washington. He denied charges that he had intimidated negro voters in Mississippi's 1946 Democratic primary, and rejected allegations that he had accepted bribes from war contractors. Both accusations were made by Senate investigating committees.

He had entered Foundation Hospital August 7, suffering from a nerve inflammation which caused partial paralysis. But his health had been steadily failing since last January, when he returned to Mississippi for treatment without being allowed to take his seat. He had undergone one mouth operation for cancer at New Orleans in 1946, and returned for another in January, and for a third in June.

A master of scathing filibuster and a rough-and-tumble fighter in debate, Bilbo became a synonym for "white supremacy." He publicly acknowledged membership in the Ku Klux Klan, and introduced legislation in Congress to ship 13,000,000 American negroes back to Africa. His anti-negro views were summed up in a book which he published, entitled "Take Your Choice—Segregation or Mongrelization."

Governor Praises Bilbo

Bilbo's death means that Mississippi will elect two United States Senators—a successor to Bilbo in a general election November 4, 1947, and one full-term senator in 1948 for the seat now held by James O. Eastland.

In Jackson, Miss., Gov. Fielding Wright praised Bilbo as a "long and faithful servant of the state" and expressed sorrow at his death. He declined immediate comment whether he would make an interim appointment as senator. Under Mississippi law, he may dispense with an appointment if Congress is not in session.

Although not a Bilbo ally, Wright supported Bilbo's claims to a Senate seat last winter, and declared if he were disqualified he immediately would reappoint him.

Truman Appoints Stuart Symington Secretary Of Air

Royall And Sullivan Get Army, Navy Posts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—W. Stuart Symington received a presidential appointment today as the first secretary of a separate Department of the Air Forces under a unified national defense.

W. S. Symington

Symington has been Assistant Secretary of War for Air under Secretary of War Royall. The latter was named Secretary of the Department of the Army. Royall loses his cabinet office in the shift.

Undersecretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan drew the job a Secretary of the Navy Department. He succeeds James V. Forrestal, who was appointed in July to be the first secretary of the unified Department of National Defense.

K. C. Royall

President Truman announced the assignments at a news conference. They will become effective about mid-September when Forrestal takes command of the defense organization and becomes its only representative in the Cabinet.

All the appointments are recess designations. The Senate must pass on them when Congress reconvenes in January.

Other key positions will be filled later. Mr. Truman did not say how much later. These include chiefs of staff of the Army and Air Forces and a chief of naval operations.

J. L. Sullivan

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Veterans Administrator, has been mentioned often as a likely successor to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Army Chief of Staff. Eisenhower is to retire early next year to become president of Columbia University in New York.

Still to be selected also are directors of a central intelligence agency, a national resources board, a muni-

Mexico Proposes Inter-American Economic Parley

Would Be Held In '48; Vote Slated Today

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Aug. 21 (AP) — A Mexican resolution calling for the convening of a special inter-American economic conference during the second half of 1948 was introduced tonight in the current meeting of Western Hemisphere nations. It was supported by 14 countries, including the United States, of the 20 represented here.

Adoption of the Mexican proposal would be an apparent victory for the United States which has insisted that economic questions should not come before the meeting here, called to draft a hemispheric defense treaty.

The Mexican draft is scheduled to be voted upon at a special meeting of the Steering Committee at 10 a. m. (EST) tomorrow and at a plenary conference session a half-hour later.

Provision is made in the Mexican resolution for:

1—The drafting by an inter-American economic and social council of a "basic convention on inter-American economic co-operation for presentation" to a conference in Bogota, Colombia, in January.

2—Inclusion of the necessary economic and financial specialists on the staff of the council to do the preparatory work.

3—Calling of the special conference in the second half of 1948 on a date to be determined by the Bogota meeting.

The object of the special conference, the Mexican proposal said, would be "to study the best procedures for execution of a convention which will have been agreed upon and to examine whatever means are needed to make inter-American economic co-operation effective."

The Mexican draft noted that economic security is "indispensable to the progress of all the American people" and would be the best guarantee for the success of joint efforts for maintenance of peace in the hemisphere.

Report Paraguay Rebels 'Smashed'

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 21 (AP) — President Higinio Moriningo's government announced tonight that it had won a "smashing victory" in the Paraguayan civil war and now was in control of the entire country for the first time since March 7.

Loyalist troops, a government communique said, completed mopping up operations during the day in the wild Western Chaco region.

The communique declared that all insurgent leaders had abandoned their units and sought refuge in neighboring countries. Large amounts of war materials have been captured from rebel units which "disbanded under the victorious drive of our troops," the bulletin added.

Announcing that authorities now were re-establishing "normalcy in the entire territory of the republic," the government said towns liberated from the insurgents were receiving aid from the Army Medical Corps and the National Food Board.

"Thus the forces of constitutional government control all national territory and are able to maintain order and guarantee the free exercise of all legal activities of the inhabitants of the co untry," the communique stated.

AFL'S LONGSHOREMEN WIN 10-CENT PAY HIKE NEW CONTRACT SIGNED

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP)—AFL longshoremen and shippers tonight announced signing of a one-year contract granting 10-cent-an-hour increases to 65,000 workers, but an unauthorized walkout protesting the contract continued to delay sailing of the America, the nation's largest luxury liner.

Announcement of the signing was made by the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) and the New York Shipping Association at 11:30 p. m., half an hour before the Taft-Hartley law would have outlawed some contract provisions, including a preferential shop clause.

The announcement said the 10-cent increase and a 15-cent hour raise in overtime pay would be effective starting October 1.

Lightning Bolt Smashes Columbus Bridge; 6 Hurt

50 Are Hurt As Theater's Ceiling Falls

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP)—Police reported approximately 50 people were injured tonight in the collapse of a large section of ceiling in the central part of the Park Theater.

Two hours after the accident 34 persons had been treated or admitted to the city's two hospitals. The others received first aid at the scene.

At least two of the injured were reported in critical condition. They are Joseph Maggio, 21, and Ronald Ross, 15, both of Meadville.

Both were among the score or more buried under a litter of plaster and other debris. Maggio sustained a crushed chest and Ross a back injury.

The ceiling fell 60 feet to the floor with such suddenness that no one had a chance to escape.

Dr. H. C. Winslow, president of the Park Theater Corporation and a prominent surgeon, helped treat the injured. He said the theater had been remodeled only last year at a cost of $87,000.

All fire, police and emergency equipment was rushed to the scene and hundreds of persons watched rescue crews remove the injured.

Leo Conrad, manager of the theater, said a large steel-meshed section of the ceiling, about 20 by 25 feet, collapsed without warning as about 1,000 persons were witnessing a picture. The theater seats about 1,500.

"It (the ceiling) folded like an umbrella, billowed out in the center hit on both ends of the floor and then collapsed," Conrad said.

Conrad said there was little panic and that some of the uninjured helped those who were trapped under broken seats and mountains of plaster.

Four Of Injured Are Hurled Into Water

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 21. (AP)—Six persons were hospitalized tonight for injuries received when lightning smashed a crowded Broad Street bridge across the Scioto River in downtown Columbus.

At least four of the injured were pulled from the river and others were picked up on the bridge after the lightning struck about 6 p. m.

Firemen discounted first reports that one, and possibly two, automobiles were also hurled into the river. Dragging operations failed to locate any cars.

A crane was moved onto the damaged bridge to help remove rubble in a search for possible other victims.

100-Foot Section Sliced Off

Police and fire rescue units continued searching the river for traces of possible missing persons. Safety Director Charles C. Cole asked relatives of those who may be missing to report absences to the police department.

A gaping, 100-foot section of concrete railing and half the pavement on the south side were thrown into the river. The span was roped off and traffic halted completely.

Scores of pedestrians were traversing the bridge when the bolt struck, accompanied by heavy thundershowers.

Many of the pedestrians were crossing from work at the branch office of the Veterans Administration which lies on the west side of the river.

A crowded bus approached 100 feet from where the lightning struck and Driver Harlan Wright said passengers were tossed about by the impact but no injuries were reported.

Strike Is Described

Eyewitness Elba France, 28, described the strike as a "tremendous flash of light and a cloud of debris." He said he though he saw "three or four people" thrown over the side of the bridge.

Carl Metcalf, 21, another eyewitness, said the bolt hit with "terrific concussion" and said the car in which he was riding with his parents was "almost completely turned around" by the jolt.

Gustave Then, a City Hall janitor, said he was thrown about five feet in a corridor of nearby City Hall when the lightning struck and that he saw an object go over the side of the bridge.

The 540-foot bridge, two blocks west of the Ohio State Capitol, was constructed of reinforced concrete.

Ex-GIs Try To Pawn Purple Heart Medals

SEATTLE, Aug. 21 (AP) — Seattle pawnshops are beginning to get requests for loans on Purple Heart Medals, the Times reported today.

Virtually all the requests are rejected.

"It's illegal to loan money on medals," one proprietor explained.

One pawnshop owner said he did loan a former GI money on his Purple Heart.

"I'm not supposed to do it," he said, "but x x x I was a soldier myself and I can't turn away a guy like that."

823 World War Two Vets Wed Jap Girls

YOKOHAMA, Friday, Aug. 22 (AP) —A total of 823 World War II veterans, either still in the Army or in civilian status, married Japanese girls in the last month so they can take them to the United States, American consular officials reported today.

The one-month period during which Congress lifted the Japanese exclusion bars to permit veterans to marry Japanese girls ended at midnight last night.

Ford Spokesman Says Agreement With UAW Reached

DETROIT, Aug. 22 (Friday) (AP) — A Ford Motor Company spokesman said at 12:35 a. m. (EST) today that an "agreement" had been reached with the CIO United Auto Workers. Particulars were not immediately announced.

The company spokesman, however, said the "agreement" had been signed at 11:59 p. m.

This was interpreted to mean that the company and the CIO union had agreed on a contract clause covering a union shop.

The Taft-Hartly law forbidding union shops without a majority approval of a firm's employes became effective at midnight.

Parley On Reich To Open Despite Russian Protest

Three-Power Huddle Will Start Today

LONDON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Britain brushed aside a last-minute Soviet protest at being left out today and went ahead with plans for a private French-British-American huddle in London tomorrow on setting a higher ceiling for industrial activity in Western Germany.

In notes to the British and American governments—but not to the French—Russia protested that the projected conference was a violation of the four-power Potsdam accord of 1945. The Russians said the accord provided for German industrial levels and any revision should be a matter for consideration by the four-power Foreign Ministers Council.

"The Russian note will make no difference to present plans for opening the conference tomorrow," a Foreign Office spokesman said.

U. S. Takes Like View

The State Department in Washington took a like view.

The London spokesman said the conference was for the purpose of discussing the level of industry of the combined British and American zones, not of all Germany, and implied that this invalidated the Russian claim the talks should be on a four-power basis.

United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall proposed the three-power talks several weeks ago after the French had protested strongly against a tentative British-American agreement in Berlin to raise the limit on German steel output from the present 5,800,000 tons annually to 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 tons.

The British spokesman said the French were attending because they had made it clear they wanted to submit their views on a matter which they regarded as vital to their security from any future German aggression.

Subject To Ministers' Approval

So far as Britain was concerned, he added, the final decisions would be subject to the approval of the Foreign Ministers Council when it meets in London in November.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor in Germany, told a Berlin news conference that any Russian protest against raising the level of Western German industry would be without foundation because the Russians have declined to treat Germany as an economic whole as provided in the Potsdam pact.

U. S.-Russian Rift Widens

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — (AP) — The United States and Russia widened their breach today with a new exchange of diplomatic blows over Germany's future industry and the Red army's continued control of the Chinese port of Dairen, while pulling farther apart on other issues too.

A Moscow note protesting the British - French - American conference due to open tomorrow in London on a proposed increase in production for Germany brought word from

Membership In U. N. Denied Italy, Austria

Argentina To Seek Abolition Of Veto

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 21 (AP) — Russia vetoed the aspirations of Italy and Austria for membership in the United Nations today and provoked an angry outcry over the big power voting privilege the Soviet Union now has used 18 times to block Security Council majorities.

Argentina moved swiftly to seek abolition of the veto privilege by submitting a resolution for the consideration of the General Assembly when it meets in New York September 16.

The Argentine government asked that the Assembly call a general conference of all the United Nations three days after the 55-nation body concludes its forthcoming session in order to consider revising the veto section of the United Nations charter.

This move was expected to set off the hottest battle in the Assembly yet over the veto. Since the organization was founded the small powers have fought unsuccessfully to abolish this big power privilege.

Seven Vetoes This Week

As Russia ran her string of vetoes to seven for this week, Council President Faris El Khoury, of Syria, used unprecedented language in announcing that the Soviet Union had blocked Italy's membership in the United Nations.

El Khoury said:

"The resolution is obstructed by one of the permanent members of the council."

No other council president had ever used such a reference to the veto. Previous procedure had been to say that "the resolution has failed."

Applications from Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary also were rejected through failure to get the necessary seven votes which must include those of all the Big Five in the Security Council. Only Syria supported these three and thus there was no veto involved.

United States Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson branded the latest Russian actions "an abuse of the veto power." Within the last three days Gromyko also has killed membership applications from Ireland, Portugal and Trans-Jordan and nullified two majority council decisions for settling disturbances in the Balkans.

Nine Support Italy

The vote on Italy and Austria came on an Australian resolution which noted that the peace treaties for the two had not ye come into force but would have given the 55-nation General Assembly the right to admit the countries at an appropriate time.

Nine delegates supported Italy, with Russia opposed and Poland abstaining. On Austria, France joined Poland in abstaining.

The ballots on Hungary and Bulgaria were 1 to 1 with nine absentions, Syria being in favor and the United States against. In the case

Tanker Fire At Albany Brought Under Control

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—A fire in the tanker Newmarket was brought under control at the port of Albany tonight in about an hour and a half after firemen had responded to three alarms.

The blaze, caused by a blown out generator, was confined to the engine room.

The entire port district was barred to the public while firemen fought the blaze because of the danger of an explosion from the ship's cargo or of spread of the fire to the storage tanks of the nearby Socony Vacuum Company.

Captain Fred Taucher, Baltimore, said his ship had deposited 27,000 barrels of gasoline at the Socony plant on the Albany side of the Hudson River and was about to cast off for the Shell Oil Company plant on the other side when he discovered the blaze.

Cool On Both Coasts; Hot And Humid Between

[By The Associated Press]

Cool, pleasant weather was the rule on both coasts Thursday, but almost everywhere in between it was hot, sticky and uncomfortable.

The Midwest's tenacious heat wave still hung on, with no prospect of relief in sight. At least 53 deaths were attributed to the heat, 26 in Chicago, one in downstate Illinois, 21 in Ohio, three in Indiana and two in Minnesota.

In Iowa the Weather Bureau reported the first three weeks of August had been hotter than during the same period in 1936, year of the gerat drought.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 21 (AP)—Heinrich Goering, 30-year-old nephew of the late Nazi Reichsmarshal Herman Goering, escaped Sunday night from an internment camp near Kladno where he had been held since January, 1946, security officials said today. A country-wide search is underway.

Vet Accused Of Beating Estranged Wife And Carving Portions Of Body

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 21 (AP)—A handsome, 190-pound young husband tied his estranged, 90-pound wife to a hotel bed here during the night, then in drunken fury beat her and carved portions of her body for eight hours to show she was still married to him.

He carved crosses on her breasts and his initials on one of her thighs, County Solicitor Wayne Ripley quoted the 25-year-old bride of three months, then climaxed the night of torture by forcing her to knife her initials on one of his thighs.

Ripley identified the wife as Mrs. Jewell Ledford Lewis, agent for a Jacksonville life insurance firm; and her husband as Robert Eugene Lewis, 25, Wekanee, Ill., former staff sergeant with the Eighth Air Force, who said from his jail cell:

"Whatever my wife says about last night is true."

The story came to light early today when she telephoned police from the hotel lobby and from her tearful recitation, Solicitor Ripley gave this story:

They met during a weekend at Asheville, N. C., and were married May 24 at Toccoa, Ga., after she had met his family.

"He was wonderful until we were married," she said. "Then he changed. He wouldn't work and drank all the time. We lived on my earnings. His drinking became excessive and I couldn't stand it any longer." She left him three weeks ago.

Finally he asked her to meet him to sign some papers so he could get back into the Army. They went to his hotel room about 8 p. m.

When she entered, the first thing she saw in almost surgical array on the dresser was a straight razor, a hunting knife, electric wires, a belt, a bottle of liquor.

He threatened her, she said, then tied her to the bed with the wires and neckties. He began to beat her and slash her, stifling her cries with a pillow.

Frustrated Cops Watch Two Youths Speed Away With Judge's Blessing

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21—(AP)—Two young cousins strolled out of Baltimore City Court today, past the arms of police waiting to arrest them and sped away in a car while the frustrated cops looked on, all with the blessing of a judge.

Judge Michael J. Manley kept the cops, from Maryland and Pennsylvania, at bay with an order that the cousins, William H. Miller, 18, and George R. Miller, 20, Westminster, Md., be given a 15-minute head start.

The judge explained the head start was to avoid a possible automobile chase through downtown Baltimore. He instructed Assistant State's Attorney Alan H. Murrell to see that the order was enforced.

The Millers left in a hurry in a big gray sedan and several hours later police admitted they were still at liberty.

The "cat and mouse" game started earlier today when Pennsylvania police asked for the extradition of the Millers and Robert W. Green, Reisterstown, on charges of stealing airplane parts from Raymond Devener's airport in Hanover, Pa.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph D. Buscher, appointed by Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., to decide on the extradition order, told Judge Manley he felt the Millers should be freed. The judge agreed, remanding Green to the Pennsylvania authorities.

Buscher informed the judge he had a sympathetic attitude toward the Millers, but felt that Green should be extradited. Defense Attorney Wiley A. Ritchey, in asking for habeas corpus writs, told the court the airport owner informed Pennsylvania authorities he did not want to press the charges.

Ritchey said Denver asked withdrawal of the charges after learning the stolen parts belonged to Green, a former associate at the airfield. The Millers were charged specifically with helping Green to steal the parts.

Then Attorney Murrell stepped into the case. He informed the

Conciliation Service Heads For Shakeup

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Labor-management relations moved into a new era under the Taft-Hartley Act tonight as the government issued new rules and its conciliation service headed for a shakeup.

With the new law fully effective at midnight, these things happened:

1. The National Labor Relations Board put more pressure on unions by announcing a strict policy regarding the hundreds of cases now pending before the board in Washington.

2. The United States Chamber of Commerce commended the new act and said that calling it a "slave labor law" is "absurd."

5. There were reports that the federal mediation and conciliation service, which comes into existence tomorrow, will begin with an important reshuffling of officials brought over from the Labor Department's Conciliation Service.

Another big independent union, the Communications Workers of America, announced it has registered under the new law and its officers have provided sworn statements that they are not Communist sympathizers. The machinists union registered yesterday.

NLRB Becomes Labor Court

Some provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act took effect June 23, when Congress passed the law over President Truman's veto. But most of it, including a thorough overhauling of the Wagner Act, has an August 22 effective date.

The NLRB, which becomes mainly a labor court under the new law, announced it has 605 old cases pending.

The board ruled that 410 of these —which are petitions for plant elections to determine what union, if any, shall represent the workers— will be dismissed unless the unions involved comply with the registration and non-Communist provisions of the law within 20 days.

Thus the board agreed with Robert N. Denham, the new NLRB general counsel who has independent powers. Denham yesterday announced the same policy concerning about 3,000 cases pending in the 28 field officers.

The board ruled that 195 cases in which unions have charged employers with "unfair labor practices" will be decided under the new law, and not the law as it existed when the alleged practices occurred.

In addition, there are 262 cases in which the board has already issued orders and is awaiting compliance or court enforcement. The board said it will take another look at those cases and throw out whatever orders are inconsistent with the new act.

At Cleveland, the typographical union voted, without a dissenting voice, to force employers to hire printers from now on without a contract—only a brief memorandum of "conditions of employment."

Law Bans Closed Shop

The new law bans the making of closed shop contracts. The printers have a long tradition of the closed shop, under which only union printers are hired. They don't want to give this up.

The new law, in creating a new and independent mediation agency, provides for automatic transfer of the 425 persons in the expiring conciliation service.

But Cyrus S. Ching, New York industrial relations expert who will direct the new agency, can hire and fire the leaders of the service as he pleases.

Death Stills Bilbo's Claim To Senate Seat

THEODORE BILBO . . . Death ends "The Man's" two-week fight for life.

He had undergone one mouth operation for cancer at New Orleans in 1946, and returned for another in January, and for a third in June.

A master of scathing filibuster and a rough-and-tumble fighter in debate, Bilbo became a synonym for "white supremacy." He publicly acknowledged membership in the Ku Klux Klan, and introduced legislation in Congress to ship 13,000,000 American negroes back to Africa. His anti-negro views were summed up in a book which he published, entitled "Take Your Choice—Segregation or Mongrelization."

Governor Praises Bilbo

Bilbo's death means that Mississippi will elect two United States Senators—a successor to Bilbo in a general election November 4, 1947, and one full-term senator in 1948 for the seat now held by James O. Eastland.

In Jackson, Miss., Gov. Fielding Wright praised Bilbo as a "long and faithful servant of the state" and expressed sorrow at his death. He declined immediate comment whether he would make an interim appointment as senator. Under Mississippi law, he may dispense with an appointment if Congress is not in session.

Although not a Bilbo ally, Wright supported Bilbo's claims to a Senate seat last winter, and declared if he were disqualified he immediately would reappoint him.

Truman Appoints Stuart Symington Secretary Of Air

Royall And Sullivan Get Army, Navy Posts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—W. Stuart Symington received a presidential appointment today as the first secretary of a separate Department of the Air Forces under a unified national defense.

W. S. Symington

Symington has been Assistant Secretary of War for Air under Secretary of War Royall. The latter was named Secretary of the Department of the Army. Royall loses his cabinet office in the shift.

Undersecretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan drew the job a Secretary of the Navy Department. He succeeds James V. Forrestal, who was appointed in July to be the first secretary of the unified Department of National Defense.

President Truman announced the assignments at a news conference. They will become effective about mid-September when Forrestal takes command of the defense organization and becomes its only representative in the Cabinet.

K. C. Royall

All the appointments are recess designations. The Senate must pass on them when Congress reconvenes in January.

Other key positions will be filled later. Mr. Truman did not say how much later. These include chiefs of staff of the Army and Air Forces and a chief of naval operations.

J. L. Sullivan

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Veterans Administrator, has been mentioned often as a likely successor to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Army Chief of Staff. Eisenhower is to retire early next year to become president of Columbia University in New York.

Report Paraguay Rebels 'Smashed'

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 21 (AP) — President Higinio Moriningo's government announced tonight that it had won a "smashing victory" in the Paraguayan civil war and now was in control of the entire country for the first time since March 7.

Loyalist troops, a government communique said, completed mopping up operations during the day in the wild Western Chaco region.

The communique declared that all insurgent leaders had abandoned their units and sought refuge in neighboring countries. Large amounts of war materials have been captured from rebel units which "disbanded under the victorious drive of our troops," the bulletin added.

Announcing that authorities now were re-establishing "normalcy in the entire territory of the republic," the government said towns liberated from the insurgents were receiving aid from the Army Medical Corps and the National Food Board.

"Thus the forces of constitutional government control all national territory and are able to maintain order and guarantee the free exercise of all legal activities of the inhabitants of the co untry," the communique stated.

AFL'S LONGSHOREMEN WIN 10-CENT PAY HIKE NEW CONTRACT SIGNED

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP)— AFL longshoremen and shippers tonight announced signing of a one-year contract granting 10-cent-an-hour increases to 65,000 workers, but an unauthorized walkout protesting the contract continued to delay sailing of the America, the nation's largest luxury liner.

Announcement of the signing was made by the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) and the New York Shipping Association at 11:30 p. m., half an hour before the Taft-Hartley law would have outlawed some contract provisions, including a preferential shop clause.

The announcement said the 10-cent increase and a 15-cent hour raise in overtime pay would be effective starting October 1.

Would Be Held In '48; Vote Slated Today

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Aug. 21 (AP) — A Mexican resolution calling for the convening of a special inter-American economic conference during the second half of 1948 was introduced tonight in the current meeting of Western Hemisphere nations. It was supported by 14 countries, including the United States, of the 20 represented here.

Adoption of the Mexican proposal would be an apparent victory for the United States which has insisted that economic questions should not come before the meeting here, called to draft a hemispheric defense treaty.

The Mexican draft is scheduled to be voted upon at a special meeting of the Steering Committee at 10 a. m. (EST) tomorrow and at a plenary conference session a half-hour later.

Provision is made in the Mexican resolution for:

1—The drafting by an inter-American economic and social council of a "basic convention on inter-American economic co-operation for presentation" to a conference in Bogota, Colombia, in January.

2—Inclusion of the necessary economic and financial specialists on the staff of the council to do the preparatory work.

3—Calling of the special conference in the second half of 1948 on a date to be determined by the Bogota meeting.

The object of the special conference, the Mexican proposal said, would be "to study the best procedures for execution of a convention which will have been agreed upon and to examine whatever means are needed to make inter-American economic co-operation effective."

The Mexican draft noted that economic security is "indispensable to the progress of all the American people" and would be the best guarantee for the success of joint efforts for maintenance of peace in the hemisphere.

823 World War Two Vets Wed Jap Girls

YOKOHAMA, Friday, Aug. 22 (AP) —A total of 823 World War II veterans, either still in the Army or in civilian status, married Japanese girls in the last month so they can take them to the United States, American consular officials reported today.

The one-month period during which Congress lifted the Japanese exclusion bars to permit veterans to marry Japanese girls ended at midnight last night.

Lightning Bolt Smashes Columbus Bridge; 6 Hurt

50 Are Hurt As Theater's Ceiling Falls

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP)— Police reported approximately 50 people were injured tonight in the collapse of a large section of ceiling in the central part of the Park Theater.

Two hours after the accident 34 persons had been treated or admitted to the city's two hospitals. The others received first aid at the scene.

At least two of the injured were reported in critical condition. They are Joseph Maggio, 21, and Ronald Ross, 15, both of Meadville.

Both were among the score or more buried under a litter of plaster and other debris. Maggio sustained a crushed chest and Ross a back injury.

The ceiling fell 60 feet to the floor with such suddenness that no one had a chance to escape.

Dr. H. C. Winslow, president of the Park Theater Corporation and a prominent surgeon, helped treat the injured. He said the theater had been remodeled only last year at a cost of $87,000.

All fire, police and emergency equipment was rushed to the scene and hundreds of persons watched rescue crews remove the injured.

Leo Conrad, manager of the theater, said a large steel-meshed section of the ceiling, about 20 by 25 feet, collapsed without warning as about 1,000 persons were witnessing a picture. The theater seats about 1,500.

"It (the ceiling) folded like an umbrella, billowed out in the center hit on both ends of the floor and then collapsed," Conrad said.

Conrad said there was little panic and that some of the uninjured helped those who were trapped under broken seats and mountains of plaster.

Four Of Injured Are Hurled Into Water

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 21. (AP)—Six persons were hospitalized tonight for injuries received when lightning smashed a crowded Broad Street bridge across the Scioto River in downtown Columbus.

At least four of the injured were pulled from the river and others were picked up on the bridge after the lightning struck about 6 p. m.

Firemen discounted first reports that one, and possibly two, automobiles were also hurled into the river. Dragging operations failed to locate any cars.

100-Foot Section Sliced Off

Police and fire rescue units continued searching the river for traces of possible missing persons. Safety Director Charles C. Cole asked relatives of those who may be missing to report absences to the police department.

A gaping, 100-foot section of concrete railing and half the pavement on the south side were thrown into the river. The span was roped off and traffic halted completely.

Scores of pedestrians were traversing the bridge when the bolt struck, accompanied by heavy thundershowers.

Many of the pedestrians were crossing from work at the branch office of the Veterans Administration which lies on the west side of the river.

A crowded bus approached 100 feet from where the lightning struck and Driver Harlan Wright said passengers were tossed about by the impact but no injuries were reported.

Strike Is Described

Eyewitness Elba France, 28, described the strike as a "tremendous flash of light and a cloud of debris." He said he though he saw "three or four people" thrown over the side of the bridge.

Carl Metcalf, 21, another eyewitness, said the bolt hit with "terrific concussion" and said the car in which he was riding with his parents was "almost completely turned around" by the jolt.

Gustave Then, a City Hall janitor, said he was thrown about five feet in a corridor of nearby City Hall when the lightning struck and that he saw an object go over the side of the bridge.

The 540-foot bridge, two blocks west of the Ohio State Capitol, was constructed of reinforced concrete.

Ex-GIs Try To Pawn Purple Heart Medals

SEATTLE, Aug. 21 (AP) — Seattle pawnshops are beginning to get requests for loans on Purple Heart Medals, the Times reported today.

Virtually all the requests are rejected.

"It's illegal to loan money on medals," one proprietor explained.

One pawnshop owner said he did loan a former GI money on his Purple Heart.

"I'm not supposed to do it," he said, "but x x x I was a soldier myself and I can't turn away a guy like that."

Ford Spokesman Says Agreement With UAW Reached

DETROIT, Aug. 22 (Friday) (AP) — A Ford Motor Company spokesman said at 12:35 a. m. (EST) today that an "agreement" had been reached with the CIO United Auto Workers. Particulars were not immediately announced.

The company spokesman, however, said the "agreement" had been signed at 11:59 p. m.

This was interpreted to mean that the company and the CIO union had agreed on a contract clause covering a union shop.

Three-Power Huddle Will Start Today

LONDON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Britain brushed aside a last-minute Soviet protest at being left out today and went ahead with plans for a private French-British-American huddle in London tomorrow on setting a higher ceiling for industrial activity in Western Germany.

In notes to the British and American governments—but not to the French—Russia protested that the projected conference was a violation of the four-power Potsdam accord of 1945. The Russians said the accord provided for Germar industrial levels and any revision should be a matter for consideration by the four-power Foreign Ministers Council.

"The Russian note will make no difference to present plans for opening the conference tomorrow," a Foreign Office spokesman said.

U. S. Takes Like View

The State Department in Washington took a like view.

The London spokesman said the conference was for the purpose of discussing the level of industry of the combined British and American zones, not of all Germany, and implied that this invalidated the Russian claim the talks should be on a four-power basis.

United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall proposed the three-power talks several weeks ago after the French had protested strongly against a tentative British-American agreement in Berlin to raise the limit on German steel output from the present 5,800,000 tons annually to 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 tons.

The British spokesman said the French were attending because they had made it clear they wanted to submit their views on a matter which they regarded as vital to their security from any future German aggression.

Subject To Ministers' Approval

So far as Britain was concerned, he added, the final decisions would be subject to the approval of the Foreign Ministers Council when it meets in London in November.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor in Germany, told a Berlin news conference that any Russian protest against raising the level of Western German industry would be without foundation because the Russians have declined to treat Germany as an economic whole as provided in the Potsdam pact.

U. S.-Russian Rift Widens

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — (AP) — The United States and Russia widened their breach today with a new exchange of diplomatic blows over Germany's future industry and the Red army's continued control of the Chinese port of Dairen, while pulling farther apart on other issues too.

A Moscow note protesting the British - French - American conference due to open tomorrow in London on a proposed increase in production for Germany brought word from

Cool On Both Coasts; Hot And Humid Between

[By The Associated Press]

Cool, pleasant weather was the rule on both coasts Thursday, but almost everywhere in between it was hot, sticky and uncomfortable.

The Midwest's tenacious heat wave still hung on, with no prospect of relief in sight. At least 53 deaths were attributed to the heat, 26 in Chicago, one in downstate Illinois, 21 in Ohio, three in Indiana and two in Minnesota.

In Iowa the Weather Bureau reported the first three weeks of August had been hotter than during the same period in 1936, year of the gerat drought.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 21 (AP)—Heinrich Goering, 30-year-old nephew of the late Nazi Reichsmarshal Herman Goering, escaped Sunday night from an internment camp near Kladno where he had been held since January, 1946, security officials said today. A country-wide search is underway.

Membership In U. N. Denied Italy, Austria

Argentina To Seek Abolition Of Veto

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 21 (AP) — Russia vetoed the aspirations of Italy and Austria for membership in the United Nations today and provoked an angry outcry over the big power voting privilege the Soviet Union now has used 18 times to block Security Council majorities.

Argentina moved swiftly to seek abolition of the veto privilege by submitting a resolution for the consideration of the General Assembly when it meets in New York September 16.

The Argentine government asked that the Assembly call a general conference of all the United Nations three days after the 55-nation body concludes its forthcoming session in order to consider revising the veto section of the United Nations charter.

This move was expected to set off the hottest battle in the Assembly yet over the veto. Since the organization was founded the small powers have fought unsuccessfully to abolish this big power privilege.

Seven Vetoes This Week

As Russia ran her string of vetoes to seven for this week, Council President Faris El Khoury, of Syria, used unprecedented language in announcing that the Soviet Union had blocked Italy's membership in the United Nations.

El Khoury said:

"The resolution is obstructed by one of the permanent members of the council."

No other council president had ever used such a reference to the veto. Previous procedure had been to say that "the resolution has failed."

Applications from Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary also were rejected through failure to get the necessary seven votes which must include those of all the Big Five in the Security Council. Only Syria supported these three and thus there was no veto involved.

United States Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson branded the latest Russian actions "an abuse of the veto power." Within the last three days Gromyko also has killed membership applications from Ireland, Portugal and Trans-Jordan and nullified two majority council decisions for settling disturbances in the Balkans.

Nine Support Italy

The vote on Italy and Austria came on an Australian resolution which noted that the peace treaties for the two had not ye come into force but would have given the 55-nation General Assembly the right to admit the countries at an appropriate time.

Nine delegates supported Italy, with Russia opposed and Poland abstaining. On Austria, France joined Poland in abstaining.

The ballots on Hungary and Bulgaria were 1 to 1 with nine absentions, Syria being in favor and the United States against. In the case

Tanker Fire At Albany Brought Under Control

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—A fire in the tanker Newmarket was brought under control at the port of Albany tonight in about an hour and a half after firemen had responded to three alarms.

The blaze, caused by a blown out generator, was confined to the engine room.

The entire port district was barred to the public while firemen fought the blaze because of the danger of an explosion from the ship's cargo or of spread of the fire to the storage tanks of the nearby Socony Vacuum Company.

Captain Fred Taucher, Baltimore, said his ship had deposited 27,000 barrels of gasoline at the Socony plant on the Albany side of the Hudson River and was about to cast off for the Shell Oil Company plant on the other side when he discovered the blaze.

Vet Accused Of Beating Estranged Wife And Carving Portions Of Body

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 21 (AP)—A handsome, 190-pound young husband tied his estranged, 90-pound wife to a hotel bed here during the night, then in drunken fury beat her and carved portions of her body for eight hours to show she was still married to him.

He carved crosses on her breasts and his initials on one of her thighs, County Solicitor Wayne Ripley quoted the 25-year-old bride of three months, then climaxed the night of torture by forcing her to knife her initials on one of his thighs.

Ripley identified the wife as Mrs. Jewell Ledford Lewis, agent for a Jacksonville life insurance firm; and her husband as Robert Eugene Lewis, 25, Wekanee, Ill., former staff sergeant with the Eighth Air Force, who said from his jail cell:

"Whatever my wife says about last night is true."

The story came to light early today when she telephoned police from the hotel lobby and from her tearful recitation, Solicitor Ripley gave this story:

They met during a weekend at Asheville, N. C., and were married May 24 at Toccoa, Ga., after she had met his family.

"He was wonderful until we were married," she said. "Then he changed. He wouldn't work and drank all the time. We lived on my earnings. His drinking became excessive and I couldn't stand it any longer." She left him three weeks ago.

Finally he asked her to meet him to sign some papers so he could get back into the Army. They went to his hotel room about 8 p. m.

When she entered, the first thing she saw in almost surgical array on the dresser was a straight razor, a hunting knife, electric wires, a belt, a bottle of liquor.

He threatened her, she said, then tied her to the bed with the wires and neckties. He began to beat her and slash her, stifling her cries with a pillow.

Frustrated Cops Watch Two Youths Speed Away With Judge's Blessing

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21—(AP)—Two young cousins strolled out of Baltimore City Court today, past the arms of police waiting to arrest them and sped away in a car while the frustrated cops looked on, all with the blessing of a judge.

Judge Michael J. Manley kept the cops, from Maryland and Pennsylvania, at bay with an order that the cousins, William H. Miller, 18, and George R. Miller, 20, Westminster, Md., be given a 15-minute head start.

The judge explained the head start was to avoid a possible automobile chase through downtown Baltimore. He instructed Assistant State's Attorney Alan H. Murrell to see that the order was enforced.

The Millers left in a hurry in a big gray sedan and several hours later police admitted they were still at liberty.

The "cat and mouse" game started earlier today when Pennsylvania police asked for the extradition of the Millers and Robert W. Green, Reisterstown, on charges of stealing airplane parts from Raymond Deveuer's airport in Hanover, Pa.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph D. Buscher, appointed by Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., to decide on the extradition order, told Judge Manley he felt the Millers should be freed. The judge agreed, remanding Green to the Pennsylvania authorities.

Buscher informed the judge he had a sympathetic attitude toward the Millers, but felt that Green should be extradited. Defense Attorney Wiley A. Ritchey, in asking for habeas corpus writs, told the court the airport owner informed Pennsylvania authorities he did not want to press the charges.

Ritchey said Denver asked withdrawal of the charges after learning the stolen parts belonged to Green, a former associate at the airfield. The Millers were charged specifically with helping Green to steal the parts.

Then Attorney Murrell stepped into the case. He informed the

Charges Hurled In Co-op Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Reps. Patman (D-Tex) and Ploeser (R-Mo) set up the scenery today for a major cross-country political show with mutual accusations of partisan purposes in an investigation of co-operatives starting tomorrow.

Patman, former chairman of the House Small Business Committee, led off with a statement saying he sees in committee plans for the hearings a scheme to "smear" co-operatives and make a political attack on President Truman and the Democratic Party.

Ploeser (R-Mo), who now heads the committee, came back with an accusation that Patman, now ranking Demacrat in the group, is trying to use the committee for partisan ends.

He implied a possibility that he might not put Patman on the subcommittee making the co-operative inquiry and said he hopes, that if he does name Patman, the Texan will avoid "continued partisanship."

Patman, rejoining in another statement, said his own administration of the committee had been "strictly non-political." He said he had started investigations only after consultation with the ranking Republican member, and that every report by the committee under him had been unanimous, including one on co-operatives.

In his first statement Patman complained of what he called plans for "an inquisition instead of an investigation" and said he saw an aim "to align the small businessmen of the nation against their farmer neighbors and customers."

Ploeser has said the purpose of the hearings is to "ascertain whether, and to what extent, tax-exempt privileges of co-operatives are harmful to free competitive enterprise."

Cobb Drives Giant Car 334.26 MPH In Trial Run

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 21. (AP)—World Record Holder John Cobb pronounced everything except the wind "quite satisfactory" today after he drove his giant car 334.26 miles per hour in a trial run on these salt flats.

When he would make his official race in an attempt to shatter his land speed records remained uncetrain tonight. Officials promised 24 hours' advance notice of the event.

They said, too, that five officials are expected to resign or be dismissed this week: Carl R. Schedler, W. Ellison Chalmers, Fred Livingston, Elaine Wright and William G. Brown.

President Truman today designated Howard T. Colvin to be acting director of the agency until Ching takes over next month. Colvin has been assistant chief of the old conciliation service.

Feasibility Of Exempting Sales Under 20 Cents From Tax Studied

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Maryland sales tax officials today began a study to determine the feasibility of exempting all purchases under 20 cents.

At the same time, Comptroller James J. Lacy estimated on the basis of collections for July that annual revenues would total more than $20,000,000.

Lacy said he would recommend an amendment to the present law, provided the study now being conducted by Walter E. Kennedy, Sales Tax Division chief, is favorable.

However both Lacy and Kennedy pointed out that it would be "foolhardy to place too much reliance on first collections."

"No final conclusion should be reached until the state has had more experience in collecting the tax," Lacy added.

Collections thus far for the month of July amount to $1,350,000, with returns not yet complete.

Lacy pointed out that the sales tax was originally intended to add $18,400,000 to the state's annual income.

Under the present law the two per cent levy is collected on retail purchases of 10 cents or more.

Meanwhile it was pointed out that a raised exemption might alleviate two criticisms of the present tax. First, it would eliminate the "nuisance" element to a great degree by removing the tax from individual purchases of such items as cigarettes, candy, beer, and many soda fountain items.

Secondly, it would help to ameliorate criticism that the tax is now much greater than two percent on small purchases. Customers paying a one-cent tax on a 10 cent item have complained that they are in reality paying 10 per cent.

Speaker C. Ferdinand Sybert (D-Howard) hailed the proposed tax change.

"If they bring such an amendment to the floor of the coming special session of the Legislature, it will have my hearty and personal support," he declared.

"This strikes at a much needed reform in the sales tax, for it is the tax on small purchases which is causing most of the trouble.

"I think such an amendment would pass easily."

Gromyko said he could not support Italy and Austria because the peace treaties were not in force. The Italian pact has been ratified by all the parties except the Soviet Union. The Austrian treaty has not yet been drafted.

The United States spearheaded the drive for admission of Italy and Austria. Johnson said it was "unjust for a well-qualified state such as Italy to be kept from immediate admission merely because one great power has not seen fit to ratify the treaty."

Johnson said further that "the people of Austria should not be penalized because of the unpleasant attitude of one great power."

Judge Manley replied not as long as they were in his court house, and he gave the Millers sanctuary in a jury room adjacent to his rooms. They sat there for more than an hour, while police waited patiently outside the building.

The Millers' attorney then got from Judge Manley a technical writ of habeas corpus and the 15-minute head start.

SLAIN GAMBLER'S GIRL FRIEND TAKES OVERDOSE OF SLEEPING TABLETS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 21. (AP)—Virginia Hill, girl friend of the slain gambler Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, was admitted to St. Francis Hospital tonight suffering from an overdose of sleeping tablets, Chief of Police P. R. Short said.

Chief Short said he went to the Hill home on Sunset Island No. 1 about 9 p. m., and "as near as I could find out, she took an overdose of sleeping pills."

She was reported "in good condition, with her heart and pulse beat strong."

Short also confirmed an earlier report that Miss Hill suffered from an overdose of sleeping tablets early Monday.

U. S., Britain Push Dollar Aid Talks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Anglo-American negotiators struggled against time today to bolster Britain's historic role in world commerce as the $2,750,000,000 British loan funds plunged toward a low of $400,000,000.

Financial experts met in three closed sessions at the Treasury, working under the breathing spell provided by last night's "freeze" of British dollar exchange, to consider further steps.

There also was a full dress session of all the negotiators. A Treasury Department statement afterwards said the "full picture" of Britain's financial prospects will not be clarified for another few weeks.

Sir Wilfrid Eady, British delegation chief, gave the Americans a "general forecast" of Britain's balance of payments position for the rest of this year and the first half of 1948.

The Treasury said Sir Wilfrid told of prospects for a boost in coal production in the British Isles to a point where coal exports might reach their pre-war volume and thus earn needed foreign exchange.

Both sides agreed that it is possible to be "fairly optimistic" in estimating prospects for increasing British exports.

"Particular reference" was laid during today's meeting on the problem of maintaining food imports at a level adequate to satisfy the British civilians, it said.

Charges Hurled In Co-op Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Reps. Patman (D-Tex) and Ploeser (R-Mo) set up the scenery today for a major cross-country political show with mutual accusations of partisan purposes in an investigation of co-operatives starting tomorrow.

Patman, former chairman of the House Small Business Committee, led off with a statement saying he sees in committee plans for the hearings a scheme to "smear" co-operatives and make a political attack on President Truman and the Democratic Party.

Ploeser (R-Mo), who now heads the committee, came back with an accusation that Patman, now ranking Demacrat in the group, is trying to use the committee for partisan ends.

He implied a possibility that he might not put Patman on the subcommittee making the co-operative inquiry and said he hopes, that if he does name Patman, the Texan will avoid "continued partisanship.'

Patman, rejoining in another statement, said his own administration of the committee had been "strictly non-political." He said he had started investigations only after consultation with the ranking Republican member, and that every report by the committee under him had been unanimous, including one on co-operatives.

In his first statement Patman complained of what he called plans for "an inquisition instead of an investigation" and said he saw an aim "to align the small businessmen of the nation against their farmer neighbors and customers."

Ploeser has said the purpose of the hearings is to "ascertain whether, and to what extent, tax-exempt privileges of co-operatives are harmful to free competitive enterprise."

Cobb Drives Giant Car 334.26 MPH In Trial Run

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 21. (AP)—World Record Holder John Cobb pronounced everything except the wind "quite satisfactory" today after he drove his giant car 334.26 miles per hour in a trial run on these salt flats.

When he would make his official race in an attempt to shatter his land speed records remained uncetrain tonight. Officials promised 24 hours' advance notice of the event.

A strong crosswind kept Ab Jenkins, of Salt Lake City, from trying today to break four international and four national Class D marks.

They said, too, that five officials are expected to resign or be dismissed this week: Carl R. Schedler, W. Ellison Chalmers, Fred Livingston, Elaine Wright and William G. Brown.

President Truman today designated Howard T. Colvin to be acting director of the agency until Ching takes over next month. Colvin has been assistant chief of the old conciliation service.

Feasibility Of Exempting Sales Under 20 Cents From Tax Studied

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP) — Maryland sales tax officials today began a study to determine the feasibility of exempting all purchases under 20 cents.

At the same time, Comptroller James J. Lacy estimated on the basis of collections for July that annual revenues would total more than $20,000,000.

Lacy said he would recommend an amendment to the present law, provided the study now being conducted by Walter E. Kennedy, Sales Tax Division chief, is favorable.

However both Lacy and Kennedy pointed out that it would be "foolhardy to place too much reliance on first collections."

"No final conclusion should be reached until the state has had more experience in collecting the tax," Lacy added.

Collections thus far for the month of July amount to $1,350,000, with returns not yet complete.

Lacy pointed out that the sales tax was originally intended to add $18,400,000 to the state's annual income.

Under the present law the two per cent levy is collected on retail purchases of 10 cents or more.

Meanwhile it was pointed out that a raised exemption might alleviate two criticisms of the present tax. First, it would eliminate the "nuisance" element to a great degree by removing the tax from individual purchases of such items as cigarettes, candy, beer, and many soda fountain items.

Secondly, it would help to ameliorate criticism that the tax is now much greater than two percent on small purchases. Customers paying a one-cent tax on a 10 cent item have complained that they are in reality paying 10 per cent.

Speaker C. Ferdinand Sybert (D-Howard) hailed the proposed tax change.

"If they bring such an amendment to the floor of the coming special session of the Legislature, it will have my hearty and personal support," he declared.

"This strikes at a much needed reform in the sales tax, for it is the tax on small purchases which is causing most of the trouble.

"I think such an amendment would pass easily."

Gromyko said he could not support Italy and Austria because the peace treaties were not in force. The Italian pact has been ratified by all the parties except the Soviet Union. The Austrian treaty has not yet been drafted.

The United States spearheaded the drive for admission of Italy and Austria. Johnson said it was "unjust for a well-qualified state such as Italy to be kept from immediate admission merely because one great power has not seen fit to ratify the treaty."

Johnson said further that "the people of Austria should not be penalized because of the unpleasant attitude of one great power."

SLAIN GAMBLER'S GIRL FRIEND TAKES OVERDOSE OF SLEEPING TABLETS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 21. (AP)—Virginia Hill, girl friend of the slain gambler Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, was admitted to St. Francis Hospital tonight suffering from an overdose of sleeping tablets, Chief of Police P. R. Short said.

Chief Short said he went to the Hill home on Sunset Island No. 1 about 9 p. m., and "as near as I could find out, she took an overdose of sleeping pills."

She was reported "in good condition, with her heart and pulse beat strong."

Short also confirmed an earlier report that Miss Hill suffered from an overdose of sleeping tablets early Monday.

U. S., Britain Push Dollar Aid Talks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Anglo-American negotiators struggled against time today to bolster Britain's historic role in world commerce as the $2,750,000,000 British loan funds plunged toward a low of $400,000,000.

Financial experts met in three closed sessions at the Treasury, working under the breathing spell provided by last night's "freeze" of British dollar exchange, to consider further steps.

There also was a full dress session of all the negotiators. A Treasury Department statement afterwards said the "full picture" of Britain's financial prospects will not be clarified for another few weeks.

Sir Wilfrid Eady, British delegation chief, gave the Americans a "general forecast" of Britain's balance of payments position for the rest of this year and the first half of 1948.

The Treasury said Sir Wilfrid told of prospects for a boost in coal production in the British Isles to a point where coal exports might reach their pre-war volume and thus earn needed foreign exchange.

Both sides agreed that it is possible to be "fairly optimistic" in estimating prospects for increasing British exports.

"Particular reference" was laid during today's meeting on the problem of maintaining food imports at a level adequate to satisfy the British civilians, it said.

Italy's Summer Puts Beer In Black Market

ROME—(AP)—In the gray clouds darkening Italy's economic skies last spring, there was one spot of brilliant amber.

Latter-day subjects of old Gambrinus all but whooped with glee when the big Dreher brewery at Trieste bought newspaper space to advertise:

"Dreher is happy to assure its distinguished clientele that deliveries of its beer will be normal this season."

But unreasonably hot weather, with July and August temperatures pushing 100 fahrenheit, upset the beer-cart.

Peroni, the big Rome brewery, has announced that recent inordinate consumption, has forced it to ration the fluid, and Dreher has hinted that it may follow suit.

Worse, beer promptly joined flour, spaghetti, coffee, sugar, tobacco and other scarce commodities on the black market, and some bars upped prices 40 per cent.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist fer Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

The Reminder Comes Once Weekly To Every American

With Congress in adjournment for nearly a month now, and the smoke of last minute partisan harangues dissipated, there stands revealed the solitary and almost incredible figure of a President who vetoed a bill to lighten the burden of taxation at a time when there was a surplus, and of which Mr. Truman spoke very definitely in his statement issued and published in this newspaper yesterday.

No other President ever presumed to do this, and circumstances make Mr. Truman's case still more singular than appears on the surface. He was not elected President. Though the war has been over nearly two years, he used the veto to sustain the weight of war taxes. By nearly two to one—in each case with heavy Democratic support—both Houses reiterated, in the face of his reiterated vetoes, their demand that this relief be given.

From now on, some 26,000,000 taxpayers will continue to pay the full rates which Congress had voted to lighten. For example, by the end of this month, the American whose withholding tax is $6.80 a week will have taken home $12.60 less than he would have taken if Mr. Truman had not vetoed the bill which Congress passed, decreeing tax reductions from July 1 on. By the end of the year, that taxpayer will be about $38 poorer than he would have been had not Mr. Truman vetoed the measure.

If the citizen is in the middle brackets, with a weekly withholding tax of $19.40, he will suffer more in amount, although less in proportion, than the worker above noted. By the end of August, that veto will have cost him $43.20. By the end of the year it will have cost him about $130.

Whatever the income of the American taxpayer, he will have continuous reminders that an American President did what no President ever did before, deprived him of a cut in taxes when the nation's finances would have permitted it. (Mr. Truman says that expenditures for the current fiscal year will be $37,000,000,000, while net receipts will total $41,700,000,000, thus leaving a surplus next June 30 of $70,000,000), and when an overwhelming majority of both Houses of Congress (but not quite two-thirds) had voted this measure of relief.

For his substantial loss, incurred each week, each month and for the half year, the taxpayer may have what satisfaction he can in pondering Mr. Truman's curious claim that the bill should have made heavier cuts in the lower income tax brackets as compared to the higher. If the taxpayer is interested in computations, he can take the President's figures and prove that they show just the opposite.

Thus every week the taxpayer will face the fact that, to his own loss, an Administration tried to play politics, and it was poor politics.

Europe Is Full Of Such Persons As Herr Mueller

A great deal of insight into what is wrong with Europe is provided by a little news story from the American zone of Berlin. It is against regulations there to refuse a job. One Herr Mueller was arrested for violating the ordinance.

What sense is there, Mueller asked the magistrate, in working regularly? The more he slept, the less he ate. The less he ate, the more of his rationed quota of food he could sell for a profit on the black market. By sleeping through one mealtime a day he made twice as much this way as he would have earned by working.

There is nothing in this story to create admiration for Herr Mueller. As an individual, he's no particular credit to the human race. But the disease affecting Europe is something more than the sum of the faults of individuals. Europe is full of Muellers today. That's why it cannot produce. But the same people were keeping production at high levels not many years ago. Why?

The answer, as the case of Mueller shows, can be summed up in one word: Incentive. Any society which stops providing incentives to work will suddenly develop a large number of individuals who work as little as possible. Conversely, the same individuals will work hard in a society which provides incentives that are strong enough.

Failure to restore German production is therefore, in large part, a failure to provide adequate incentive. Give Herr Mueller better pay, a respected status or hope for the future and he will stop sleeping until noon. Wipe out the black market and he will have no incentive to hoard food.

Putting him in jail will not increase German production. Calling him a worthless do-nothing—which he is—will solve nothing.

Automobiles And Their Relation To A Depression

Those who are planning to buy a new car this fall may discover that their chances are a bit brighter than they have been, although salesmen, with the possible exception of those for one or two makes, will not be chasing them down the street offering immediate delivery of their particular brands.

Current output of passenger cars is at the rate of 3,600,000 units a year. This is 70 per cent above the 1946 performance. But it is far below the capabilities of the nation's industrial machine if it had been unhampered by continuing steel shortages, parts scarcities and what left wingers refer to, solicitiously, as "work stoppages."

But from this situation economists can conjure up encouraging words. First, there were estimates that a vast step-up in automobile production would be necessary to reach a postwar total of 60,000,000 jobs. (The auto workers union said an annual production rate of 8,800,000 units would be necessary). More than 60,000,000 persons are employed, although auto production is one-half of the crazy figure the CIO said would be necessary.

Second, say the economists, if early production goals had been attained and the demand for new cars had been satisfied there would have been danger of a real slump. According to this line of reasoning, the indicated ability of the industry to sell all it can produce for several more years at least, provides a strong bulwark against depression.

Now that the heat wave is ended, conversations no doubt will return to the subject of whether the price of gold will be boosted.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

PILONIDAL DISEASE

PILONIDAL sinuses and cysts at the base of the spine are innocent looking lesions, but they can prove to be the meanest and most difficult to eradicate. To understand the abnormality we must go back to the embryo. At some time in our development, long before birth, a tiny canal existed between the clusters of cells destined to form the intestine and spinal cord.

This passageway usually closes and disappears completely, but in many individuals remnants or parts remain. Occasionally a dimple or pocket of skin is observed at the lowermost portion of the spine. It is here that the tip of the canal was formerly attached to the surface. Others are left with a deeper pocket which has an external opening so fine that it is never noticed unless infection occurs. Now and then the internal cavity becomes a cyst and contains hair or other skin-like structures. All of these possibilities may be present for years or a lifetime and never cause trouble. On the other hand, if the tract is invaded by bacteria or injured in any way, the area manifests its displeasure by becoming swollen and tender.

The resulting abscesses seem to come and go. Between flare-ups the victim is bothered by a pus-like discharge from the region which continues so long as the pathway remains open. A bandage must be worn to keep the material from contaminating the underwear.

During World War II, the medical officers encountered a large number of cases of pilonidal disease. The men had entered the service with no apparent defect and few were aware that the disturbance existed. Sooner or later, the tissues were traumatized and the jeep was the greatest offender. The fireworks began after hitting bumps in the road and landing "kerplunk" right on the spot. It is a little wonder that the condition was soon nicknamed "jeep disease.'

But injury was not always the source of difficulty. Many of the men did not have an opportunity to bathe as often as necessary. Some spent days or weeks away from their bases, perhaps in a jungle or trench. Lack of cleanliness invited infection and before long an abscess ensued. Such hazards are less common to civilians and consequently, the disturbance is not as prevalent during peace time. Probably half a lifetime of trauma must pass before the anomaly manifests itself; hence it is usually noted first during middle age.

As a rule, surgery is required. If an abscess has formed, incision for drainage is necessary first. After healing takes place, removal of the entire sinus and cyst will be essential to prevent recurrence. But every bit of the tract must be eradicated if operation is to be successful. There are certain technical difficulties to this procedure which are hard to overcome. In many instances, the surgeon does not sew the wound together but allows the now vacant spot, from which the lesion was extirpated, to fill in by itself and close spontaneously.

BLISTERED LIPS

O. W. writes: Every summer I develop fever blisters on my lips after the slightest exposure to the sun. This interferes with swimming and other sports. Is there any way to prevent these outbreaks?

REPLY

The lips can be burned by the sun and herpes may develop in those who are extremely sensitive. The area may also suffer from the drying effect of these rays. The application of some of the newer creams that are not soluble in water may prove successful unless you exhibit a true allergy to light.

NEUROLOGICAL MALADY

M. C. F. writes: Will you please give some information on Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease?

REPLY

In this disturbance, degeneration of certain nerves occurs which often leads to loss of strength and paralysis of one leg or the other. Now and then the extremities become so thin that the term "stork legs" is used. The cause is unknown except that the disorder has a hereditary tendency.

SKULL SENSATION

M. L. writes: What is the reason for a sort of shivering feeling on top and in back of the head?

REPLY

A cool head.

HOT WEATHER DROPSY

M. M. writes: What causes swelling of the feet and ankles on hot days?

REPLY

There is no satisfactory explanation as the condition is known to occur in perfectly healthy individuals. Heat may dilate the vessels to such an extent that fluid accumulates and cannot be absorbed as readily as it should. In others, the glandular system is at fault.

RED-EYED

J. T. writes: A friend of mine is having trouble with her eyes. She is in her late 40s and I believe is going through the change. Could this be the cause of red-rimmed eyelids that are slightly inflamed?

REPLY

These eye symptoms are not characteristic of the menopause. My suggestion would be that your friend consult an eye physician to find out the cause of her trouble.

LOST HER SPARKLE

Mrs. M. writes: I used to be the life of the party after two drinks. Now, after 10 years of drinking, alcohol makes me drowsy and pepless. Can you explain this?

REPLY

Ten years makes a lot of difference. You may have acquired a tolerance to alcohol. The effect of liquor depends somewhat on the environment and companions. Bear in mind that "the life of the party" is usually self-designated. To others, such a person may be a nuisance.

THE GOOD NEIGHBORS MEET AT THE LAUNDRY SERVICE

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Former Secretary Of State Byrnes Feels That Diplomats Who Believe In Peace Can Work With Russia; Carroll Reece Is Peron's Guest; Expose of Steel Looms

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—James F. Byrnes, trigger-smart former Secretary of State now practicing law in Washington, has been following the Administration's policy with intense interest. This is particularly true as regards relations with Soviet Russia, with whom Byrnes had protracted, and at times painful, encounters during a number of conferences.

An old friend asked Byrnes if he thought it was possible for the U. S. and U. S. S. R to reach a better understanding. This was Byrnes' reply:

'I think it is, and this is my formula. Get people who believe deeply that we can find a basis for working with the Russians. Then support these people to the limit. When they start getting discouraged and cynical, replace them with others who are confident that a solution can be found.

"As is evident, such a program would take time, patience, brains and courage. But I believe it would work. I certainly think it would be worthwhile trying. War is a terrifying alternative to consider."

Note: Another old friend recently remarked to Byrnes "Too bad you resigned, Jimmy." to which Byrnes shot back, "Who said I resigned?"

Peron Guests

Republican National Chairman B. Carroll Reece arrived in Buenos Aires several days ago with his wife and daughter for what he described to reporters as "just a little holiday." The GOP Chairman was given a 40-dollar-a-day suite in the Argentine capital's swankiest hotel, the Plaza. Officials of the Foreign Ministry instructed the hostelry's management that all food and drinks ordered by the Reeces be charged to the government. An automobile with private license plates, rented by the Ministry from Buenos Aires' leading funeral parlor, was placed at the visitors' service.

The Reece family joined several other Peron guests in the Plaza, Harold McCormack of the Moore-McCormack Steamship Lines, with his wife, and Edward Fenton, head of the U. S. Public Relations Council, were already installed there on an all-expense basis.

Fenton came to Busnos Aires to negotiate final terms of a contract which, he told newsmen in New York, may involve expenditure of $5,000,000 in the United States to extol the virtues of the Argentine's flamboyant Chief Executive and his grandiose five-year plan.

The publicist's statement created considerable annoyance in Buenos Aires Government circles. Carried by the wire services, it served as the basis for unfavorable comment in several opposition papers. One miffled Peron official remarked: "Mr. Fenton will have to explain away his indiscretion before he talks about anything else."

Succotash

Despite official pleas that veterans hold on to their terminal leave bonds, indications are that at least 75 per cent will cash them by the end of the year . . . W. E. (Red) James, brilliant young former FCC attorney and veteran of Iwo Jima and Okinawa, is being strongly urged by Alabama ex-servicemen to run for the seat now held by Representative George Grant. James is one of five brothers who served in the armed forces during the war . . . There is a lot of hush-hush about it, but a Swiss attorney for the Nazi executives of the giant I. G. Farben cartel, facing early trial by the U. S., suddenly popped up in Washington for the ostensible purpose of persuading the Alien Property Custodian to "unfreeze" some Farben funds to pay for legal expenses. The Swiss got a curt brush-off . . . The Alien Property Custodian, a section of the Justice Department, holds over $300,000,000 in impounded German property . . . Paul McNutt, former U. S. Ambassador to the Philippines, has told Indiana friends he favors the state's delegation being pledged to President Truman . . . Memoirs of the late Harry Hopkins, being completed by his close friend, playwright Robert Sherwood, have been purchased by Collier's magazine. They will be as sensational as Jim Farley's but from an entirely different viewpoint . . . The 8-inch guns now being installed on new U. S. cruisers fire four times faster than those during the war . . . This year's "National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" will be from October 5 to 11. The 1946 campaign resulted in 29,439 handicappetd bersons being placed in gainful employment, 19,200 of them disabled veterans. President Truman and other national leaders are strongly backing the 1947 drive . . . Senator Harold McGrath, R. I., is lining up backing for his bill to reimburse U. S. civilians for damages incurred as Jap prisoners . . . Representative Margaret Chase Smith, able, hard-working Maine Republican, is losing no time campaigning for the seat of retiring Senator Wallace White. If elected, Mrs. Smith would be the first woman Senator from New England . . . Like President Truman, forthright Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Republican foreign affairs leader, is an amateur pianist. His favorite tune is "When You Wore a Tulip."

Steel Hoarders

The forthcoming Senate Small Business Committee hearing on the critical steel shortage will put the State Department, Army and Navy on the spot.

The committee will reveal State as very open-handed in granting licenses for large-scale exports abroad, and the two military services as hoarding huge quantities of unusued steel.

Before leaving Washington on his vacation, Senator Bob Taft sent the committee a complaint from an Ohio manufacturer charging the Army and Navy with hoarding over 500,000 tons of steel.

The committee hearings, under the Chairmanship of Senator Edward Martin, (R.), Pa., will bring a number of top steel executives to the witness stand for sharp questioning.

President Truman's Claim Of Sound Fiscal Policy Questioned

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The President's Economic Report says that "the sound fiscal policies that the Government has been following have been vindicated by every test of experience."

Is it sound fiscal policy for the Government not to balance its budget for 17 years; to tax away forty billion dollars of the peoples' income; to promote price inflation by encouraging more pay for no more work; to give engraving plates to Stalin to print unlimited quantities of German paper marks redeemable in American dollars?

This egotistical report should be set against remarks by Thomas I. Parkinson, President of the Equitable Life Assurance Scoiety, our third largest life insurance company. Mr. Parkinson has no word of praise for the "sound fiscal policies" of the Government. He says "higher wages and higher prices result from the inflation of the money supply." And who causes that? The Government.

Is it sound fiscal policy to depreciate the purchasing power of every dollar invested in social security, pensions, savings accounts, life insurance, and government bonds?

An advertisement of the Treasury Department says: "The United States Government protects every dollar you invest. For example, you have an absolute guarantee that, in ten years, you'll get back $400 for every $300 you put in Series E Bonds." But, if in ten years, the $400 won't buy as much as $300 now, does that protect "every dollar you invest."

The mortgage debt on American homes is at an all-time peak—15% higher than in 1930, the previous top. The total at the end of 1946 was $24,600,000,000. The debt increased more that year than in the previous ten years.

Causes: Scarcity of homes, due to growth of population and the return of the G. I.'s.

O. P. A. rent controls which discouraged new building.

Sky-rocketing building costs for labor and material.

G. I. loans on housing at 100% of value.

Inflation caused by government policies.

On the bright side, repayments in 1946 were also high. But a $25,000,000,000 home mortgage debt is a stop-look-and-listen sign which no one should ignore.

The greatest drive in labor union history was to get American workingmen to protest against the "monstrous slave labor" bill. Yet only 1 in 20 A. F. of L. members, and only 1 in 15 C. I. O. members was induced to invest three cents in a letter to Congress, or the President. When from 93% to 95% of the voters stay away from the polls, it is a fair guess that they say "nuts."

The campaign against the Taft-Hartley Bill will go down as one of the greatest flops in the history of advertising propaganda. Will the labor bosses take the hint?

President of Railway Trainmen, A. F. Whitney, once said he would spent forty-seven million bucks to beat Truman in 1948. This was when Truman asked Congress to draft the railroad strikers into the army and subject them to martial law. But, after Truman vetoed the Taft-Hartley Bill, Whitney's angry passions cooled and he now says he won't help Henry Wallace beat Truman with a third party stick. However, a third party is on the make in California. James Roosevelt is Democratic State Chairman out there and is he on a hot spot, or something pretty warm? His mother is agin' the third party.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

There'll be a lot of excitement in San Francisco August 24th when the Los Angeles Dons play the Forty-Niners. (The Forty-Niners are a football team . . . not the Republican Party.) It'll be the first professional football game of the west coast season with all money being donated to the Hearst Charity Fund.

I've been invited to entertain between halves at the game, but I don't know if I like the idea. I've played split weeks before, but filling in for a water boy is just too much. At first they wanted me to do my act at a night game, but then they fixed the lights.

I guess I'll be a sort of M. C. with padded shoulders, but it doesn't bother me a bit. It won't be the first time I've had to go on with protection. Naturally, I'll give the boys a pep talk. I've got a few plays of my own that are dynamite: the worst that can happen is that they'll get flat.

Don Ameche, the movie star, owns a part of the Dons and it promises to be very colorful. In fact, Don wants his whole team to play "The Life of Notre Dame."

I'm worried about this thing, though. The last time I did my act between halves at a football game the spectators followed the players into the locker rooms. So if you read about a sensational 100-yard dash, don't get excited. It won't be the star player . . . Just me, running for the exit.

Taft-Hartley Labor Law Will Help Legitimate Trade Unionism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Whatever else may be said of the Taft-Hartley Act, it is going to help in certain respects the cause of legitimate trade unionism and begin to rid the American labor movement of communist officers.

Already the new law is pinching hard those unions which have communist officers. Until now the rank and file may not have believed charges that their officers were communists—they may never have known the facts. Now when a communist officer refuses to sign the affidavits required by law, everybody will know who he is. The union which openly refuses to avail itself of National Labor Relations Board facilities to ensure the certification of a bargaining unit or to prevent unfair labor practices will be advertising its affiliation with communist officers.

Already the American Federation of Labor, which for several years has been carrying on a notable battle against communists, has announced that it will comply with the requirements of the law. It is difficult to see how the CIO, which has some unions with communist officers. Clearly the AFL and various independent unions can raid the CIO ranks for new members and get certification from the national Labor Relations Board.

Resistance By CIO Doubtful

It appears doubtful that the CIO will resist that kind of invasion very long, despite all the talk about not using the National Labor Relations Board services. The statute has a very simple requirement. It says:

"No complaint shall be issued pursuant to a charge made by a labor organization . . . Unless there is on file with the board an affidavit executed contemporaneously or within the preceding twelve-month period by each officer of such labor organization and the officers of any national or international organization of which it is an affiliate or constituent unit that he is not a member of the communist party or affiliated with such party, and that he does not believe in and is not a member of or supports any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force or by illegal or unconstitutional methods."

This means that a union which has complied with that requirement will have no standing in court when it complains that an employer has coerced or unduly influenced workers in the matter of joining a union or has committed any of the "unfair labor practices" enumerated in the original Wagner Law and now reaffirmed in the Taft-Hartley Act. It cannot get its case heard by the labor board—which is the prescribed method of getting access to the courts—when there is no compliance with the law's requirement about communist officers.

There has been some loose talk about unions "snubbing" or avoiding the National Labor Relations Board. This hardly seems likely, because the board affords the maximum protection to a union to retain its rights. If a union loses its majority, it cannot lose its certification as the bargaining agent except by an election held at specified times, but an employer who chose to deal with a new bargaining agent among his employees would be free to do so at any time if the union which had the original certification fails to file the proper affidavits and to comply with the law.

Unions Can Not Take Risk

There will, of course, be communist officers who will refuse to sign any affidavits. The remedy there is simple. The union will merely remove the officers or say, in effect, to the public that the union in question cares more about retaining a communist in office than it does about complying with the law of the land. It doesn't seem probably that many unions will take the risks in a continued defiance of the law by standing by the communist officers.

Then there is the question of suits. Would a union with communist officers which may be accused of violating a contract and thinks it has a good defense have any standing in the event that persons injured by the union's acts or the acts of its agents begin to file suits for damages? There are all kinds of tangles awaiting the unions that are loyal to their communist officers but most of the tangles are of the inter-union variety. The new law opens the door to a drive on communists by certain unions against other unions. This has never been possible before and it ought to end communist control of unions in America.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Terror In Palestine

The following is from a letter to me from a Jewish official of Palestine:

". . . even the terrorists were willing to respond to (the United Nations) appeal (for peace), provided that the Palestine Government did not carry out the sentence of death passed on the three members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi who had been involved in the Acre jail break of a few months ago . . . The Palestine Administration, however, confirmed the death sentence. As a result, the Ingun threatened reprisals and on July 11 succeeded in kidnapping two members of the British Forces stationed in Palestine.

"Tension was heightened on July 17, when the refugee ship 'Exodus 1947' was intercepted outside Palestine territorial waters and rammed by British naval forces. When the vessel was brought into Haifa harbor, with its 4,500 refugees aboard, it was found that three Jews had been killed, including the first mate of the boat, a United State citizen named William Bernstein. According to the eye-witness account of Mr. Grauel, an American clergyman who had been aboard throughout the journey, Bernstein had been clubbed to death. On July 18 the refugees were transferred to deportation vessels, and on July 21 the Foreign Office confirmed that the people were not being sent to Cyprus, but were being returned to France 'as Cyprus had not proved a sufficient detterent.' This action on the part of the British immediately led, as might have been expected, to a series of terrorist outrages.

"Despite the fact that the kidnapped British sergeants had not yet been located, the Government announced on July 28 that the three members of the Irgun were to be hanged on the following day, and the sentence of death was duly carried out. At this point, members of the Haganah began their own search for the kidnapped men, in order to save them from Irgun retaliation, but on July 30 the sergeants were found dead. Horrified at this action by the Irgun, the organized Jewish community determined to take strong measures to root out the terrorists, but just as they were about to carry out their plans news came that British troops or police (the military have denied that soldiers were involved) ran riot in Tel Aviv where they machine-gunned civilians, killing five persons and wounding scores of others . . .

"Just over a year ago, on July 29, 1946, the British arrested the leaders of the Jewish Agency in an effort to discredit this internationally recognized body prior to the Round Table Talks arranged in London during the Summer of las year . . .

"British action during the last six weeks seems designed to make impossible cooperation with the authorities in the suppression of terrorism for which the British have ostensibly been calling. The deportation of the 'Exodus' refugees, for example, was obviously an action which would forestall any cooperation on the part of the Jewish population in this respect. Again two of the Mayors arrested were among the Jewish leaders who had drawn up a plan to root out the terror. Finally, the British must have realized that the execution of the three Irgunists, just at a time when the Haganah was trying to locate the kidnapped Britishers, was likely to be construed as provocation.

"One is reluctantly forced, therefore, to the conclusion that the British are not anxious to have peace in Palestine. This attitude gives added impetus to Arab intransigence and once again as in 1929, the Arabs feel that 'the Government is with us.' The mass of the Palestinian Arabs do not want to begin with disturbances, as these proved highly unprofitable for them in 1936. But it is only natural that they should be willing to 'cash in' on the results of British policy. The Mufti, in particular, is taking every advantage of the general unrest to incite his followers to violence . . ."

This statement of facts speaks for itself and requires little comment. The British lost Ireland, India, Egypt; their influence in Malaya and Indonesia has gone because of similar situations and similar unfortunate judgments. They cannot apparently learn that other human beings prefer death to injustice.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The Plough

Edward Thomas, the English poet, who was killed in the recent war, was a literary man of high merit. He once wrote that "the ship, the chariot, the plough, thees three are, I suppose, the most sovereign beautiful things which man has made in his time."

Take the plough, for example. Has there been any single piece of man's ingenuity that can equal the useful ness and influence that the plough has created? Think of the benefits to mankind all over the world that have accrued because of the plough. It inspired Burns, as he walked behind it and meditated upon the wonders of nature, as it had indeed inspired thousands of others, though with no talent to spread it to the world. And Cromwell left the plough to rule England for a time.

The very act of walking—or even of riding these days—behind the plough, is something to instill a certain affection for the good earth. Digging into it, overturning it, giving to it a new mixture, a new look at the sunlight, and nestling its forces for production. Who can adequately measure out the usefulness of the plough?

Nevre do I see a man ploughing in a field that I do not speculate upon the thoughts of that man as he silently holds to the handles of his plough, guiding its way ahead, wondering about the weather, thinking of the profit accruing from his labor, or of how he shall decide to use that profit. Perhaps it will be to pay some of the mortgage, or send a boy to school, or put a little more beauty into the place he loves as home.

Into the earth the point of the plough plunges, its silvery surface polished by the rub of the moist dirt that it tosses over with such precision. Furrow after furrow. Ribbon's of God's chemicals, woven into acres of richness. You can almost humanize the plough and call it the "John, the Baptist" of the field—going on ahead, preparing the way, for nutriment, for glad harvests, and making for profitable commerce.

Just watch that sturdy plough. Note its forward march. How responsive to the hands behind! Imagine what a different world this would be had all the precious metals wasted in war, and in killing, been diverted into the making of ploughs to benefit all mankind! There is plenty of fertile land—but not enough ploughs and ready hands to steer them.

Former World War II officers who will receive their college degrees before July 15, 1947, will be given an opportunity to apply for regular Army commissions.

The Reminder Comes Once Weekly To Every American

With Congress in adjournment for nearly a month now, and the smoke of last minute partisan harangues dissipated, there stands revealed the solitary and almost incredible figure of a President who vetoed a bill to lighten the burden of taxation at a time when there was a surplus, and of which Mr. Truman spoke very definitely in his statement issued and published in this newspaper yesterday.

No other President ever presumed to do this, and circumstances make Mr. Truman's case still more singular than appears on the surface. He was not elected President. Though the war has been over nearly two years, he used the veto to sustain the weight of war taxes. By nearly two to one—in each case with heavy Democratic support—both Houses reiterated, in the face of his reiterated vetoes, their demand that this relief be given.

From now on, some 26,000,000 taxpayers will continue to pay the full rates which Congress had voted to lighten. For example, by the end of this month, the American whose withholding tax is $6.80 a week will have taken home $12.60 less than he would have taken if Mr. Truman had not vetoed the bill which Congress passed, decreeing tax reductions from July 1 on. By the end of the year, that taxpayer will be about $38 poorer than he would have been had not Mr. Truman vetoed the measure.

If the citizen is in the middle brackets, with a weekly withholding tax of $19.40, he will suffer more in amount, although less in proportion, than the worker above noted. By the end of August, that veto will have cost him $43.20. By the end of the year it will have cost him about $130.

Whatever the income of the American taxpayer, he will have continuous reminders that an American President did what no President ever did before, deprived him of a cut in taxes when the nation's finances would have permitted it. (Mr. Truman says that expenditures for the current fiscal year will be $37,000,000,000, while net receipts will total $41,700,000,000, thus leaving a surplus next June 30 of $70,000,000), and when an overwhelming majority of both Houses of Congress (but not quite two-thirds) had voted this measure of relief.

For his substantial loss, incurred each week, each month and for the half year, the taxpayer may have what satisfaction he can in pondering Mr. Truman's curious claim that the bill should have made heavier cuts in the lower income tax brackets as compared to the higher. If the taxpayer is interested in computations, he can take the President's figures and prove that they show just the opposite.

Thus every week the taxpayer will face the fact that, to his own loss, an Administration tried to play politics, and it was poor politics.

Europe Is Full Of Such Persons As Herr Mueller

A great deal of insight into what is wrong with Europe is provided by a little news story from the American zone of Berlin. It is against regulations there to refuse a job. One Herr Mueller was arrested for violating the ordinance.

What sense is there, Mueller asked the magistrate, in working regularly? The more he slept, the less he ate. The less he ate, the more of his rationed quota of food he could sell for a profit on the black market. By sleeping through one mealtime a day he made twice as much this way as he would have earned by working.

There is nothing in this story to create admiration for Herr Mueller. As an individual, he's no particular credit to the human race. But the disease affecting Europe is something more than the sum of the faults of individuals. Europe is full of Muellers today. That's why it cannot produce. But the same people were keeping production at high levels not many years ago. Why?

The answer, as the case of Mueller shows, can be summed up in one word: Incentive. Any society which stops providing incentives to work will suddenly develop a large number of individuals who work as little as possible. Conversely, the same individuals will work hard in a society which provides incentives that are strong enough.

Failure to restore German production is therefore, in large part, a failure to provide adequate incentive. Give Herr Mueller better pay, a respected status or hope for the future and he will stop sleeping until noon. Wipe out the black market and he will have no incentive to hoard food.

Putting him in jail will not increase German production. Calling him a worthless do-nothing—which he is—will solve nothing.

Automobiles And Their Relation To A Depression

Those who are planning to buy a new car this fall may discover that their chances are a bit brighter than they have been, although salesmen, with the possible exception of those for one or two makes, will not be chasing them down the street offering immediate delivery of their particular brands.

Current output of passenger cars is at the rate of 3,600,000 units a year. This is 70 per cent above the 1946 performance. But it is far below the capabilities of the nation's industrial machine if it had been unhampered by continuing steel shortages, parts scarcities and what left wingers refer to, solicitiously, as "work stoppages."

But from this situation economists can conjure up encouraging words. First, there were estimates that a vast step-up in automobile production would be necessary to reach a postwar total of 60,000,000 jobs. (The auto workers union said an annual production rate of 8,800,000 units would be necessary). More than 60,000,000 persons are employed, although auto production is one-half of the crazy figure the CIO said would be necessary.

Second, say the economists, if early production goals had been attained and the demand for new cars had been satisfied there would have been danger of a real slump. According to this line of reasoning, the indicated ability of the industry to sell all it can produce for several more years at least, provides a strong bulwark against depression.

Now that the heat wave is ended, conversations no doubt will return to the subject of whether the price of gold will be boosted.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

PILONIDAL DISEASE

PILONIDAL sinuses and cysts at the base of the spine are innocent looking lesions, but they can prove to be the meanest and most difficult to eradicate. To understand the abnormality we must go back to the embryo. At some time in our development, long before birth, a tiny canal existed between the clusters of cells destined to form the intestine and spinal cord.

This passageway usually closes and disappears completely, but in many individuals remnants or parts remain. Occasionally a dimple or pocket of skin is observed at the lowermost portion of the spine. It is here that the tip of the canal was formerly attached to the surface. Others are left with a deeper pocket which has an external opening so fine that it is never noticed unless infection occurs. Now and then the internal cavity becomes a cyst and contains hair or other skin-like structures. All of these possibilities may be present for years or a lifetime and never cause trouble. On the other hand, if the tract is invaded by bacteria or injured in any way, the area manifests its displeasure by becoming swollen and tender.

The resulting abscesses seem to come and go. Between flare-ups the victim is bothered by a pus-like discharge from the region which continues so long as the pathway remains open. A bandage must be worn to keep the material from contaminating the underwear.

During World War II, the medical officers encountered a large number of cases of pilonidal disease. The men had entered the service with no apparent defect and few were aware that the disturbance existed. Sooner or later, the tissues were traumatized and the jeep was the greatest offender. The fireworks began after hitting bumps in the road and landing "kerplunk" right on the spot. It is a little wonder that the condition was soon nicknamed "jeep disease."

But injury was not always the source of difficulty. Many of the men did not have an opportunity to bathe as often as necessary. Some spent days or weeks away from their bases, perhaps in a jungle or trench. Lack of cleanliness invited infection and before long an abscess ensued. Such hazards are less common to civilians and consequently, the disturbance is not as prevalent during peace time. Probably half a lifetime of trauma must pass before the anomaly manifests itself; hence it is usually noted first during middle age.

As a rule, surgery is required. If an abscess has formed, incision for drainage is necessary first. After healing takes place, removal of the entire sinus and cyst will be essential to prevent recurrence. But every bit of the tract must be eradicated if operation is to be successful. There are certain technical difficulties to this procedure which are hard to overcome. In many instances, the surgeon does not sew the wound together but allows the now vacant spot, from which the lesion was extirpated, to fill in by itself and close spontaneously.

BLISTERED LIPS

O. W. writes: Every summer I develop fever blisters on my lips after the slightest exposure to the sun. This interferes with swimming and other sports. Is there any way to prevent these outbreaks?

REPLY

The lips can be burned by the sun and herpes may develop in those who are extremely sensitive. The area may also suffer from the drying effect of these rays. The application of some of the newer creams that are not soluble in water may prove successful unless you exhibit a true allergy to light.

NEUROLOGICAL MALADY

M. C. F. writes: Will you please give some information on Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease?

REPLY

In this disturbance, degeneration of certain nerves occurs which often leads to loss of strength and paralysis of one leg or the other. Now and then the extremities become so thin that the term "stork legs" is used. The cause is unknown except that the disorder has a hereditary tendency.

SKULL SENSATION

M. L. writes: What is the reason for a sort of shivering feeling on top and in back of the head?

REPLY

A cool head.

HOT WEATHER DROPSY

M. M. writes: What causes swelling of the feet and ankles on hot days?

REPLY

There is no satisfactory explanation as the condition is known to occur in perfectly healthy individuals. Heat may dilate the vessels to such an extent that fluid accumulates and cannot be absorbed as readily as it should. In others, the glandular system is at fault.

RED-EYED

J. T. writes: A friend of mine is havinug trouble with her eyes. She is in her late 40s and I believe is going through the change. Could this be the cause of red-rimmed eyelids that are slightly inflamed?

REPLY

These eye symptoms are not characteristic of the menopause. My suggestion would be that your friend consult an eye physician to find out the cause of her trouble.

LOST HER SPARKLE

Mrs. M. writes: I used to be the life of the party after two drinks. Now, after 10 years of drinking, alcohol makes me drowsy and pepless. Can you explain this?

REPLY

Ten years makes a lot of difference. You may have acquired a tolerance to alcohol. The effect of liquor depends somewhat on the environment and companions. Bear in mind that "the life of the party" is usually self-designated. To others, such a person may be a nuisance.

THE GOOD NEIGHBORS MEET AT THE LAUNDRY SERVICE

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Former Secretary Of State Byrnes Feels That Diplomats Who Believe In Peace Can Work With Russia; Carroll Reece Is Peron's Guest; Expose of Steel Looms

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—James F. Byrnes, trigger-smart former Secretary of State now practicing law in Washington, has been following the Administration's policy with intense interest. This is particularly true as regards relations with Soviet Russia, with whom Byrnes had protracted, and at times painful, encounters during a number of conferences.

An old friend asked Byrnes if he thought it was possible for the U. S. and U. S. S. R to reach a better understanding. This was Byrnes' reply:

"I think it is, and this is my formula. Get people who believe deeply that we can find a basis for working with the Russians. Then support these people to the limit. When they start getting discouraged and cynical, replace them with others who are confident that a solution can be found.

"As is evident, such a program would take time, patience, brains and courage. But I believe it would work. I certainly think it would be worthwhile trying. War is a terrifying alternative to consider."

Note: Another old friend recently remarked to Byrnes "Too bad you resigned, Jimmy." to which Byrnes shot back, "Who said I resigned?"

Peron Guests

Republican National Chairman B. Carroll Reece arrived in Buenos Aires several days ago with his wife and daughter for what he described to reporters as "just a little holiday." The GOP Chairman was given a 40-dollar-a-day suite in the Argentine capital's swankiest hotel, the Plaza. Officials of the Foreign Ministry instructed the hostelry's management that all food and drinks ordered by the Reeces be charged to the government. An automobile with private license plates, rented by the Ministry from Buenos Aires' leading funeral parlor, was placed at the visitors' service.

The Reece family joined several other Peron guests in the Plaza, Harold McCormack of the Moore-McCormack Steamship Lines, with his wife, and Edward Fenton, head of the U. S. Public Relations Council, were already installed there on an all-expense basis.

Fenton came to Busnos Aires to negotiate final terms of a contract which, he told newsmen in New York, may involve expenditure of $5,000,000 in the United States to extol the virtues of the Argentine's flamboyant Chief Executive and his grandiose five-year plan.

The publicist's statement created considerable annoyance in Buenos Aires Government circles. Carried by the wire services, it served as the basis for unfavorable comment in several opposition papers. One miffled Peron official remarked: "Mr. Fenton will have to explain away his indiscretion before he talks about anything else."

Succotash

Despite official pleas that veterans hold on to their terminal leave bonds, indications are that at least 75 per cent will cash them by the end of the year . . . W. E. (Red) James, brilliant young former FCC attorney and veteran of Iwo Jima and Okinawa, is being strongly urged by Alabama ex-servicemen to run for the seat now held by Representative George Grant. James is one of five brothers who served in the armed forces during the war . . . There is a lot of hush-hush about it, but a Swiss attorney for the Nazi executives of the giant I. G. Farben cartel, facing early trial by the U. S., suddenly popped up in Washington for the ostensible purpose of persuading the Alien Property Custodian to "unfreeze" some Farben funds to pay for legal expenses. The Swiss got a curt brush-off . . . The Alien Property Custodian, a section of the Justice Department, holds over $300,000,000 in impounded German property . . . Paul McNutt, former U. S. Ambassodar to the Philippines, has told Indiana friends he favors the state's delegation being pledged to President Truman . . . Memoirs of the late Harry Hopkins, being completed by his close friend, playwright Robert Sherwood, have been purchased by Collier's magazine. They will be as sensational as Jim Farley's but from an entirely different viewpoint . . . The 8-inch guns now being installed on new U. S. cruisers fire four times faster than those during the war . . . This year's "National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" will be from October 5 to 11. The 1946 campaign resulted in 29,439 handicappetd bersons being placed in gainful employment, 19,200 of them disabled veterans. President Truman and other national leaders are strongly backing the 1947 drive . . . Senator Harold McGrath., R. I., is lining up backing for his bill to reimburse U. S. civilians for damages incurred as Jap prisoners . . . Representative Margaret Chase Smith, able, hard-working Maine Republican, is losing no time campaigning for the seat of retiring Senator Wallace White. If elected, Mrs. Smith would be the first woman Senator from New England . . . Like President Truman, forthright Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Republican foreign affairs leader, is an amateur pianist. His favorite tune is "When You Wore a Tulip."

Steel Hoarders

The forthcoming Senate Small Business Committee hearing on the critical steel shortage will put the State Department, Army and Navy on the spot.

The committee will reveal State as very open-handed in granting licenses for large-scale exports abroad, and the two military services as hoarding huge quantities of unusued steel.

Before leaving Washington on his vacation, Senator Bob Taft sent the committee a complaint from an Ohio manufacturer charging the Army and Navy with hoarding over 500,000 tons of steel.

The committee hearings, under the Chairmanship of Senator Edward Martin, (R.), Pa., will bring a number of top steel executives to the witness stand for sharp questioning.

President Truman's Claim Of Sound Fiscal Policy Questioned

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The President's Economic Report says that "the sound fiscal policies that the Government has been following have been vindicated by every test of experience."

Is it sound fiscal policy for the Government not to balance its budget for 17 years; to tax away forty billion dollars of the peoples' income; to promote price inflation by encouraging more pay for no more work; to give engraving plates to Stalin to print unlimited quantities of German paper marks redeemable in American dollars?

This egotistical report should be set against remarks by Thomas I. Parkinson, President of the Equitable Life Assurance Scoiety, our third largest life insurance company. Mr. Parkinson has no word of praise for the "sound fiscal policies" of the Government. He says "higher wages and higher prices result from the inflation of the money supply." And who causes that? The Government.

Is it sound fiscal policy to depreciate the purchasing power of every dollar invested in social security, pensions, savings accounts, life insurance, and government bonds?

An advertisement of the Treasury Department says: "The United States Government protects every dollar you invest. For example, you have an absolute guarantee that, in ten years, you'll get back $400 for every $300 you put in Series E Bonds." But, if in ten years, the $400 won't buy as much as $300 now, does that protect "every dollar you invest."

The mortgage debt on American homes is at an all-time peak—15% higher than in 1930, the previous top. The total at the end of 1946 was $24,600,000,000. The debt increased more that year than in the previous ten years.

Causes: Scarcity of homes, due to growth of population and the return of the G. I.'s.

O. P. A. rent controls which discouraged new building.

Sky-rocketing building costs for labor and material.

G. I. loans on housing at 100% of value.

Inflation caused by government policies.

On the bright side, repayments in 1946 were also high. But a $25,000,000,000 home mortgage debt is a stop-look-and-listen sign which no one should ignore.

The greatest drive in labor union history was to get American workingmen to protest against the "monstrous slave labor" bill. Yet only 1 in 20 A. F. of L. members, and only 1 in 15 C. I. O. members was induced to invest three cents in a letter to Congress, or the President. When from 93% to 95% of the voters stay away from the polls, it is a fair guess that they say "nuts."

The campaign against the Taft-Hartley Bill will go down as one of the greatest flops in the history of advertising propaganda. Will the labor bosses take the hint?

President of Railway Trainmen, A. F. Whitney, once said he would spent forty-seven million bucks to beat Truman in 1948. This was when Truman asked Congress to draft the railroad strikers into the army and subject them to martial law. But, after Truman vetoed the Taft-Hartley Bill, Whitney's angry passions cooled and he now says he won't help Henry Wallace beat Truman with a third party stick. However, a third party is on the make in California. James Roosevelt is Democratic State Chairman out there and is he on a hot spot, or something pretty warm? His mother is agin' the third party.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

There'll be a lot of excitement in San Francisco August 24th when the Los Angeles Dons play the Forty-Niners. (The Forty-Niners are a football team . . . not the Republican Party.) It'll be the first professional football game of the west coast season with all money being donated to the Hearst Charity Fund.

I've been invited to entertain between halves at the game, but I don't know if I like the idea. I've played split weeks before, but filling in for a water boy is just too much. At first they wanted me to do my act at a night game, but then they fixed the lights.

I guess I'll be a sort of M. C. with padded shoulders, but it doesn't bother me a bit. It won't be the first time I've had to go on with protection. Naturally, I'll give the boys a pep talk. I've got a few plays of my own that are dynamite: the worst that can happen is that they'll get flat.

Don Ameche, the movie star, owns a part of the Dons and it promises to be very colorful. In fact, Don wants his whole team to play "The Life of Notre Dame."

I'm worried about this thing, though. The last time I did my act between halves at a football game the spectators followed the players into the locker rooms. So if you read about a sensational 100-yard dash, don't get excited. It won't be the star player . . . Just me, running for the exit.

Taft-Hartley Labor Law Will Help Legitimate Trade Unionism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Whatever else may be said of the Taft-Hartley Act, it is going to help in certain respects the cause of legitimate trade unionism and begin to rid the American labor movement of communist officers.

Already the new law is pinching hard those unions which have communist officers. Until now the rank and file may not have believed charges that their officers were communists—they may never have known the facts. Now when a communist officer refuses to sign the affidavits required by law, everybody will know who he is. The union which openly refuses to avail itself of National Labor Relations Board facilities to ensure the certification of a bargaining unit or to prevent unfair labor practices will be advertising its affiliation with communist officers.

Already the American Federation of Labor, which for several years has been carrying on a notable battle against communists, has announced that it will comply with the requirements of the law. It is difficult to see how the CIO, which has some unions with communist officers. Clearly the AFL and various independent unions can raid the CIO ranks for new members and get certification from the national Labor Relations Board.

Resistance By CIO Doubtful

It appears doubtful that the CIO will resist that kind of invasion very long, despite all the talk about not using the National Labor Relations Board services. The statute has a very simple requirement. It says:

"No complaint shall be issued pursuant to a charge made by a labor organization . . . Unless there is on file with the board an affidavit executed contemporaneously or within the preceding twelve-month period by each officer of such labor organization and the officers of any national or international organization of which it is an affiliate or constituent unit that he is not a member of the communist party or affiliated with such party, and that he does not believe in and is not a member of or supports any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force or by illegal or unconstitutional methods."

This means that a union which has complied with that requirement will have no standing in court when it complains that an employer has coerced or unduly influenced workers in the matter of joining a union or has committed any of the "unfair labor practices" enumerated in the original Wagner Law and now reaffirmed in the Taft-Hartley Act. It cannot get its case heard by the labor board—which is the prescribed method of getting access to the courts—when there is no compliance with the law's requirement about communist officers.

There has been some loose talk about unions "snubbing" or avoiding the National Labor Relations Board. This hardly seems likely, because the board affords the maximum protection to a union to retain its rights. If a union loses its majority, it cannot lose its certification as the bargaining agent except by an election held at specified times, but an employer who chose to deal with a new bargaining agent among his employees would be free to do so at any time if the union which had the original certification fails to file the proper affidavits and to comply with the law.

Unions Can Not Take Risk

There will, of course, be communist officers who will refuse to sign any affidavits. The remedy there is simple. The union will merely remove the officers or say, in effect, to the public that the union in question cares more about retaining a communist in office than it does about complying with the law of the land. It doesn't seem probably that many unions will take the risks in a continued defiance of the law by standing by the communist officers.

Then there is the question of suits. Would a union with communist officers which may be accused of violating a contract and thinks it has a good defense have any standing in the event that persons injured by the union's acts or the acts of its agents begin to file suits for damages? There are all kinds of tangles awaiting the unions that are loyal to their communist officers but most of the tangles are of the inter-union variety. The new law opens the door to a drive on communists by certain unions against other unions. This has never been possible before and it ought to end communist control of unions in America.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Terror In Palestine

The following is from a letter to me from a Jewish official of Palestine:

". . . even the terrorists were willing to respond to (the United Nations) appeal (for peace), provided that the Palestine Government did not carry out the sentence of death passed on the three members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi who had been involved in the Acre jail break of a few months ago . . . The Palestine Administration, however, confirmed the death sentence. As a result, the Ingun threatened reprisals and on July 11 succeeded in kidnapping two members of the British Forces stationed in Palestine.

"Tension was heightened on July 17, when the refugee ship 'Exodus 1947' was intercepted outside Palestine territorial waters and rammed by British naval forces. When the vessel was brought into Haifa harbor, with its 4,500 refugees aboard, it was found that three Jews had been killed, including the first mate of the boat, a United State citizen named William Bernstein. According to the eye-witness account of Mr. Grauel, an American clergyman who had been aboard throughout the journey, Bernstein had been clubbed to death. On July 18 the refugees were transferred to deportation vessels, and on July 21 the Foreign Office confirmed that the people were not being sent to Cyprus, but were being returned to France 'as Cyprus had not proved a sufficient detterent.' This action on the part of the British immediately led, as might have been expected, to a series of terrorist outrages.

"Despite the fact that the kidnapped British sergeants had not yet been located, the Government announced on July 28 that the three members of the Irgun were to be hanged on the following day, and the sentence of death was duly carried out. At this point, members of the Haganah began their own search for the kidnapped men, in order to save them from Irgun retaliation, but on July 30 the sergeants were found dead. Horrified at this action by the Irgun, the organized Jewish community determined to take strong measures to root out the terrorists, but just as they were about to carry out their plans news came that British troops or police (the military have denied that soldiers were involved) ran riot in Tel Aviv where they machine-gunned civilians, killing five persons and wounding scores of others . . .

"Just over a year ago, on July 29, 1946, the British arrested the leaders of the Jewish Agency in an effort to discredit this internationally recognized body prior to the Round Table Talks arranged in London during the Summer of last year . . .

"British action during the last six weeks seems designed to make impossible cooperation with the authorities in the suppression of terrorism for which the British have ostensibly been calling. The deportation of the 'Exodus' refugees, for example, was obviously an action which would forestall any cooperation on the part of the Jewish population in this respect. Again two of the Mayors arrested were among the Jewish leaders who had drawn up a plan to root out the terror. Finally, the British must have realized that the execution of the three Irgunists, just at a time when the Haganah was trying to locate the kidnapped Britishers, was likely to be construed as provocation.

"One is reluctantly forced, therefore, to the conclusion that the British are not anxious to have peace in Palestine. This attitude gives added impetus to Arab intransigence and once again as in 1929, the Arabs feel that 'the Government is with us.' The mass of the Palestinian Arabs do not want to begin with disturbances, as these proved highly unprofitable for them in 1936. But it is only natural that they should be willing to 'cash in' on the results of British policy. The Mufti, in particular, is taking every advantage of the general unrest to incite his followers to violence . . ."

This statement of facts speaks for itself and requires little comment. The British lost Ireland, India, Egypt; their influence in Malaya and Indonesia has gone because of similar situations and similar unfortunate judgments. They cannot apparently learn that other human beings prefer death to injustice.

Today's Talk

The Plough

Edward Thomas, the English poet, who was killed in the recent war, was a literary man of high merit. He once wrote that "the ship, the chariot, the plough, thees three are, I suppose, the most sovereign beautiful things which man has made in his time."

Take the plough, for example. Has there been any single piece of man's ingenuity that can equal the useful ness and influence that the plough has created? Think of the benefits to mankind all over the world that have accrued because of the plough. It inspired Burns, as he walked behind it and meditated upon the wonders of nature, as it had indeed inspired thousands of others, though with no talent to spread it to the world. And Cromwell left the plough to rule England for a time.

The very act of walking—or even of riding these days—behind the plough, is something to instill a certain affection for the good earth. Digging into it, overturning it, giving to it a new mixture, a new look at the sunlight, and nestling its forces for production. Who can adequately measure out the usefulness of the plough?

Nevre do I see a man ploughing in a field that I do not speculate upon the thoughts of that man as he silently holds to the handles of his plough, guiding its way ahead, wondering about the weather, thinking of the profit accruing from his labor, or of how he shall decide to use that profit. Perhaps it will be to pay some of the mortgage, or send a boy to school, or put a little more beauty into the place he loves as home.

Into the earth the point of the plough plunges, its silvery surface polished by the rub of the moist dirt that it tosses over with such precision. Furrow after furrow. Ribbon's of God's chemicals, woven into acres of richness. You can almost humanize the plough and call it the "John, the Baptist" of the field—going on ahead, preparing the way, for nutriment, for glad harvests, and making for profitable commerce.

Just watch that sturdy plough. Note its forward march. How responsive to the hands behind! Imagine what a different world this would be had all the precious metals wasted in war, and in killing, been diverted into the making of ploughs to benefit all mankind! There is plenty of fertile land—but not enough ploughs and ready hands to steer them.

Former World War II officers who will receive their college degrees before July 15, 1947, will be given an opportunity to apply for regular Army commissions.

Brant Forfeits Bond In Disorderly Case

Harry E. Brant, 124 North Centre Street, forfeited $15 bond yesterday morning in Police Court when he failed to appear for trial on disorderly conduct charges filed after he allegedly "wrecked" furnishings in three rooms at his home Wednesday.

Police said Almeta Wright, 124 North Centre Street, told them the man attempted to tear her clothing after entering the apartment. His wife was also listed as a witness for authorities.

SOOTHING INFLUENCE—Latest addition to the cast of "Road of Life" is winsome Julie Stevens in the role of "Maggie Lowell", "Dr. Jim Brent's" most loyal and understanding laboratory assistant. "Road of Life" is heard over NBC Monday through Friday, 10:30-10:45 a. m. EDT.

Ridgeley Woman Hurt When Cars Collide

Mrs. Sadie Ensminger, Ridgeley, sustained slight injuries recently when the car in which she was riding collided with another machine operated by Victor A. Mongold, Fame, W. Va., about 14 miles east of Winchester, Va., at Paris Mountain on Route 50.

State Police said Mongold's car, headed west, went out of control on the wet road and struck the other vehicle on a blind curve.

Ameen Files Suit To Recover Fee

A suit to recover a $450 commission fee was filed yesterday morning in Circuit Court by Joseph Ameen, Tri-Towns realtor, against Russell and Blanche Fitzgerald, Westernport.

The suit states that the Fitzgeralds retained Ameen, by a written contract on July 28 this year to find a purchaser for a 12-room dwelling and lot on Railroad Street, and a taxi business with three vehicles. The purchase price listed was $9,000 for the entire properties.

On August 18, 1947, a purchaser was found, Ameen states, and he sent his check for $1,000 to the Fitzgeralds with his notice that he had found the purchaser, and he would pay the balance when the deal was closed. His check was returned with a statement that the Fitzgeralds had changed their mind about selling, he contends.

Ameen then applied for his five per cent fee of $450, claiming he had fulfilled the terms of his contract. The Fitzgeralds refused according to the action.

Out-Of-State Buyers Can Obtain Tax Blanks

Retail use tax blanks may be obtained by Marylanders who make purchases out of the state by contacting the Maryland Retail Sales Tax Division, 15 West Baltimore Street, Baltimore, according to an announcement by Walter E. Kenney, chief of the division.

This form is a companion piece to the sales tax returns of firms doing business in Maryland. Marylanders are expected to make individual returns on outside purchases. However, according to Kennedy, if a person refuses to make the return, nothing can be done about it. They are merely honorbound to make the report.

The tax amounts to two per cent. However, in filing a return, individuals may deduct three per cent of the tax for themselves.

1946 Market Break Not Manipulated, SEC Says

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21 (AP) — The September 3, 1946, market break of the New York Stock Exchange—sharpest in nine years—was not manipulated, the Securities and Exchange Commission declared today.

The commission's announcement came at the conclusion of its study of a six-months' survey made by its Trading and Exchange Commission of all buying and selling in each 15-minute or shorter period on the New York Stock Exchange last September 3.

"Nowhere," the commission said, "does it appear that the overall market action resulted from planned or concerted action by way of any group; nor do the activities of any group seem to have amounted to more than the free play of different opinions as to when to buy and when to sell."

The Basque Provinces are a division of northeast Spain. Their total area is 2,739 square miles. The surface is very mountainous, particularly in the province of Alava, which everywhere is cut up into deep, narrow valleys by offsets from the main chain of mountains.

When the present Army officer integration program is complete the War department anticipates that possibly 1,500 commissions a year will be open to non-graduates of the military academy.

1946 Market Break Not Manipulated, SEC Says

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21 (AP) — The September 3, 1946, market break of the New York Stock Exchange—sharpest in nine years—was not manipulated, the Securities and Exchange Commission declared today.

The commission's announcement came at the conclusion of its study of a six-months' survey made by its Trading and Exchange Commission of all buying and selling in each 15-minute or shorter period on the New York Stock Exchange last September 3.

"Nowhere," the commission said, "does it appear that the overall market action resulted from planned or concerted action by way of any group; nor do the activities of any group seem to have amounted to more than the free play of different opinions as to when to buy and when to sell."

The Basque Provinces are a division of northeast Spain. Their total area is 2,739 square miles. The surface is very mountainous, particularly in the province of Alava, which everywhere is cut up into deep, narrow valleys by offsets from the main chain of mountains.

When the present Army officer integration program is complete the War department anticipates that possibly 1,500 commissions a year will be open to non-graduates of the military academy.

Australian Rice To Be Exported

SYDNEY — (AP) — Australia's rice harvest this year is estimated by the Rice Association of Australia at 55,250 tons, but only about 8,000 tons will go on the local market.

Secretary D. Taylor of the Rice Association told a reporter at least 47,000 tons would be sent to Malaya and other British possessions in the Pacific.

Taylor said Australia's average rice yield was 92 bushels an acre.

Third Polio Case Is Unofficially Reported

An unofficial report from the Tri-Towns area yesterday said that Edward P. Wolford, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Wolford, Piedmont, W. Va., has been stricken with infantile paralysis at his home.

This report has not been ckonfirmed by county health service officials. Wolford is a student at Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va.

Two county children, Paul David Crawford, 12, Laurel Run, and Allen Pryor, this city, are receiving treatment in Baltimore hospitals for the disease.

Moral: Try To Keep Your Enemies Alive

NEW YORK — (AP) — Deaths of friends or enemies has more effect on most people than they realize says Dr. J. L. Moreno, psychiatrist, writing in Sociometry.

Each individual, he says, is part of an intimate structure, which comprises his friends, associates and even enemies. Whenever one of the persons in this structure drops out, he is likely to be replaced by another. But a time comes when there is less and less replacing as the others in the group die.

Dr. Moreno says the effect on an individual paves the way for premature ageing, sickness and the hastening of death.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girls In Late Teens Should Have Reasonable Amount Of Freedom

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

There is no doubt in the world than an 18-year-old girl should be allowed a reasonable amount of freedom to go and come as she pleases, provided, of course, she uses good judgment in what she "pleases."

How to convince some parents of this, however, is something else again.

It is always hard, of course, when a younger girl complains about the strictness of her parents' attitude toward her comings and goings, to be certain that the daughter has given them no cause for tightening up on their restrictions. But a letter just received from one of these 18-year-old girls, describing her difficult situation, has nothing in it which suggests that she may be at fault. Apparently—unless she has fooled me completely—the trouble lies in the fact that the conception of her parents as to what is or is not proper in a young girl's conduct is far narrower than the usual parental atttitude today.

This girl says that she has always been kept very closely at home and that even when she went out to play with her girl friends, as a child, she would be called to come home at once.

"And now," she says, "I am 18 years of age and things have not changed much. For instance, the other day I visited my girl griend just as any other girl would do, and thought, since it was in the afternoon, my mother and dad would not mind. But as I was returning home, I met Dad coming from the house of my other girl friend where he had been looking for me.

"Mother and Dad object to my going out in the evening. They thing that firls who go out in the evening are wild. When I go on errands, I have to be home promptly. If I go to the movies, I must be home no later than 9:30 p. m. I am not allowed to go out on dates. Mother doesn't allow me to go to dances. She says that is where you're liable to get a boy friend.

"My sisters and brother, who are older than I, were treated even more badly than I have been, but Mother has succeeded in molding their minds to her own ideas and they don't help to change anything for me.

"Now I have a liking for a young man of 20. I don't like to go out with him on the sly. I want my mother and dad to know where I go, buf if I say anything about it, they will not alliow me to go. I don't know what to do."

It may be that this girl's parents are of foreign birth, which sometimes accounts for a much more restrictive attitude toward children in a family, the parents believing that young people, particularly girls, should behave as they themselves were brought up to do in "the old country."

On the other hand, it is possible that this mother and father have the kind of possessive attitude toward their children which makes them fear the day when these children will grow up and leave home. Consequently, they do everything they can to prevent any such contingency developing.

There are only two things that any girl in her late teens can do in a situation of this sort, if—and I stress that "if" again she is quite certain that her own behavior is not a factor in the situation.

One of these things is to see if it is impossible to get some understanding relative or friend to talk to the parents and try to change their rigid attitude to a more elastic one. If this girl has no such relative, and no such friend to whom she feels it would be possible to go and talk the thing over, then I would suggest that she go to her local YWCA and take her problem to one of the women executives there. Women in this field, working all the time with the problems of young people, have a wide experience in this sort of thing and, often, when on the spot, do much toward helping to adjust the situation.

Failing this, however, the only thing that this girl, or any other in a like set of circumstances can do, is to put up with the parental restraint as well as she can until she is of age when she can leave home and strike out for herself.

Lack Of Copper Stunts Cattle

LONDON—(AP)—If there is not enough copper in the soil where cattle graze, the animals get stunted growth, rough coats and depressed appetites. Nature, Britain's official science journal, reports a copper deficiency of this sort found in peat bogs used for cattle grazing in Aberdeenshire.

Woman to Woman
BY MRS. FILBERT

KEEPING A FAMILY WELL FED is a woman's job, and goodness knows, I needn't tell you it isn't always simple! But I've been in the food business nearly 30 years and I think I've learned a few things that can make your task easier and more satisfying in many ways.

The good things sold under the Mrs. Filbert label are recipes I've worked out and perfected myself, using only the finest, most wholesome ingredients—just as you do in your own kitchen. I believe you'll find my mayonnaise, margarine and dressings extra enjoyable . . . with a really fresh, delicious, home-made taste. Won't you try them? I think you and your family will like Mrs. Filbert's as much as we do. Mrs. Filbert.

Here's a woman's idea of what good salad dressing should be—a man's idea of something grand! Mrs. Filbert's is real salad dressing, with a richness that makes a dab take the place of a spoonful. Its smooth, tangy freshness seems right off the egg-beater itself. Now more delicious than ever!

You'll prefer Mrs. Filbert's Margarine because it's different . . . fresher, sweeter-tasting, always the same in summer or winter. So nutritious and digestible . . . full of energy for the children—each pound contains 15,000 units of Vitamin A. Try it for cooking, frying, for lighter cakes and rolls, as a delicious spread on bread.

You don't know how good a simple lettuce or green Summer salad can taste until you try it with Mrs. Filbert's new French Dressing. Expertly blended and seasoned with just enough herbs and spices to give salads an added delightful taste, yet not smother natural flavors.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girls In Late Teens Should Have Reasonable Amount Of Freedom

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

There is no doubt in the world than an 18-year-old girl should be allowed a reasonable amount of freedom to go and come as she pleases, provided, of course, she uses good judgment in what she "pleases."

How to convince some parents of this, however, is something else again.

It is always hard, of course, when a younger girl complains about the strictness of her parents' attitude toward her comings and goings, to be certain that the daughter has given them no cause for tightening up on their restrictions. But a letter just received from one of these 18-year-old girls, describing her difficult situation, has nothing in it which suggests that she may be at fault. Apparently—unless she has fooled me completely—the trouble lies in the fact that the conception of her parents as to what is or is not proper in a young girl's conduct is far narrower than the usual parental atttitude today.

This girl says that she has always been kept very closely at home and that even when she went out to play with her girl friends, as a child, she would be called to come home at once.

"And now," she says, "I am 18 years of age and things have not changed much. For instance, the other day I visited my girl griend just as any other girl would do, and thought, since it was in the afternoon, my mother and dad would not mind. But as I was returning home, I met Dad coming from the house of my other girl friend where he had been looking for me.

"Mother and Dad object to my going out in the evening. They thing that firls who go out in the evening are wild. When I go on errands, I have to be home promptly. If I go to the movies, I must be home no later than 9:30 p. m. I am not allowed to go out on dates. Mother doesn't allow me to go to dances. She says that is where you're liable to get a boy friend.

"My sisters and brother, who are older than I, were treated even more badly than I have been, but Mother has succeeded in molding their minds to her own ideas and they don't help to change anything for me.

"Now I have a liking for a young man of 20. I don't like to go out with him on the sly. I want my mother and dad to know where I go, buf if I say anything about it, they will not alliow me to go. I don't know what to do."

It may be that this girl's parents are of foreign birth, which sometimes accounts for a much more restrictive attitude toward children in a family, the parents believing that young people, particularly girls, should behave as they themselves were brought up to do in "the old country."

On the other hand, it is possible that this mother and father have the kind of possessive attitude toward their children which makes them fear the day when these children will grow up and leave home. Consequently, they do everything they can to prevent any such contingency developing.

There are only two things that any girl in her late teens can do in a situation of this sort, if—and I stress that "if" again she is quite certain that her own behavior is not a factor in the situation.

One of these things is to see if it is impossible to get some understanding relative or friend to talk to the parents and try to change their rigid attitude to a more elastic one. If this girl has no such relative, and no such friend to whom she feels it would be possible to go and talk the thing over, then I would suggest that she go to her local YWCA and take her problem to one of the women executives there. Women in this field, working all the time with the problems of young people, have a wide experience in this sort of thing and, often, when on the spot, do much toward helping to adjust the situation.

Failing this, however, the only thing that this girl, or any other in a like set of circumstances can do, is to put up with the parental restraint as well as she can until she is of age when she can leave home and strike out for herself.

Lack Of Copper Stunts Cattle

LONDON—(AP)—If there is not enough copper in the soil where cattle graze, the animals get stunted growth, rough coats and depressed appetites. Nature, Britain's official science journal, reports a copper deficiency of this sort found in peat bogs used for cattle grazing in Aberdeenshire.

Woman to Woman
BY MRS. FILBERT

KEEPING A FAMILY WELL FED is a woman's job, and goodness knows, I needn't tell you it isn't always simple! But I've been in the food business nearly 30 years and I think I've learned a few things that can make your task easier and more satisfying in many ways.

The good things sold under the Mrs. Filbert label are recipes I've worked out and perfected myself, using only the finest, most wholesome ingredients—just as you do in your own kitchen. I believe you'll find my mayonnaise, margarine and dressings extra enjoyable . . . with a really fresh, delicious, home-made taste. Won't you try them? I think you and your family will like Mrs. Filbert's as much as we do. Mrs. Filbert.

Here's a woman's idea of what good salad dressing should be—a man's idea of something grand! Mrs. Filbert's is real salad dressing, with a richness that makes a dab take the place of a spoonful. Its smooth, tangy freshness seems right off the egg-beater itself. Now more delicious than ever!

You'll prefer Mrs. Filbert's Margarine because it's different . . . fresher, sweeter-tasting, always the same in summer or winter. So nutritious and digestible . . . full of energy for the children—each pound contains 15,000 units of Vitamin A. Try it for cooking, frying, for lighter cakes and rolls, as a delicious spread on bread.

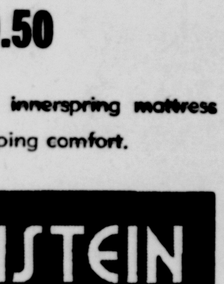

You don't know how good a simple lettuce or green Summer salad can taste until you try it with Mrs. Filbert's new French Dressing. Expertly blended and seasoned with just enough herbs and spices to give salads an added delightful taste, yet not smother natural flavors.

Supply Of Gas And Oil To Be Tight In Area

According to the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company prospects for a plentiful supply of gas for all purposes for the coming winter are not too bright. Officials of the company say the fuel situation at the moment gives indication of being a "little tight" as fuel oil heating systems have increased about 90 percent in the Cumberland area this summer.

Commercial oil use has also advanced sharply. However, strip coal mining (substantial oil user) has declined and the prospective allotment has been increased. This means, say local officials, that most users are going to be able to get by barring unusual circumstances.

Irving K. Peck, vice president and general manager of the gas company, warns that the recent signing of contracts for increased supplies of natural gas from the Big and Little Inch lines does not mean elimination of gas shortages during the coming winter.

Restrictions Still On

"In our daily mail," observed Peck, "we are finding more and more letters referring to this gas supply. These letters ask that since gas from the Inch lines will now be available, will the gas company relax its restriction on house heating conversion burner installations.

"Evidently many gas users have forgotten that Big and Little Big Inch gas has been coming into the company's lines since last December. We used Inch lines gas throughout the periods of low pressure last winter. Even today gas from these high pressure transportation lines is flowing into our own pipeline system," commented the gas company official.

Federal permission has been received by the owners of the Big and Little Big Inch lines to build pumping stations, he reported. News of this authorization has evidently caused many people to think that all gas supply difficulties have been wiped out. According to Peck, these pumping stations will take many months to build.

More Lines Needed

"It is true," observed the gas company representative, "that the supply of gas transported by Big and Little Big Inch lines, and by other gas transportation systems, will eventually be sufficient to provide everyone with all the gas they want—at almost every time they want it. This happy situation will not exist until such time as the companies are able to complete the installation of some large, additional transmission lines.

"However, even if these Inch lines pumping stations are completed before winter sets in, there will still be shortages of available gas in this area during next winter's peak load periods."

The gas company official reported his company anticipates receiving from the Big and Little Big Inch lines next winter a larger supply of gas than was available last December. The exact increase in gas supply from this source will depend solely on the pressure and pumping facilities installed by the owners of the Inch lines by that time.

"We know that even if the new pumping stations operate at maximum capacity all winter, there will not be enough gas from these lines to meet our wintertime requirements. Therefore, the relaxation of current restrictions on house heating conversion burner installation is an absolute impossibility," said Peck.

Wool today is cleaned primarily with the use of a specially prepared potash soap.

BARN IS DAMAGED BY LIGHTNING

Damage estimated at $10,000 was caused Wednesday when lightning struck the barn of Cleamon W. Yommer, one mile east of Grantsville, and fire destroyed the near new frame structure.

Farm equipment, including a tractor, mower and disc, destroyed was valued at $4,000. A new bailer owned by Chris Yoder and valued at $2,000 was also burned.

In addition two cows, three pigs, 500 pullets, 300 bales of hay and 500 tons of straw burned. The building was partially insured.

Mrs. Marshall Durst, who discovered the fire, said the building was struck twice. She informed Luther Horchler who notified the Grantsville Fire Department. Firemen were unable to make headway as the entire building was ablaze within three minutes.

The Yommers were in Meyersdale, Pa., at the time and returned at 6 p. m. to find the barn destroyed. Mrs. Yommer said their son, Edward, 5, and Olin Tressler, LaVale, had been playing in the barn several days and that if the family had not gone to Meyersdale the children would have probably been burned to death.

The Yommers bought the farm last fall and occupied it in the spring, when the equipment was purchased.

Four Men Enlist In Regular Army

The local Army Recruiting station signed four men for three year enlistments yesterday, Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow announced.

A veteran of three years and two months previous service, George Donald Petenbring, Frostburg, signed for duty in the Pacific with the Corps of Engineers.

John Henry Martin, Augusta, W. Va., enlisted for service at the 181st Signal Depot, Camp Holabird, Md. He previously served a year and five months.

Jack Berton Zembower, 816 Shades Lane, and George Robert Thorp, Frostburg, enlisted in the Army Air Forces.

Local Parole Violator Receives Jail Term

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew committed Harvey Knotts, Bowling Green, to the County Jail yesterday for a violation of a one year parole imposed August 1 in Trial Magistrates' Court.

Knotts was found guilty then of being drunk and disorderly on a public highway and received a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail on condition that he refrain from drinking, disturbing his family and the public for one year.

State Trooper G. M. Rotruck apprehended the man yesterday morning.

Enice J. Brookley, 604 Kent Avenue, forfeited $2.45 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle with an expired instruction card. Trooper Harry Holsinger made the arrest on Route 51, nine miles south of the city last Sunday.

Belfast, Northern Ireland, still has 4,000 air-raid shelters, and is trying to get rid of them.

11 Bodies Found In Plane Wreck

A sister of a former local man who was one of the 32 passengers aboard a Marine transport plane which crashed on Mt. Rainier, Washington, December 10, 1946, has been notified that 11 of the bodies have been located.

Mrs. Ruth Lease, 606 Hill Street, whose brother, Pvt. Harry Kenneth Skinner, was among those reported missing, will attend a memorial service for the 32 men Sunday at Longmire, Wash. Accompanying her will be the missing man's mother, Mrs. Mary Edna Skinner, and another brother, Earl Skinner, both of Confluence, Pa.

Pvt. Skinner was employed at the local plant of the Celanese Corporation and resided with his sister here before enlisting in the Marine Corps. He had been a member of the Corps only eight weeks prior to the crash.

None of the 11 bodies have been identified by the Marine Corps.

The plane disappeared during a winter storm on a flight from San Diego to Seattle. A National Park Service ranger sighted the wreckage a month ago and a search party reached the scene July 24. No bodies were located at that time, however.

The Marine Corps said no immediate attempt will be made to recover the 11 bodies because of the hazardous terrain. The Army has been requested to examine the area to determine whether trained mountain troops can bring out the victims.

Engineer Issues Building Permits

George W. Brown, 207 North Mechanic Street, secured two building permits yesterday in the city engineer's office for construction estimated to cost $7,000 at 4 Market Street and at 201 North Mechanic Street.

The first calls for the removal of a frame addition at 201 North Mechanic and the rebuilding of the two-story addition with concrete blocks. Work will cost $1,000 with Pritchard and Crabtree as the contractors.

A two-story concrete block building for use as an office or store and an apartment will be erected at 4 Market Street. The building will be 44 by 22 feet and will be covered with perma brick and will have a built-up roof. Lester Mullenaux is the contractor and cost is estimated as $6,000.

Wool yarns are usually made from short wools; worsted yarns, from long wool.

Detroit Tigers Defeated Twice By Washington

Bluege Takes Poke At Sports Writer

DETROIT, Aug. 21. (AP)—A double victory over the Detroit Tigers following a players' vote of confidence in Manager Ossie Bluege restored peace to the Washington Senators today after reports of a rift between players and Bluege had capped off an 11-game Senator losing streak.

Ossie took a couple of harmless pokes at Burton Hawkins, Washington writer who wrote of an internal disturbance on the club over Bluege's managerial tactics, and the Senators proceeded to land a couple of haymakers on the Tigers, dumping Detroit dangerously near fourth place by beating Harold Newhouser 3 to 2 and Freddie Hutchinson 5 to 3. The welter champ then threw his own right, a crashing blow to the point of Secreet's chin and Sammy crumpled to the canvas and was counted out by Referee Eddie Atlas at 1:50 of the first round. Robinson weighed 152; Secreet 148 in the over-weight match.

Brooklyn Routs Ewell Blackwell By Score Of 8-1

Three Reds Banished In Uproarious Fifth

BROOKLYN, Aug. 21 (AP)—Crossing the plate four times in an uproarious fifth inning which was enlivered by three Brooklyn hits and three stolen bases, two Cincinnati errors, a base on balls, a balk, wild pitch and passed ball, the Dodgers routed Ewell Blackwell today and went on to defeat the Reds, 8-1.

Before the wild inning was completed, catcher Ray Lamanno and bench warmers Johnny Vander Meer and Bucky Walters of the Reds had been thumbed off the field by Plate Umpire Lou Jorda and Redleg Manager Johnny Neun narrowly escaped similar medicine, after a heated argument over a called balk on Blackwell.

Arky Vaughan, filling in for Johnny Jorgensen at third for the Dodgers, opened the last half of the fifth with his first three hits, a single to right. It was at this point that Blackwell committed his balk.

When Hugh Poland, who had replaced Lamano behind the plate for the Reds, let a pitch get away from him, Vaughan found himself on third, where he fretted as Blackwell bore down and disposed of Bruce Edwards and King in between a walk to Reese.

Then the fun began. Reese stole second and both runners scored on Ed Stankey's double. Robinson was safe on an error by Second Baseman Adams, stole second and continued to third on Poland's wild throw. Reiser singled in Robinson, then stole second and sprinted to third on a wild pitch. When he tried to score, Poland recovered the ball and pegged to Blackwell who tagged him out at the plate. Box:

Annie's Dream, ace sprinter of the stable trained by J. G. "Huppy" Davis, extended her winning streak to seven races for 1947 yesterday when she scored a seven lengths' triumph over Army Belle in the fifth event, The Jockey's Guild, Inc., Purse, yesterday on the third day of the Cumberland Fair Association's ten-day meeting.

Approximately 5,500 persons saw H. N. Warren's chestnut mare outclass a field of only four starters and return only 20 cents on the dollar to those who backed the six-year-old that romped to victory over White Easter and Comedy Player in the Clifton W. White Handicap at Fairgo one year ago.

There was only straight betting on this race because of the fact that only four started. Valdina Dust and Green Garden finished third and fourth. Oyster K. and Erato were scratched.

Miss Jean Dixon, of this city, who was recently crowned "Miss Maryland of 1947," acting in behalf of the City Furniture Company, presented a portable radio to Jockey Jimmy Baird, rider of the winner. "Miss Maryland" was introduced by President and General Manager Clifton W. White.

Baird Leads Jockeys

Baird, incidentally, moved into first place in the jockey standings, when he booted John Red's Orcus to a three lengths' win over Don Listo in the 7th race. Piloting his second winner of the afternoon, Baird, sensation of the minor ovals this season, sent his point total soaring to 34 for the three days. Emilo Carrillo, Wednesday's pacesetter, came through with his only win of the day abroad New Book in the final, and now trails Baird with a total of 28 points.

The mutuel handle for the eight races amounted to $237,020, including $19,046 in the daily double pool. Yesterday's total was $55,282 less than the $292,302 wagered on the same day last year. Figures for the three days indicate that betting is off 16 per cent, compared with 1946, the boom year for racing at most tracks. At the conclusion of the third day a year ago the handle was $805,194. Yesterday the three-day total was $673,900.

Brining Tops Trainers

Everett Brining, of Hagerstown, took the lead in the race for the title of "leading winning trainer" when he saddled The General, which defeated Dark Clod and Parade Ground to win the major portion of the $1,200 purse offered in The Cal Cessna Memorial, fifth event on the card. The General, with Patsy Grant up, was the third winner saddled by Brining in three days.

At the conclusion of this event, Moose lodges of Frostburg and Cumberland presented trophies. A. J. Green, trustee of Frostburg Lodge No. 348, presented a bond to J. K. Wynkoop, owner of The General. William G. Beier, governor of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, presented trophies to the owner and Jockey "General" Grant.

Shirey Pilots Long Shot

After Purple Peggy, an outsider, scored in the opener over V-Dorothy and returned $17.20 for $2, and the place horse netted backers $19.80, Robert Shirey, apprentice rider of Hyndman, Pa., piloted Two Plus, a 27 to 1 shot, to a photo finish win over Outlet, the favorite, in the second event.

Two Plus paid the best price of the meeting to date when those holding $2 win tickets on A. B. Hummer's 6-year-old gelding received $56. It was Shirey's first winning mount of the meeting. An objection was filed by E. Hopkins, aboard Hyde Girl, which finished third, but the claim of foul was disallowed. Hopkins claimed that his mount was squeezed by Two Plus and Outlet, the favorite, in the home stretch.

55 Persons Collect $311.60

Fifty-five persons collected $311.60 each when the daily double combination of 4 and 2 (Purple Peggy and Two Plus) scored.

Cedar Al, trained by J. K. Fockler, Hagerstown grocer, brought home the bacon in the third race, a five furlongs sprint for two-year-olds. Dusty Moment, the favorite, was a half a length in the rear with Rennesta Moose taking show money. Cedar Al was among the outsiders that registered during the day. Those who had $2 win tickets riding on the two-year-old son of Bull Moose, received $13.20.

Mrs. V. P. Moxley's Harv Aethel, a 6 to 1 shot, took the 6th at the nice price of $14.40. Agency was second, Hard Loser, third, and Double Risk, the favorite, was 6th and last.

Photocharts for win were called in two races yesterday—the second in which Two Plus nosed out Outlet, and the 8th in which New Book eked out a decision over Careless Knight.

Games Are Postponed

John R. Kelly, Jr., yesterday announced that all games scheduled for today in the City Softball League have been postponed.

A full schedule will be played next week.

The games listed for today were Astor Cab vs. North End, Lacy's vs. American Legion, Reed's Electricians vs. Concord Clothiers and V.F.W. vs. Maccabees.

Seven games already have been postponed this week on account of rain.

Enos Slaughter Injured As Cards And Phils Split

Outfielder Suffers Cerebral Concussion

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, drubbed 9 to 2 in the first game as their pitching and inner defense came apart, struck back at the Philadelphia Phillies with a long range attack to take the nightcap 13 to 3 and gain an even split in today's doubleheader.

Enos Slaughter

The Phils pounded out 12 hits in the opener with four errors by the Cardinal infield, two of them charged against Whitey Kurowski, helping their cause. But the world champions made 14 blows, three of them homers, good for a triumph in the second.

The split dropped the Cards five games back of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who whipped the Cincinnati Reds in a single game.

The Cards also lost the services, at least temporarily, of hard-hitting Enos Slaughter. The left fielder collided with Bernie Creger, subbing for Shortstop Marty Marion, in the eighth inning of the first game and was taken to Temple Hospital where Dr. Henry Wycis said he suffered a cerebral concussion. He was to be detained over night in the hospital for observation. Box:

Bears To Seek Sixth Victory Over All-Stars

Pros And Collegians Tangle At Chicago

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP)—The 1947 gridiron season kicks off tomorrow night in the revengeful Chicago Bears, champions of the National Football League, determined to wallop the College All-Stars and soothe the 16-0 licking the All-Stars handed the Los Angeles Rams last year.

The 14th annual contest, to be played in flood-lighted Soldier Field on Chicago's lake front, will draw a record-breaking crowd of 103,000.

If the sweltering temperatures continue to hang the 90's, as forecast, the shirt-sleeved fans may see more of tricky forward passing than exhausting, slam-bang ground play.

The All-Stars, coached by Notre Dame's Frank Leahy, are handicapped by the loss of at least three outstanding backfield performers, Army's Glenn Davis, the "Mr. Outside" of the Cadets' famed offense last year; Julie Rykovich, star of Illinois' Rose Bowl Champions; and Bob Penimore of Oklahoma A. & M. All three were injured while scrimmaging at the All-Star camp in Evanston, Ill., and will see little or no action.

The All-Stars will depend upon backfield speed, including the sweeps of Claude (Buddy) Young, Illinois' Negro flyer, Charley Trippi of Georgia and Vic Schwall of Northwestern, and on the sharp passing of Notre Dame's George Ratterman, Ben Raimondi of Indiana and perhaps Trippi.

The Chicago Bears, in excellent physical condition and rated seven and a half points better than the collegiates by local bet-makers, are determined to win if for no other reason than to avenge the bruising dent in National League prestige caused by last year's All-Star trimming of the Rams.

Moreover, the Bears—making their sixth appearance in the series—have never been defeated by the All-Stars, although they were held to a scoreless tie in the 1934 inaugural contest.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — The Quantico Marines won the Eastern Service Command baseball championship today by trouncing Bolling Field's army team 17 to 2 in the rubber game of their series.

Captain Joe Johnson, Marine second baseman, hit a home run with the bases loaded, and followed it with a triple—all in the first inning, in which the Marines scored nine runs. He batted in seven runs during the game.

Quantico won the first game of the series Monday 9 to 6, and Bolling Field took the second one yesterday 6 to 5.

The score:

Ebb and Flow of the Tide

Time, supposed to be endless, can also work in a hurry. It can make or break you in a week or a month. Or even in a day. In the course of a year it can turn everything upside down. Especially in baseball.

Mickey Vernon

This thought happened along as we looked over the records of 1946 and 1947, as the roulette wheel of fate kept spinning.

For one example, a year ago Mickey Vernon of the Senators led both leagues with a .353 batting average. It was reported that Larry MacPhail had offered $150,000 for Vernon's contract, as at that time the Yankees had no hard-hitting first baseman in sight.

Today, with the summer on its way to early fall, Vernon is now in 35th place among American League hitters, not including over 50 hitters in the N.L. which would leave Mickey in a spot close to the 85th mark. A year ago, there were wordy arguments as to whether Bob Feller of Cleveland or Hal Newhouser of Detroit was the greater pitcher. At this August check-up, Bob Feller is in 15th place among the winners and Hal Newhouser's ranking is 39th.

A year ago, Dave Ferriss was on his way to winning 25 games. At this writing, Dave occupies the 26th spot on the pitching side.

A year ago, Howie Pollet and Murry Dickson were the two Cardinal stars, close to the top. Pollet was a 20-game winner. As the last records were offered for 1947, Dickson was in the 41st slot and Pollet down as low as 45th place, among those who throw a baseball for a living.

These are just a few of many examples to show what the Old Doc with the sharp scythe can slip you when he feels in the mood. He can lift you up—and he can also yank you down at even greater speed. He doesn't seem to care.

Old Doc Time is a temperamental mug. He doesn't bother about names or reputations. He lets nature take its course. I interviewed him once, and this is all he had to say:

"As this old world goes roun' and roun',
Some go up—and some go down."

This can happen in baseball more than any game I know. Up and down—down and up. A year ago Vernon hit above .353 and George McQuinn was around .225. Now with Vernon at .275, McQuinn has been over .300 most of the year. A shift of some hundred points. Even more.

The Few Who Hang On

But there are always a few who hang on, looking the Old Doc in the eye.

One of these is Ted Williams of the Red Sox. There seems to be a vague idea around that Ted has taken a dip this season. I'd like to take the same brand of dip.

They have built up a defense against Williams that was supposed to wreck him. He may not be the annhilator of other seasons, but he is still up there challenging for the home-run title in the A.L., the batting leadership and the runs-batted-in honors. He may win all three. I wouldn't call this skidding, slipping or falling apart.

As Dizzy Dean once told me in his fading years: "I ain't what I used to be—but who in hell is?"

I would say that in an off year for so many stars, Ted Williams is doing a great job.

So is Joe DiMaggio, in spite of numerous ailments. Joe DiMaggio is still the top artist left in baseball.

A few of those who starred last season are still delivering. One of these is Kiner of the Pirates, who led the National League in the home-run roundup a year ago, and is likely to lead it again. Johnny Mize, always a power hitter, is still shooting his salvos. So is Hank Greenberg, a rather weary veteran who is still among the leaders.

But so far, 1947 has been featured by stars unknown a year ago. One is Ewell Blackwell of the Reds, with a 20-game season in his pocket. Blackwell has been rated far above Feller and Newhouser with a weaker ball club. The tall and lanky one, the human No. 1 Iron, has been the best pitcher of the year.

Another leading star is Harry Walker of the Phillies. Eddie Dyer, one of baseball's smartest. Dyer traded him to the Phillies in exchange for Ron Northey. At which point, Harry Walker, Dixie's brother, promptly took charge of the batting mark in both leagues. Working with a tail-end club, Walker has been one of the season's star performers. So has Blackwell.

You heard few murmers about Blackwell and Harry Walker a year ago. But they have driven the stars of 1946 into the gravel ditch. They have been the class of both leagues, operating for teams that never had a chance to win.

WILLIAMSPORT HIGH TEAM QUARANTINED, PLAYER HAS POLIO

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 21. (AP)—The Williamsport High School football squad of 85 players was placed under a 10-day observation quarantine today when one of the players developed infantile paralysis.

The player, Richard Nelson, 17, a junior was taken to the Williamsport Hospital where his condition was described as fair. Two other cases of polio previously were reported in this section.

To See Bobby Locke

READING, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP) — Bobby Locke, money winning South African golf star, will compete in the $10,000 Reading Open at the Berkshire Country Club Oct. 2-5. Locke said he had deferred his planned return home in order to compete here.

A Minnesota woman caught an 88½ pound snapping turtle raiding her chicken coop. It's believed to be a record.

In the future Wisconsin bow hunters will be required to have their bows unstrung while in any vehicle. Cross bows are outlawed.

Minnesota will have no open season on pheasants this year, nor on ruffed grouse.

Quantico Marines Win Service Command Title

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — The Quantico Marines won the Eastern Service Command baseball championship today by trouncing Bolling Field's army team 17 to 2 in the rubber game of their series.

Captain Joe Johnson, Marine second baseman, hit a home run with the bases loaded, and followed it with a triple—all in the first inning, in which the Marines scored nine runs. He batted in seven runs during the game.

Quantico won the first game of the series Monday 9 to 6, and Bolling Field took the second one yesterday 6 to 5.

The score:

BOLLING FIELD ..	200 000 000—	2	6 2
QUANTICO	902 321 000—17	16	2

Mickey Vernon

Ebb and Flow of the Tide

Time, supposed to be endless, can also work in a hurry. It can make or break you in a week or a month. Or even in a day. In the course of a year it can turn everything upside down. Especially in baseball.

This thought happened along as we looked over the records of 1946 and 1947, as the roulette wheel of fate kept spinning.

For one example, a year ago Mickey Vernon of the Senators led both leagues with a .353 batting average. It was reported that Larry MacPhail had offered $150,000 for Vernon's contract, as at that time the Yankees had no hard-hitting first baseman in sight.

Today, with the summer on its way to early fall, Vernon is now in 35th place among American League hitters, not including over 50 hitters in the N.L. which would leave Mickey in a spot close to the 85th mark. A year ago, there were wordy arguments as to whether Bob Feller of Cleveland or Hal Newhouser of Detroit was the greater pitcher. At this August check-up, Bob Feller is in 15th place among the winners and Hal Newhouser's ranking is 39th.

A year ago, Dave Ferriss was on his way to winning 25 games. At this writing, Dave occupies the 26th spot on the pitching side.

A year ago, Howie Pollet and Murry Dickson were the two Cardinal stars, close to the top. Pollet was a 20-game winner. As the last records were offered for 1947, Dickson was in the 41st slot and Pollet down as low as 45th place, among those who throw a baseball for a living.

These are just a few of many examples to show what the Old Doc with the sharp scythe can slip you when he feels in the mood. He can lift you up—and he can also yank you down at even greater speed. He doesn't seem to care.

Old Doc Time is a temperamental mug. He doesn't bother about names or reputations. He lets nature take its course. I interviewed him once, and this is all he had to say:

"As this old world goes roun' and roun',
Some go up—and some go down."

This can happen in baseball more than any game I know. Up and down—down and up. A year ago Vernon hit above .353 and George McQuinn was around .225. Now with Vernon at .275, McQuinn has been over .300 most of the year. A shift of some hundred points. Even more.

The Few Who Hang On

But there are always a few who hang on, looking the Old Doc in the eye.

One of these is Ted Williams of the Red Sox. There seems to be a vague idea around that Ted has taken a dip this season. I'd like to take the same brand of dip.

They have built up a defense against Williams that was supposed to wreck him. He may not be the annhilator of other seasons, but he is still up there challenging for the home-run title in the A.L., the batting leadership and the runs-batted-in honors. He may win all three. I wouldn't call this skidding, slipping or falling apart.

As Dizzy Dean once told me in his fading years: "I ain't what I used to be—but who in hell is?"

I would say that in an off year for so many stars, Ted Williams is doing a great job.

So is Joe DiMaggio, in spite of numerous ailments. Joe DiMaggio is still the top artist left in baseball.

A few of those who starred last season are still delivering. One of these is Kiner of the Pirates, who led the National League in the home-run roundup a year ago, and is likely to lead it again. Johnny Mize, always a power hitter, is still shooting his salvos. So is Hank Greenberg, a rather weary veteran who is still among the leaders.

But so far, 1947 has been featured by stars unknown a year ago. One is Ewell Blackwell of the Reds, with a 20-game season in his pocket. Blackwell has been rated far above Feller and Newhouser with a weaker ball club. The tall and lanky one, the human No. 1 Iron, has been the best pitcher of the year.

Another leading star is Harry Walker of the Phillies. Eddie Dyer, one of baseball's smartest. Dyer traded him to the Phillies in exchange for Ron Northey. At which point, Harry Walker, Dixie's brother, promptly took charge of the batting mark in both leagues. Working with a tail-end club, Walker has been one of the season's star performers. So has Blackwell.

You heard few murmers about Blackwell and Harry Walker a year ago. But they have driven the stars of 1946 into the gravel ditch. They have been the class of both leagues, operating for teams that never had a chance to win.

WILLIAMSPORT HIGH TEAM QUARANTINED, PLAYER HAS POLIO

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 21. (AP)—The Williamsport High School football squad of 85 players was placed under a 10-day observation quarantine today when one of the players developed infantile paralysis.

The player, Richard Nelson, 17, a junior was taken to the Williamsport Hospital where his condition was described as fair. Two other cases of polio previously were reported in this section.

To See Bobby Locke

READING, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP) — Bobby Locke, money winning South African golf star, will compete in the $10,000 Reading Open at the Berkshire Country Club Oct. 2-5. Locke said he had deferred his planned return home in order to compete here.

BROWNS' PASSERS—Aiming right at you are the boys who will do the football flinging for the champion Cleveland Browns this season. They are (from left) Quarterbacks Cliff Lewis, Otto Graham and Ermal Allen, a newcomer to the All-American Conference champs.

A Minnesota woman caught an 88½ pound snapping turtle raiding her chicken coop. It's believed to be a record.

In the future Wisconsin bow hunters will be required to have their bows unstrung while in any vehicle. Cross bows are outlawed.

Minnesota will have no open season on pheasants this year, nor on ruffed grouse.

Leslie Faces Pep In Title Bout Tonight

Featherweights Set For Scrap At Flint

FLINT, Mich., Aug. 21—(AP)—Willie Pep, curley-haired Connecticut comet, hits a major milestone in his ring career tomorrow night in a 15-round outdoor defense of his world featherweight championship against blond Jock Leslie, home-bred challenger who hit the fistic spotlight via a New Orleans-built reputation.

For Pep, who has a $25,000 guarantee from youthful Promoter Tommy Cussans, the scrap will be his fifth title defense since the clever Hartford boxer lifted the New York version of the crown from Chalky Wright nearly five years ago.

But the lithe little New Englander finds the newest tussle bearing more poignantly than any other on his ring future.

It's the first time Pep has laid the title on the line since he came out of a Jersey plane crack-up last January with a fractured ankle and back injuries.

His manager, Lou Viscusi, declares that Willie, who has won 114 of his 116 fights as a professional, is as stout as ever, and the betting colony backs up the contention by establishing the champ as favorite at odds ranging from 9-7 to 3-1, but Pep still will have to prove he's as solid as when he added the NBA title to his New York version by stepping past Sal Bartolo a year ago.

Since the plane crash, which took two lives and sent Willie to the hospital wondering if ever he would fight again, Pep has beaten six opponents of questionable strength, all in non-title efforts.

But he hasn't been up against a puncher with the power of Leslie, whom his followers boast is one of the hardest hitters, pound for pound, in the ring business today. In 73 fights Jock has scored 34 knockouts and Les Krell, his manager, has announced he'll send Leslie out to try to corner the champ early.

Green Terrors List Nine Soccer Games

WESTMINSTER, Md., Aug. 21. (AP)—Charlie Havens, Western Maryland College athletics director, announced today a nine-game soccer schedule for the Green Terrors.

Oct. 3—Loyola at Baltimore; 10—Washington College at Chestertown; 18—Franklin and Marshall, home; 24—Delaware at Newark, Del.; 29—Baltimore University, home; Nov. 1—Dickenson at Carlisle, Pa.; 8—Bucknell, home; 12—Gettysburg, at Gettysburg, Pa.; 21—Johns Hopkins, home.

The Sportlight

The team feature of the year has been the number of winning performers George Weiss, of the Yankee farm system, has rushed to Yank- held. This list includes Yogi Berra, Frank Shea, Allie Clark, Vic Rashi and a few others, who have carried the Yankees along, with many of their star veterans—Chandler, DiMaggio, Henrich and a few more taking hospital treatment.

With almost no advance build-up, the Yankee farm system has been far better than that of the Dodgers, rated, last spring, as the best. The Dodgers have drawn in no such stars from the provinces as the Yankees have. It hasn't even been close.

So you can slip a nod to George Weiss and Larry MacPhail, well over Branch Rickey's established smartness.

But after all, one of the main sprigs of laurel must be handed over to Connie Mack and his Athletics—picked to finish last. Here is the season's top feature, headed by a tall, thin gentleman of 84, who has been in baseball for 63 years.

"And we'll be a lot tougher next year," Mr. Mack told me a few days ago. "A lot tougher." When you are 84 and can still look ahead, that's intestinal fortitude to a high degree.

Leslie Faces Pep In Title Bout Tonight

Featherweights Set For Scrap At Flint

FLINT, Mich., Aug. 21—(AP)—Willie Pep, curley-haired Connecticut comet, hits a major milestone in his ring career tomorrow night in a 15-round outdoor defense of his world featherweight championship against blond Jock Leslie, home-bred challenger who hit the fistic spotlight via a New Orleans-built reputation.

For Pep, who has a $25,000 guarantee from youthful Promoter Tommy Cussans, the scrap will be his fifth title defense since the clever Hartford boxer lifted the New York version of the crown from Chalky Wright nearly five years ago.

But the lithe little New Englander finds the newest tussle bearing more poignantly than any other on his ring future.

It's the first time Pep has laid the title on the line since he came out of a Jersey plane crack-up last January with a fractured ankle and back injuries.

His manager, Lou Viscusi, declares that Willie, who has won 114 of his 116 fights as a professional, is as stout as ever, and the betting colony backs up the contention by establishing the champ as favorite at odds ranging from 9-7 to 3-1, but Pep still will have to prove he's as solid as when he added the NBA title to his New York version by stepping past Sal Bartolo a year ago.

Since the plane crash, which took two lives and sent Willie to the hospital wondering if ever he would fight again, Pep has beaten six opponents of questionable strength, all in non-title efforts.

But he hasn't been up against a puncher with the power of Leslie, whom his followers boast is one of the hardest hitters, pound for pound, in the ring business today. In 73 fights Jock has scored 34 knockouts and Les Krell, his manager, has announced he'll send Leslie out to try to corner the champ early.

Green Terrors List Nine Soccer Games

WESTMINSTER, Md., Aug. 21. (AP)—Charlie Havens, Western Maryland College athletics director, announced today a nine-game soccer schedule for the Green Terrors.

Oct. 3—Loyola at Baltimore; 10—Washington College at Chestertown; 18—Franklin and Marshall, home; 24—Delaware at Newark, Del.; 29—Baltimore University, home; Nov. 1—Dickenson at Carlisle, Pa.; 8—Bucknell, home; 12—Gettysburg, at Gettysburg, Pa.; 21—Johns Hopkins, home.

The team feature of the year has been the number of winning performers George Weiss, of the Yankee farm system, has rushed to Yank- held. This list includes Yogi Berra, Frank Shea, Allie Clark, Vic Rashi and a few others, who have carried the Yankees along, with many of their star veterans—Chandler, DiMaggio, Henrich and a few more taking hospital treatment.

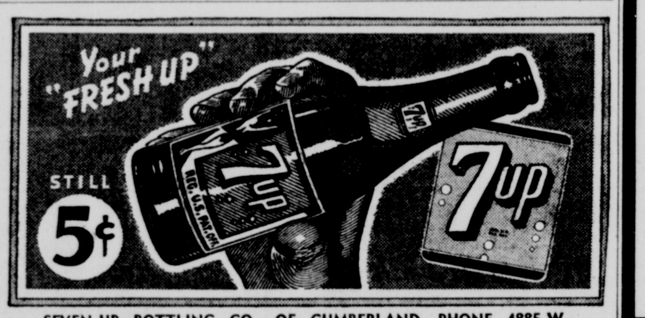

With almost no advance build-up, the Yankee farm system has been far better than that of the Dodgers, rated, last spring, as the best. The Dodgers have drawn in no such stars from the provinces as the Yankees have. It hasn't even been close.

So you can slip a nod to George Weiss and Larry MacPhail, well over Branch Rickey's established smartness.

But after all, one of the main sprigs of laurel must be handed over to Connie Mack and his Athletics—picked to finish last. Here is the season's top feature, headed by a tall, thin gentleman of 84, who has been in baseball for 63 years.

"And we'll be a lot tougher next year," Mr. Mack told me a few days ago. "A lot tougher." When you are 84 and can still look ahead, that's intestinal fortitude to a high degree.

General Eisenhower will recall officers who have been detailed to civilian federal Government jobs. . . . The petition will shortly be presented to Gov. Dewey. . . . Best opening nite seats in the house at the Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Mass, are reserved for the critic of the new Bedford, Mass., Standard-Times, Anne Ricketson, who is past 80. . . . Edouard Fuchs, former Belgium Army officer, liaison officer with the Black Watch, the Polish Armored Division and our own 101st Airborne Division, has launched a gadget in the local nite spots (the Versailles, the Little Club, Henri's, et al) which may rival in popularity the ouija boards of World War I. It'ss called Metacom, and though labeled a parlor game, Fuchs claims it accurately predicts the future. Something the United Nations might look into.

Cafe Intelligence: Sam Salvin's block-long Park Avenue Restaurant officially opens its doors Sept. 11. . . . The nite before finds La Martinique offering a 16 piece gypsy band as entertainment (as successfully tried at Saratoga this season) and one rumba band (Maya) for dancing. . . . Paul Villiard returns to Le Ruban Bleu the same date after having completed his movie chores. Maxine Sullivan co-stars with him there. . . . The Village Vanguard, where Maxine holds forth at present, closes for a week beginning Aug. 29 to redecorate. . . . Ella Fitzgerald, back from the hinterlands of New Jersey, takes the spotlight over at Club Downbeat next week.

Few Ideas For His Column Come From The Voluminous Mail Billy Rose Receives

By GORDON GAMMACK

There may have been other pictures in the super swank and plush office of Columnist-Showman Billy Rose but the only one I noticed was a photograph on the grand piano of Bernard Baruch, the elder statesman, adviser to presidents, and sort of a father confessor of Billy. Rose once was Baruch's stenographer—and a corking good one, too.

When Billy mentions "the old man", you're supposed to know he refers to Baruch. "I get some of my notions for columns from the Old Man," he says. "He calls me up and says, 'Billy, why don't you do a piece on this?' And whenever I do a piece about anything economic, you can bet it's been documented by the Old Man."

Do you remember the column Rose wrote accusing the U. S. State Department of double talk over American Palestine policy? Billy worried over that one and so he called Baruch and read it to him. "It's an angry piece, Billy," Baruch told him. "But go ahead." Rose says that if the "inside" information he's received is correct, President Truman read that column and took action. "I'm glad I wrote it," he told me.

Rose's background as a stenographer fits into the daily column work. "I get to the office about 11 every morning," says Billy, "and about 1, I'm ready to tackle the column. It takes me four to six hours.

"First I write the thing out in shorthand and I wind up with about 1,300 words. That's more than twice the length the column will be when I get through. Then my secretary comes down and I dictate the piece to her. After that comes the hard part. I go over every sentence, cut out all the surplus stuff, get rid of the corny stuff, and change words here and there. If I'm lucky, the column's ready for the mimeographers by 6. After cutting the thing from 1,300 to 500 or 700, I don't figure the editors of the paper that use it should cut it any more. When they do, I write 'em amiable letters. Usually, I get amiable replies and they don't do it any more."

Writing a column is about all Billy does in a business way these days. He owns the Ziegfield theater but he says the only real problem about this is picking a good show for it (now "Brigadoon") and then "it runs itself." He makes a mint of dough out of his night club, "Diamond Horseshoe," but doesn't enter the place more than eight or ten times a year. "I've got fellows at the club who've been with me since they were in knee pants. The place runs like a well-greased slot machine," he says.

I asked Billy where in the world he gets all his ideas for columns. (He calls them "notions.") "When you've had the kind of life I've had, you're full of ideas," he explained. And he outlined his experiences with Baruch; his life chapter as a song writer (Barney Google, Without a Song, It's only a Paper Moon, It Happened in Monterey; among 40 hits); his married life with Fannie Brice and all her stage friends, and his intimate knowledge of Broadway as a show producer (Carmen Jones, Jumbo, Crazy Quilt, Aquacade.) Billy's catalogue of friends reads like a Who's Who of the entertainment and literary world. Now, of course, Billy's married to the former swimming champ, Eleanor Holm.

Billy says his voluminous mail doesn't produce many "notions." But occasionally a writer comes through with a bright idea. Billy's attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays, and the writer, Ben Hecht, are among the friends who contribute "notions." Billy takes quite a shine to his confidence man character, Maj. Timothy Morgan. "He's a combination of about three different guys I've known. Give me a year more and Morgan will be quite a national character."

Rose is a busy little gent—and he plays pretty hard after working hours. Right now he's compiling a book from his columns.

Yes, Billy's a busy man. After we'd been chatting an hour and a half the phone rang once again. "You'll have to excuse me," he said when he hung up. "Couple of fellows are here to talk to me about a radio program. I'll do it right here from my office."

Billy Rose is, of course, richer than somewhat, and that long has been his great desire. He explained it to me this way: "I always wanted to feel the rustle of silk on my back." Well, Billy's dream has come true. His underwear now is all silk.

Miss Watson, who was a graduate of Beall High School, Class of 1946, had suffered a heart condition for several years and had been in a critical condition for the past three days.

Active in church work, she was a member of Eckhart Baptist Church and a teacher in the church Sunday school. Since her graduation she had been employed as assistant librarian at Beall High School.

Woman Struck By Truck

Frostburg City Police stated yesterday that Mrs. Clementine Jones, 71, National, was struck by a truck at the corner of Broadway and Main Streets today at 2:30 p. m. and has been admitted to Miners Hospital for observation.

Mrs. Jones, according to authorities, stepped in front of a truck operated by Gordon Morgan, Carlos, who was turning from Broadway to Main Street.

Hospital attaches said the woman complained of pains in the side of her head and that she is being kept at the hospital for observation.

Police said the driver of the vehicle was driving at a very slow speed and stopped immediately after Mrs. Jones was hit.

A pedestrian notified Police Officer Donald Griffin who took the woman to the hospital in a car which was parked nearby.

Mrs. Jones is the mother of Joseph William Jones, Midland, whose family is being aided by the Jones Family Fund while her son and his wife and one daughter are being treated in the State Sanitarium at Sabillasville, Md., for tuberculosis.

His only injury was a slight brush burn on one of his hands and he left the hospital after receiving treatment.

The accident happened at the traffic light on the corner of Main and Water Streets. It is believed that Crowe, who has imperfect vision and walks with a cane, stepped in front of the car which was moving slowly at the traffic light. Crowe resides with his brother, Fred Crowe, member of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board.

Variety In Summer Desserts

BLACK BOTTOM PIE . . . After a light meal

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

While I am a great advocate of using fruit for dessert in summer just as much as possible, I do think that once in a while, particularly as the wind-up of a very light summer meal, it's fun to have a dessert which is a real "production." Here are a few suggestions:

Heavenly Black Bottom Pie
Gingersnap Crust

1 cup finely crushed gingersnap crumbs (about 14 ginger snaps)
5 tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Mix crumbs and melted butter or margarine. Press into 9-inch pie plate with back of spoon dipped in cold water. Bake 10 minutes at 300°. Cool.

Filling

1 envelope plain unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups milk
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1¼ tablespoons cornstarch
4 eggs, separated

Chocolate Custard Layer

1½ squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Rum Flavored Chiffon Layer

½ cup sugar or ⅓ cup light or dark corn syrup and 2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon rum extract

Topping

2 tablespoons semi-sweet chocolate,
1 tablespoon nuts, finely chopped
or
1 cup cream, whipped
2 tablespoons sugar
½ square bitter chocolate, shaved

Soften gelatine in cold water. Scald milk. Combine sugar, salt and cornstarch. Beat egg yolks, add scalded milk slowly, stirring constantly. Stir in sugar mixture. Cook over simmering water for 20 minutes stirring constantly. Remove from heat and take out 1 cup of custard. To this add melted chocolate, beat with rotary beater. Cool, add vanilla and pour into cool crumb crust. Chill. To remaining hot custard add softened gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Cool, but do not chill. Beat egg whites until frothy, add cream of tartar and continue beating until stiff. Add sugar (or corn syrup and sugar) slowly in 3 additions, beating between each addition until whites are very stiff. Add rum extract to custard and fold in egg whites. Pour over chilled chocolate custard layer. If whipped cream topping is omitted, garnish now with shaved semi-sweet chocolate and nuts. Chill or top with sweetened whipped cream, garnished with bitter chocolate just before serving.

Angel Pie

1 rich pastry shell
4 egg yolks
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup cream, whipped
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar

Prepare pie shell, bake and cool. Beat egg yolks. Add sugar, salt, orange, lemon juice, and rinds. Place over hot water. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Whip cream with confectioners' sugar. Spread half over pie shell. Then spread filling and cover with remaining whipped cream. Chill at least twelve hours.

Manna From Catapult Betrays Smugglers

BERLIN—(AP)—A British sentry, struck in the head by a loaf of bread in the town of Heerlen near Juelich, uncovered an unusual art of smuggling to date.

The Dutch-German border runs down the Neustrasse in Heerlen. Investigation showed that a Dutchman was using a catapult to drop food packages to a collaborator on the German side of the street, only this time his aim was bad.

Plastic Traps For Snowflakes

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(AP)—The Finn Ronne expedition now in the Antarctic has some plastic to trap snowflakes.

The plastic coats the flakes and dries almost instantly, so that a perfect reproduction of every convolution and line is preserved, even though the flakes melt inside their prisons.

The plastic technique was furnished by Vincent J. Schaefer, of General Electric, Schenectady, the scientist who made natural snow in New England clouds. Schaefer wants to see whether Antarctic flakes are exactly like those of the north.

Variety In Summer Desserts

BLACK BOTTOM PIE . . . After a light meal

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

While I am a great advocate of using fruit for dessert in summer just as much as possible, I do think that once in a while, particularly as the wind-up of a very light summer meal, it's fun to have a dessert which is a real "production." Here are a few suggestions:

Heavenly Black Bottom Pie
Gingersnap Crust

1 cup finely crushed gingersnap crumbs (about 14 ginger snaps)
5 tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Mix crumbs and melted butter or margarine. Press into 9-inch pie plate with back of spoon dipped in cold water. Bake 10 minutes at 300°. Cool.

Filling

1 envelope plain unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups milk
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1¼ tablespoons cornstarch
4 eggs, separated

Chocolate Custard Layer

1½ squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Rum Flavored Chiffon Layer

½ cup sugar or ⅜ cup light or dark corn syrup and 2 tablespoons sugar
¾ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon rum extract

Topping

2 tablespoons semi-sweet chocolate,
1 tablespoon nuts, finely chopped
or
1 cup cream, whipped
2 tablespoons sugar
½ square bitter chocolate, shaved

Soften gelatine in cold water. Scald milk. Combine sugar, salt and cornstarch. Beat egg yolks, add scalded milk slowly, stirring constantly. Stir in sugar mixture. Cook over simmering water for 20 minutes stirring constantly. Remove from heat and take out 1 cup of custard. To this add melted chocolate, beat with rotary beater. Cool, add vanilla and pour into cool crumb crust. Chill. To remaining hot custard add softened gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Cool, but do not chill. Beat egg whites until frothy, add cream of tartar and continue beating until stiff. Add sugar (or corn syrup and sugar) slowly in 3 additions, beating between each addition until whites are very stiff. Add rum extract to custard and fold in egg whites. Pour over chilled chocolate custard layer. If whipped cream topping is omitted, garnish now with shaved semi-sweet chocolate and nuts. Chill or top with sweetened whipped cream, garnished with bitter chocolate just before serving.

Angel Pie

1 rich pastry shell
4 egg yolks
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup cream, whipped
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar

Prepare pie shell, bake and cool. Beat egg yolks. Add sugar, salt, orange, lemon juice, and rinds. Place over hot water. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Whip cream with confectioners' sugar. Spread half over pie shell. Then spread filling and cover with remaining whipped cream. Chill at least twelve hours.

Manna From Catapult Betrays Smugglers

BERLIN—(AP)—A British sentry, struck in the head by a loaf of bread in the town of Heerlen near Juelich, uncovered an unusual art of smuggling to date.

The Dutch-German border runs down the Neustrasse in Heerlen. Investigation showed that a Dutchman was using a catapult to drop food packages to a collaborator on the German side of the street, only this time his aim was bad.

DEATHS

BENJAMIN NORTH RITES

A funeral servilce for Benjamin Riley North, 69, 505 Maryland Avenue, who died yesterday in Allegany Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Stein Funeral Home.

Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will officiate and burial will be in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Mr. North, who retired two years ago as assistant superintendent of the meter department of the Potomac Edison Company here, was admitted to the hospital on August 7 for treatment of a broken back suffered when he fell from a tree while picking pears at the farm of his brother-in-law, Harry Gordon, at Murley's Branch.

He had been improving recently and was able to be up in a wheel chair, but took a sudden turn for the worse yesterday morning and died shortly afterwards.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death resulted from a pulmonary embolism, adding that Mr. North suffered compressed fractures of the 12th dorsal and second and fourth lumbar vertebrae as a result of the fall.

Mr. North was a native of Murley's Branch, a son of the late Henry and Elizabeth Athey North. He was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Knights of Pythias.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Esther Wilson North, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Hattie Bottenfield, Twiggtown, and Mrs. Dolly Wilson, 216 Park Street.

She was born in Bedford County, Pa., October 19, 1858, a daughter of the late Jonathan and Margaret Brighthill. Her father was a member of a noted carriage building family of Bedford County. She was the last survivor of a family of 10 children.

Her husband, a West Virginia Central and Pittsburgh Railroad engineer, was killed in an accident in 1905.

She had been a resident of Cumberland for 60 years, was a member of the Grand Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers and of the Methodist Church.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by two sons, Capt. Jeremiah T. Defibaugh, Sr., 200 Glenn Street, and Mark A. Defibaugh, Kawanee, Ill., eight grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

MRS. MARY C. BLACK

Mrs. Mary Clark Black, 77, last-surviving member of a pioneer Allegany county family, and widow of W. S. (Billy) Black, former circuit clerk of Marion county, W. Va., died in a Fairmont, W. Mrs. Black was a daughter of Andrew Jackson Clark, pioneer coal operator in the Georges Creek field, and was a descendant of original settlers in the "Western Mountains" as this section was known in American colonial days.

Another sister of Mrs. Black was the wife of the late John A. Clark, pioneer coal operator in the Northern West Virginia field who went there from Georges Creek. Two brothers also were prominent in the northern coal field, George and William Clark, both well known in the early days of development.

Mrs. Black, who was known by the younger generation as "Aunt Mayme" Black, had been a resident of Fairmont 50 years, settling there when a young woman. Prior to her marriage, she was cashier in a mercantile establishment in Fairmont. After her husband's death in 1918, she led a secluded life in a cottage in the Bell Run section of Fairmont on the estate of Mrs. Harry B. Mrs. Black remained in good health until six months ago. She suffered a slight stroke in the early spring and entered the hospital. She never completely rallied and three days before her death lapsed into a coma.

Surviving are a niece, Mrs. John P. Somerville, 509 Fayette Street, this city, and several nephews and nieces including John A. (June) Clark, coal operator; Kenna Clark, county clerk of Marion County; William Clark Dobbie, until recently an official with the Solid Fuels Administration, Washington, and W. G. KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Flynn

So many leading men have been rumored for Jane, but it's Lew Ayres who has finally been chosen, and I suppose because Warners were so delighted with his work in "The Unfaithful." Steve Trilling, who signed Lew, was sold on him from the start, and so was Jerry Wald, the producer, as well as Jean Negulsaco, the director. So he must be right for the romantic lead with all those people pulling for him.

I told you about Lew and Audrey Totter's romance. They have dinner about three nights a week so perhaps Lew is actually more romantic.

Lilli Palmer took four scripts with her to England and a seven-year contract from Milton Sperling. I hear on pretty good authority that Lilli, who is Austrian-born and not English, may not stay as long as Rex Harrison does, that she'll come back to America very soon.

I also hear that one of the plays she'll do is "Dream Street" and it's her next.

Unless the tax is settled, I doubt very much if Darryl Zanuck will go ahead with his plan to make "Escape" in England, which stars Rex Harrison, although no decision has actually been reached.

I guess love can make the movies go round too. For purely sentimental reasons, he explained, Errol Flynn wants his wife to play one of the 15 beauties who try to capture his heart in "Don Juan." Jack Warner is lending a sympathetic ear to the request, so Nora Eddington Flynn probably will be starting a movie career of her own. Let's hope Errol knows what he is doing, launching another career in his family.

Ironic that Mrs. Paul Lukas and her mother who are now in Europe cannot get into Budapest. All during the war they worried over their kin, from whom they didn't hear. Now they are refused admittance into their native country where they hoped to see their family. The Russian government will not issue them a visa.

Paul is in Germany making "Berlin Express," but I bet even if he had time to visit Budapest, he couldn't get a visa either.

That certainly seems strange to me because when I visited Budapest some years ago, Paul was the No. I Hungarian actor called the John Barrymore of that country.

Dolores Moran, who has remained practically in retirement for over six months because of a skin allergy, has had a ray of hope this last week.

Lionel Barrymore, that darling, heard my radio broadcast and gave me the name of a salve which he said cured a friend of his who had almost given up hope.

Dolores needn't give up hope because Merle Oberon had almost a similar allergy and her face finally cleared up.

I talked with Irene who was at a party given by the Larry Weingartens in honor of Dorothy Manners and John Haskell. Irene was telling me about her wholesale business which opens in September. She'll make clothes and sell them just as Adrian does, but she's not giving up her M-G-M job. She'll do both.

She flies to Dallas, Texas, early in September to receive an Oscar given by Stanley Marcus who every year offers prizes for distinguished service in the field of fashion. Norman Hartnell of London, who is the dressmaker to the Queen of England gets a prize, as do several other coutueriers, one Franch and one Italian.

Now don't misunderstand me—the cast and crew gave George S. Kaufman an "egg." That's because they dubbed him a "swell egg" after he finished directing "The Senator Was Indiscreet."

The last "egg" was presented to W. C. Fields 10 years ago. Believe me, when you get a tribute like that from the crew, that's really a compliment. I saw George at the Weingarten party, and I thought he looked extremely well, and as of Hollywood agreed with him—well it does with most people.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: June Havoc's romance with Bill Piers is getting hotter and hotter.

That was Betty Bigelow, the comely model, again with Dave Rose at the Santa Monica Mayfair.

Eddie Carr, who received a serious back injury during the war, is making a grand comeback at Charley Foy's Supper Club, where he opened Tuesday night.

Dana Andrews is going to Texas to visit his mother as soon as he knows there will be no retakes on "Daisy Kenyin."

Speaking of "Daisy Kenyon," Joan Crawford was with Cesar Romero at the Darryl Zanucks party, and when they danced everyone stopped to look at them—they were that good. Joan is in Carmel and will stay until she goes to Honolulu, September 5th.

Magda Gabor was with George Sanders again at the Chanteclair. Apparently he likes the family.

You may now address Gene Fowler, as Dr. Fowler. He received a degree of doctor of letters from the University of Colorado. He went there a year in 1910, and I bet he never thought he'd get a degree.

Ann Todd has been ordered by her London doctor to take a complete rest, and that's one reason she's not returning to Hollywood.

Kathryn Grayson and Johnny Johnson, who get married this week will spend their honeymoon in Canada.

Anita Louise will definitely return to Columbia and pictures when her baby is a little older.

Pittsburgh gets the first Fred Astaire dance studio. He's opening them all over the country.

Bob Mitchum, who cracked up two years ago while flying, had a time to get his wife's consent to fly to Eugene, Oregon, on location.

Kay Francis is remaining in the east and will go on the road with "State Of The Union" company. Ralph Bellamy, however, will do another show.

That's all today.

First Grid Game Of 1947 Will Be Broadcast Tonight

By C. E. BUTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Aug 21.—First taste of the 1947 football season in broadcasting comes to the kilocycles via the MBS network Friday night from 8:30 on. The game is the annual affair at Chicago, which this time is pitting College All-Stars against the Chicago Professional Bears.

The announcing team will be made up of Harry Wismer from the ABC network and Red Grange, famed University of Illinois star of '20's.

Vacation is over for another CBS program. It is FBI in Peace and War, off for eight weeks. In coming back it takes the new time of 8:30 Jimmy Durante's ex-spot.

A change in the fight for broadcast on ABC at 10 will make it a welterweight contest between Joe DiMartino and Charlie Fusari.

The Third Horseman, NBC documentary series at 8, which in five programs is treating on the food problem, will offer its second broadcast and consider Asia.

Gordon MacRae, subbing in Fannie Brice's time until she comes back to CBS at 7, will have the singing helyp of Dorothy Claire, out of a Broadway musicale. . . . It is Jack Kirkwood, not Author Moore, now running Arthur's Place on CBS at 8. The change was made, it was said, for the benefit of the program, which is to be replaced as soon as something can be found.

Paul Whiteman, now of the ABC records, will drop around for a Bill Stern sports guesting on NBC at 9:30.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

"Quiet, Please"

The author and director of a fairly new and rather unusual dramatic series called "Quiet, Please" is Wyllis Cooper and the principal actor and narrator is Ernest Chappell. This information is imparted right at the outset because these two make an excellent team and between them they have given this series a personality all its own. Mr. Cooper writes fanciful stroies, some of them dipping deeply into the grotesque, which consistently quiver with suspense.

John Crosby

They have an odd flavor, extremely difficult to describe, and they represent, I should say, pure radio. The best way to describe this program is simply to tell you a few of Mr. Cooper's yarns. There was a recent one in which two young men, the sons of propserous mining executives in Butte, Mont., tagged along more or less as a lark with a group of politicians on an inspection trip of the mines. They descended 3,700 feet. When the time came to return, the cage was quickly filled with politicians and went up to the surface without them. The two boys were left alone 3,700 feet down. One boy named Lincoln had been in and out of the mines many times; the other, Louis, had never been down there and was frankly scared to death.

To reassure his timorous friend while waiting for the cage to return for them, Lincoln invited him to proceed down a passage about twenty feet from the elevator shaft and inspect an odd and totally unexplainable tunnel. This tunnel, Lincoln explained, had been uncovered accidentally when a crosscut busted right into it. It was not a man made tunnel or at least it had not been made by miners of our time. Apparently it had been there for centuries, 3,700 feet straight down, and the strangest part of all was the fact the shaft was covered with what looked like Indian hieroglyphics.

While looking over the Indian pictures, though they were only twenty feet from the elevator shaft. The boys found themselves inexplicably lost, their miners' lamps blown out. Soon they were several hundred miles into the earth, led by a spectral figure. I don't think I'll tell you any more than that. After that, the story began to dissolve a little bit into total malarkey. However it is Mr. Cooper's gift to lead you into these macbre stories so skillfully told that you don't really mind his denounements.

There was another story about a radio writer, beset by constant, remorseless deadlines, whose typewriter suddenly started creating real, live characters. One character, a pirate, walked into the room and kissed the writer's wife. This so upset the girl she tore up the manuscript, which successfully exorcised the pirate. Weeks later, in the wee hours, the writer was trying to wrest an idea for a radio script from his strange typewriter. After some false starts, he began a story about an escaped convict, who invaded a mans home, entered the bedroom of his sleeping wife, knocked the husband cold . . .

Knowing the way that typewriter behaved it was a foolish thing to put on paper. When the writer picked himself up from the floor, the window was open and the convict had abducted his wife. With rare presence of mind, the writer resuscitated that pirate who casually-decepitated the convict and returned the wife, unscathed though mad as hops.

That's the sort of stories they are—just weird—and if you're of literal mind, I suggest you avbid them. Their great charm for me is the fact that I don't know what Mr. Cooper will do next. Also, these stories are handled with extreme skill. Mr. Cooper presents you with a fantastic idea but he never piles the unlikely on top of the unlikely. Once you accept the original premise, the rest follows logically. Incidentally the fantasies are never fully explained. There's the secret. Never explain anything fully. Leave 'em guessing. "Quiet, Please" is broadcast at 10 p. m. E. D. T. over the Mutual Broadcasting System on Sundays and is heard on WOR in New York same time on Mondays.

Small, Irritable Memorandum to Women Commentators, Disk Jockeys, Masters of Ceremonies, Announcers and Hildegarde (especially Hildegarde): The adjective "awful" and the adverb "awfully" are not synonomous with "very," "extremely" or "extraordinarily." While the colloquial use of those words in that sense is occasionally permissible, the constant use of them to the exclusion of all other words is getting damned tiresome. The language is filthy with adverbs, boys and girls. Let's dig up another one.

First Grid Game Of 1947 Will Be Broadcast Tonight

By C. E. BUTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Aug 21.—First taste of the 1947 football season in broadcasting comes to the kilocycles via the MBS network Friday night from 8:30 on. The game is the annual affair at Chicago, which this time is pitting College All-Stars against the Chicago Professional Bears.

The announcing team will be made up of Harry Wismer from the ABC network and Red Grange, famed University of Illinois star of '20's.

Vacation is over for another CBS program. It is FBI in Peace and War, off for eight weeks. In coming back it takes the new time of 8:30 Jimmy Durante's ex-spot.

A change in the fight for broadcast on ABC at 10 will make it a welterweight contest between Joe DiMartino and Charlie Fusari.

The Third Horseman, NBC documentary series at 8, which in five programs is treating on the food problem, will offer its second broadcast and consider Asia.

Gordon MacRae, subbing in Fannie Brice's time until she comes back to CBS at 7, will have the singing helyp of Dorothy Claire, out of a Broadway musicale. . . . It is Jack Kirkwood, not Author Moore, now running Arthur's Place on CBS at 8. The change was made, it was said, for the benefit of the program, which is to be replaced as soon as something can be found.

Paul Whiteman, now of the ABC records, will drop around for a Bill Stern sports guesting on NBC at 9:30.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Amie E. Howser, who passed away years ago, August 22nd, 1944.

We never shall forget you,
Whom we loved and could not save,
But God wanted you, dearest mother,
So He called you away.
And our thoughts wander daily
To your grave not far away,
Where they laid you, dearest mother,
Just 3 years ago today.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND and CHILDREN

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Grandmother, Ellen Yates Harris, Frostburg, who departed this life one year ago today, August 22, 1946.

The Lord is my Shepherd,
I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down
in green pastures;
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul;
He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley
of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil;
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy
staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies;
Thou anointest my head with oil;
My cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life;
And I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Amie E. Howser, who passed away years ago, August 22nd, 1944.

We never shall forget you,
Whom we loved and could not save,
But God wanted you, dearest mother,
So He called you away.
And our thoughts wander daily
To your grave not far away,
Where they laid you, dearest mother,
Just 3 years ago today.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND and CHILDREN

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Grandmother, Ellen Yates Harris, Frostburg, who departed this life one year ago today, August 22, 1946.

The Lord is my Shepherd,
I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down
in green pastures;
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul;
He leadeth me in the paths of
righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley
of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil;
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy
staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies;
Thou anointest my head with oil;
My cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life;
And I will dwell in the house of the
Lord forever.

Selective Recoveries Brighten Market As Dealings Remain Slow

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Selective recoveries brightened the stock market a bit today although dealings still were among the slowest of the past two years and many leaders found the going difficult.

Forward tendencies appeared here and there after a hesitant start but the ticker tape continued to loaf most of the time. Extreme advances running to a point or more were reduced in the majority of cases at the close although the plus column was widely populated. Transfers of 580,000 shares compared with 600,000 Wednesday and were a low since June 9.

At 1947 highs were Hershey Chocolate, up four at 105½; Gaylord Container 1¼ at 20¼, and Mullins Manufacturing 1⅛ at 22¼.

A. O. Smith added three at 56 and American Machine and Foundry 2¼ at 24¾. Ahead around a point or so were United States Gypsum at 99¼, Youngstown Sheet 69⅝, du Pont 188¼, Western Union 24¾ and Curtiss-Wright "A" 17½.

Lesser gainers included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, Texas Company, General Electric, American Can Philip Morris, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Great Northern Railway.

On the offside were Evans Products, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Deere, American Water Works, Roan Antelope, American Sumatra Tobacco and Standard Oil (NJ).

Favored in the Curb were Hall Lamp, Silex, American Gas, Cities Service and Creole Petroleum. Backward were Aluminum Ltd., International Petroleum, Brazilian Traction and South Penn Oil. Turnover here was 120,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

The bond market had a fair number of firm spots, although the general run of corporates held within a narrow range and trends on an overall basis were somewhat cloudy.

United States governments, which attracted higher bids on Wednesday after investors had digested the full import of the Treasury fall refunding program, were a little less certain of direction today. Final prices varied between gains of 1/32 to losses of 1/32 of a point in both short and longer term maturities.

Today's sales of $3,074,000 compared with $4,580,000 on Wednesday.

Selective Recoveries Brighten Market As Dealings Remain Slow

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Selective recoveries brightened the stock market a bit today although dealings still were among the slowest of the past two years and many leaders found the going difficult.

Forward tendencies appeared here and there after a hesitant start but the ticker tape continued to loaf most of the time. Extreme advances running to a point or more were reduced in the majority of cases at the close although the plus column was widely populated. Transfers of 580,000 shares compared with 600,000 Wednesday and were a low since June 9.

At 1947 highs were Hershey Chocolate, up four at 105½; Gaylord Container 1¼ at 20¼, and Mullins Manufacturing 1⅛ at 22¼.

A. O. Smith added three at 56 and American Machine and Foundry 2¼ at 24¾. Ahead around a point or so were United States Gypsum at 99¼, Youngstown Sheet 69⅝, du Pont 188¼, Western Union 24¾ and Curtiss-Wright "A" 17½.

Lesser gainers included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, Texas Company, General Electric, American Can Philip Morris, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Great Northern Railway.

On the offside were Evans Products, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Deere, American Water Works, Roan Antelope, American Sumatra Tobacco and Standard Oil (NJ).

Favored in the Curb were Hall Lamp, Silex, American Gas, Cities Service and Creole Petroleum. Backward were Aluminum Ltd., International Petroleum, Brazilian Traction and South Penn Oil. Turnover here was 120,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

The bond market had a fair number of firm spots, although the general run of corporates held within a narrow range and trends on an overall basis were somewhat cloudy.

United States governments, which attracted higher bids on Wednesday after investors had digested the full import of the Treasury fall refunding program, were a little less certain of direction today. Final prices varied between gains of 1/32 to losses of 1/32 of a point in both short and longer term maturities.

Today's sales of $3,074,000 compared with $4,580,000 on Wednesday.

Elder Street Housewife Badly Burned By Blast Is In Serious Condition

Mrs. Chester Erickson's Condition Serious; Cause Of Explosion Is As Yet Not Determined

An Elder Street housewife was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night at 11 o'clock in serious condition from first, second and third degree burns suffered in an explosion in the kitchen of her home that attracted neighbors from a wide area.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Chester Erickson, 33, 138 Elder Street, was taken to the hospital in an ambulance after Steven Lawrence, 204 Elder Street, helped her crawl through a bedroom window next to the kitchen, Lawrence said.

Hospital attaches said Mrs. Erickson was suffering from burns over her entire body, but explained her legs appeared to be burned the worst. Attaches said that while the woman's clothing was not badly burned, the flash flames seemed to have burned the body.

Police and firemen could not immediately determine the cause of the explosion which singed woodwork, consumed curtains and blinds and broke out the upper panes of glass in all of the other three rooms.

Screaming For Baby

Clarence Thompson, 206 Elder Street, told authorities that when they arrived the woman was sitting in an upright position on the porch screaming for her baby.

Thompson said he and Boone broke the glass in the door and released the lock and then began searching for the baby. The child actually was with its grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brown, Third Street.

Thompson said when he failed to find the child he and Boone began fighting the flames in the kitchen and declared that he turned off the gas in four burners on the stove that were wide open but not burning. Firemen said they turned the gas-heated water off but declared the water was not warm and it appeared that the tank had not been burinng for sometime.

Roy M. Breighner, 137 Elder Street, said he heard the explosion and immediately called the fire company. Both South End and Central Companies answered. Firemen said when they arrived the flames were under control with only the table cloth and a few rags burning in the kitchen.

The bedroom window, which is at right angles with the outside of the kitchen wall facing the kitchen, was raised when police arrived and the screen was broken. Lawrence said when he arrived at the top of the outside stair case Mrs. Erickson was crawling through the window, and he assisted he though then set her on the porch while he also searched for the child.

Explosion Was Loud

Police said Mrs. Erickson apparently was the only person in the house, and observers said Mr. Erickson, a Celanese employe, was called home shortly after he reported for work on the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift.

With the exception of the windows nothing was damaged in the kitchen by the force of the explosion, but the wallpaper and all of the cloth furniture coverings were badly burned. The doors and woodwork were blistered over the entire surface.

Thompson said when he entered the apartment the door leading from the kitchen to the living room was closed and a garment hanging on the door was burned on the exposed part.

Mrs. Brown, mother of the injured woman, said Mr. and Mrs. Erickson brought the baby to her home yesterday morning to be kept while they went to the races at Fairgo. There was a racing form on the kitchen table, which was not burned.

Observers said Mrs. Erickson pleaded not to be taken to the hospital, declaring she was not badly injured.

Nearby residents said the explosion was very loud and created a vibration throughout the neighborhood. However, Thompson and Boone said they were attracted by the smoke rather than by flames and noise.

Firemen said it would have been impossible to detect a gas odor in the room because it was filled with smoke when they arrived.

E. W. Lease, Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company inspector, who authorities said arrived shortly after the explosion, declared that he turned the main switch on the gas line as soon as he arrived.

Acting Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney and Detective Thomas J. See were investigating for the police department, and Officer Joseph Niland assisted in controlling the crowd.

Coleman Predicts Further Extension Of Rent Control

Celanese Union To Aid Tenants Here

William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, predicted yesterday that some form of rent control will be continued beyond February 29, 1948, when the present law is due to expire.

He based his opinion on the CIO belief that members of Congress will be favorably inclined to heed suggestions for extending the controls since next year will be an election year.

Coleman said the local is advising its 8,500 members and the public that tenants are not obligated to sign leases calling for 15 per cent increases in rents, pointing out that the figure stated is the maximum amount rents may be boosted in exchange for the lease which would run until December 31, 1948.

Will Inform Tenants

The Celanese union, he added, is having printed for distribution to interested tenants 500 copies of the digest of rent provisions of the Housing and Rent Control Act of 1947, which was prepared by the Office of Rent Control, successor to OPA.

Tht act, he said, extends rent control until next February 29 for such housing as was under rent control on March 1, 1947, but gives the housing expediter power to make adjustments to correct inequalities. Prior to December 31, 1947, a tenant and landlord may enter into a written lease for an increase in rent up to 15 per cent providing the lease runs to December 31, 1948.

The Maryland-District of Columbia Industrial Union Council has suggested that Coleman be appointed a member of a local advisory board to be appointed by Governor Lane to consider adjusting cases and to make official recommendations on the case.

May Seek Damages

The digest also points out, Coleman said, that tenants who have been overcharged may sue in any federal, state or territorial court within one year to recover treble damages or the sum of $50, whichever is greater, plus reasonable attorney's fees but if the violation was neither wilful nor the result of failure to take practical precautions, the amount shall be the total overcharge only.

If you are threatened with eviction, Coleman said, you should know the act prohibits eviction of tenants so long as rent is paid unless the tenant is violating the obligation of his tenancy, the landlord seeks possession for his immediate personal use, has contracted to sell to a purchaser for his immediate use, the landlord seeks to recover possession for extensive remodeling, or finally if the accommodations are non-housekeeping and furnished within a single dwelling unit not used as a rooming or boarding house and the remaining portion of which is occupied by the landlord or his immediate family.

EXPLOSION SCENE—Fireman James A. Jackson is shown examining the hot water heater, in the kitchen of the four room apartment at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Erickson, 138 Elder Street, where an explosion occurred last night shortly before 11 o'clock, in which Mrs. Erickson was seriously injured. The heater was reportedly turned on at full pressure.

5 New Teachers Named To Staff Of Ridgeley High

School Sessions To Begin September 4

Melvin M. Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, reported last night that five new instructors have been appointed to the faculty of the school and that the remaining two vacancies on the staff will soon be filled.

The new teachers, all of whom completed their education in colleges of this area this spring are:

Miss Evelyn Finster, Weston, W. Va., a graduate of Glenville State Teachers college. Miss Finster will teach social studies, including 12th grade problems of democracy, 11th grade American history, world geography and world history.

Galen Wolfe, Bridgewater, Va., a graduate of Bridgewater College who will teach six classes of mathematics at Ridgeley High.

Is W.V.U. Graduate

Miss Doris Elrick, Mt. Storm, W. Va., a graduate of West Virginia University will teach junior high English courses and Spanish.

Miss Inez Ansel, Springfield, W. Va., a graduate of Shepherd College, who will teach commercial subjects, including typing and shorthand.

Miss Susan Theis, Keyser, W. Va., a graduate of West Virginia University, who will teach vocational home economics.

Remaining from last year's faculty are Miss Barbara Babb, Maysville, W. Va., who will teach senior high English classes; Coach Jesse Riggleman, Petersburg, who will teach physical education and the new driver's course, also Principal Heiskell.

Two Teachers Needed

Still needed are a science instructor and a teacher for social studies and physical education for girls.

Present plans also call for music instruction by Miss Finster who will be in charge of the glee club and the band.

Ridgeley High School classes will get under way on Thursday, September 4, with a half-day session, followed by shortened morning and afternoon sessions Friday.

The pre-school faculty meeting for Ridgeley elementary teachers will be held during the morning of September 3 and high school teachers that afternoon, Heiskell said.

Playground Group To Continue Work

Although the playground season is scheduled to close August 29, the City Playground Associations group will continue to function throughout the fall and winter to make plans for next year's season, according to William H. Buchholtz, president.

A meeting of the group, scheduled for last night, was not held because only three playground associations were represented, and a quorum of five is needed. Buchholtz urged all members to continue their interest in the organization so that the program can be expanded next year. The next meeting will be held Thursday, September 4, at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Mrs. Grace VanPelt, playleader at the Virginia Avenue playground, reported that $250 was raised at a festival held there last week, and thanked those who contributed time and money to the project. The funds will be used to purchase additional equipment for the playground. Present equipment includes a sand box, two tables, a volley ball net and games.

Average daily attendance at the playground is over 60 children, and 171 have used the facilities since it was opened several weeks ago, Mrs. VanPelt said.

Mrs. Ralph Stein, city playground supervisor, said that pony rides will be available at the West Side playground next Monday from 6 to 8:30 p. m. Arrangements are being made by the two playleaders, Miss Odessa O'Neal and Mrs. Paul Burke, assisted by Oscar Ward.

Rec Club To Honor "Miss Maryland"

Miss Jean Dixon, who won the title of "Miss Maryland" in a statewide beauty contest held here recently, will be presented to Rec Club members immediately before intermission of the weekly club dance at Central YMCA tonight, according to Winfield H. Adams, program and boys' secretary.

Miss Dixon, a member of the Rec Club, will be presented by Ray Stevenson, president, and will sing several selections. She entered the contest during a registration session held at a Rec Club dance earlier this summer.

Adam also announced that the YMCA gymnasium will be closed next week for renovations, and that the pool will be closed the week of September 1 for the same purpose.

Police Tests Report Will Be Submitted

Examinations taken last Friday night for applicants for the positions of chief and assistant chief of police have been graded by the Civil Service Commission and will be submitted to the Mayor and Council before their meeting on Monday, according to Vincent P. Ingram, commission chairman.

Paper Talks Continue In Washington

Negotiators for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the United Paperworkers of America, CIO, were still meeting last night in Washington in an effort to reach an agreement on contracts for the Luke, Md., Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va., plants.

Union officials at Local 676, Luke, said last night they had been informed the talks were "progressing favorably." The contracts, which expired Wednesday, were extended until union negotiators return from the conference, they added.

James W. Towsen, a company representative, declined to comment on the discussions which he said were still in progress at 10 p. m.

Girl, 9, Drowns In Swollen Creek South Of Bedford

The drowning of a 9-year-old Cumberland Valley Township, Pa., girl Wednesday night was attributed last night by Vernon Geisel, Bedford County, Pa., coroner, to high water following a severe electric storm.

Geisel said the child, Agnes Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick E. Roberts, drowned in a swift, swollen stream on her parents' farm about 10 miles south of Bedford.

The drowning happened at 6:30 p. m. and the child's body was recovered by neighbors, David Hafer and Mr. Houseworth, after a four and a half hour search, according to Geisel, who issued a verdict of accidental death and said no inquest would be necessary.

The farm, mostly timberland, is located in an isolated section, and the girl and her mother left the house about 6 p. m. to go to the stable, located across a ridge about 200 yards away to do their chores, Geisel related.

Shallow ordinarily, the stream was swollen to a depth of four feet and a width of 12 feet, the coroner said, but the girl believed she could wade across.

After starting, she either stepped into a hole or slipped on a stone and went beneath the rushing water, Geisel said. The body was found about 100 yards downstream after the water had receded.

The girl is survived by her father and mother, the former Lena Martin, and a brother, Patrick Edward Roberts, Jr. She attended Bedford Valley grade school.

A funeral service will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Thomas Catholic Church, Bedford, and burial will be in the church cemetery. The body is at the Pate Funeral Home, Bedford.

Moose Degree Team Seeks National Honors

The degree team of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, will compete today at the national convention of the Moose in Columbus, Ohio, for the national championship. The local team won the state championship last month.

Some 25 or 30 degree teams from Moose Lodges all over the country are taking part in the competition and the winner will next year initiate candidates at the lodge's national convention.

The local team is scheduled for its showing at noon today.

Barn Dance Scheduled At Ridgeley Tonight

An old fashioned barn dance will highlight tonight's events in Ridgeley's Homecoming celebration which is being held this week. Tomorrow night a parade will be held at 7 p. m. with several floats, drum and bugle corps, and bands participating in addition to representatives of area firemen and veterans organizations.

Parade prizes will include $50 for the best musical organization in the line of march, $50 for the veterans' organization with the most men in line, $50 for the best appearing fire company, $50 for the veterans or firemen's organization coming the greatest distance and $10 for the best appearing majorette.

Candidates Will Be Sought For City Water Post

Edwards To Confer With Prospects

Plans are being made to secure candidates for the position of superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, to succeed the late Charles J. Bruce, who died August 9, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

The mayor said that Water and Light Commissioner William J. Edwards has been informed by the president of the Pennsylvania Waterworks Association that two men, at present employed as waterworks superintendents in Pennsylvania, may be interested in the position.

Edwards will attend a meeting of the association at State College, Pa., next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, at which time interviews may be arranged, the mayor added. Edwards will be accompanied by Andrew G. Bender, superintendent, and Simon K. Carroll, city plumber.

In the meantime, the mayor said he plans to contact Abel Wolman, consulting engineer for the Interstat Commission on the Potomac River Basin and consultant for Johns Hopkins University, with regard to securing other candidates for the post.

Mayor Post said that qualifications for the position include practical engineering experience, knowledge of water chemistry and supervisory and accounting experience. Appointment will be made by the Mayor and Council upon the recommendation of the Evitts Creek Water Company board of directors, he added.

Mr. Bruce served as superintendent for 18 years. Since his death, Charles Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent, has been serving as acting superintendent.

Medical Board May Review Cases Soon

A full review and investigation of the complaint of Celanese Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, that occupational disease claims of its members were being handled unfairly is expected to begin within a few weeks, William Boyd Coleman, president of the 8,500 member local, said he has been informed.

He said Emanuel Gorfine, chairman of the State Industrial Accident Commission, has promised an investigation of the charges and requested the names of the claimants so that testimony in the cases may be fully reviewed.

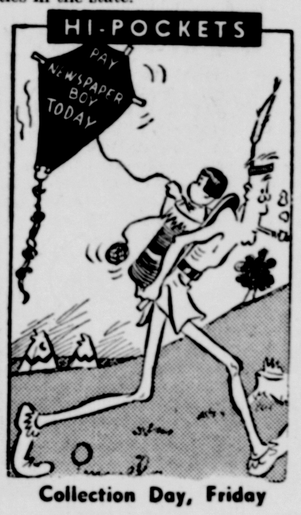

Cases which Coleman said have been pending for some time are those of William Timing, Virgil G. O'Neal, Regina J. Greene, Josephine Crawford and Mary B. Watkinson, and more recently Oscar Berry, Virgil McKee and Manuel R. Ayres.

Coleman said the union has suggested that the conferences begin sometime after September 1.

Davis Will Broadcast

Achievements and benefits of the soil conservation district program will be discussed by Edward M. Davis, State Conservationist of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, in a radio talk Saturday, at 12:05 p. m. over Station WBAL, Baltimore.

Mr. Davis is, ex officio, a member of the State Soil Conservation Committee, which supervises the organization and functions of the 22 soil conservation districts which have been established in all but two counties in the state.

Collection Day, Friday

Work Starts On Drafting LaVale Sanitary Bill

Measure Will Be Ready Next Week

Work was stared last night on drafting a proposed bill to establish a sanitary district in LaVale, at a meeting of the water committee of the LaVale Civic Improvement Association, held at the home of Miles G. Thompson, a committee member.

The committee set next Tuesday as the deadline for completion of the preliminary draft, which will be based on House Bill 637, the measure introduced in the recent session of the General Assembly for the establishment of sanitary districts in Allegany County.

Following a discussion of the original bill, which was "lost in the shuffle" and failed of passage, the committee decided to draw up a localized measure excluding incorporated municipalities and limiting the sanitary district to LaVale.

The bill, which is being drafted by Harry Kauffman, a committee member and attorney for the LaVale association, would authorize the election of a three-man commission to develop water, sanitary and drainage facilities in the area through a bond issue and tax and service charge.

James H. Schilpp, Baltimore, resident engineer of the State Department of Health, told the committee he belives the bill will met with the department's approval and hopes it will serve as a model for other communities in the county.

The committee, headed by William A. Douglas and also including Charles R. Wherritt and Blair Welsh, will meet to approve the preliminary draft early next week and will then submit it to the members of the Allegany County delegation for their approval.

It is planned to name a delegation from the LaVale association to attend a meeting of the Legislative Council in Baltimore on September 3 to ask that the bill be placed on the agenda for the special session of the General Assembly, to be held this fall.

Committee members said the delegation will also seek an audience with Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., to ask that the bill be given special consideration because of the emergency nature of LaVale's water shortage.

Copies of the bill will be sent to the Public Service Commission and to the State Department of Health.

At a meeting earlier this week with LaVale residents, members of the county delegation said they would give every assistance provided the proposed bill was modified to include only the LaVale section. The original bill was amended to exclude municipal water systems of Frostburg and Westernport to protect them from possible condemnation by a county sanitary commission.

Lightning Kills Team Of Horses During Storm

Electrocution of a team of draft horses was added yesterday to the relatively minor damage caused by a severe electrical storm in this area Wednesday.

The horses, owned by Dayton McKenzie, were grazing on the Hoye farm a few miles south of Big Savage Inn, when they were struck by lightning and killed.

Meanwhile, warmer weather was scheduled by the weather man again today after yesterday's partial respite from the longest and most humid heat wave of the summer.

The temperature hit a maximum of 84 yesterday, somewhat cooler than most recent days and a slight breeze was stirring, but the weather man expects this afternoon to become sunny and warmer after a cloudy morning.

Fifty lines of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, put out of order Wednesday as a result of the storm, were back in service last night, according to E. H. Bender, plant wire chief, and repairs were being made between Cumberland and Frostburg to a damaged cable running between the Cumberland and Piedmont, W. Va., exchanges.

One of the most unusual incidents in Wednesday's storm was reported at Frostburg when Enoch Price placed a hand on the handle of a car door at his Water Street home only to be knocked to the ground as the lightning hit. He was stunned but recovered immediately.

Charles A. Roeder reported here that a 40-foot flagpole on the Sky View Apartments, 609½ Piedmont Avenue, was struck at 4:22 p. m. Wednesday. He said some residents of the apartment were slightly stunned.

At the home of Leo F. Lueck, 22 Massachusetts Avenue, tubes in the radio were blown out as was a light in the kitchen stove.

Conduct Charge Preferred

A man identified only as E. Roach, Mapleside, was arrested yesterday at 3:40 and is being held in City Jail on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge. He will be given a hearing this morning, police said.

Foreman Promised Girl Friend He Would "Talk" After Recovery, She Says

SHOTGUN VICTIM — James Dorsey, 29, Keyser, W. Va., killed himself late Wednesday night with a blast from a single barrel 16 gauge shotgun, according to Miss Madalyn Bazzle, acting coroner, who said the discharge struck the veteran of World War II in the head.

Married Woman Admits Going With Veteran For Eight Months Before His Death

A 21-year-old married woman, who had been keeping company with John W. Foreman, Jr., World War II Veteran, before he died from what physicians said were other than natural causes, August 10 in Memorial Hospital, said yesterday "he promised to tell me what was wrong when he got well."

The woman said she had been going with Foreman about eight months before he became ill August 2, after being out with companions on the previous night, but declared she last saw him on July 31 and they had not planned to meet again until August 4.

The woman, whose husband admits that he knew of the affair, said she was informed of Foreman's illness by mail, when she received a note stating he was ill, at home.

Foreman's girl friend said she did not visit him at his home, 905 Virginia Avenue, after he became ill, but declared she did go to Memorial Hospital to see him.

Didn't Talk Much

He talked very little, the woman said, "and when I asked him what was wrong, he promised to tell me about it after he got well." Physicians attending Foreman said he showed signs of improvement after being admitted to the hospital, and stated that death came suddenly on Sunday afternoon, August 10.

Another local physician also disclosed last night that Foreman had received treatment from him for the past year and said the man, who was discharged from the Army in 1945, threatened to end his life with a German Luger shortly after treatment was begun a little more than a year ago.

The physician explained that the war veteran, who was wounded in Germany, was despondent over his illness at first but later apparently became apathetic because he did not report regularly for treatment.

Foreman, according to the doctor, missed many of the scheduled appointments and was last at his office "on about" July 10, this year.

Members of the family, however, along with Foreman's girl friend, and the physician who attended him during his fatal illness, continue to minimize the theory that he ended his life by taking a poisonous agent following his return from a West Virginia beer tavern on August 1 or early morning of August 2.

An autopsy performed here and later verified by a Baltimore toxicologist, established definite proof that the young man died from a chemical agent, medical authorities say.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, last night repeated his statement that he has not yet received a written report of the cause of death, and said that while he will give the official verdict of "suicide or homicide" in Foreman's death, he will base his opinion on findings made by the State's Attorneys office.

Check Taxicab Logs

Dr. Deming said he has turned the case over to the office of the State's Attorney, and while authorities of that office, continued to keep the investigation behind an "iron curtain," it was learned that witnesses are still being questioned and an examination of local drug store registers is being made to determine what persons have purchased "certain" poisonous agents recently.

Operators of various taxicab companies also confirmed reports that the State's Attorney is examining drivers' logs on trips made in the early morning of August 2.

The News also learned that Foreman did not report for work at the Celanese plant on August 1 the night on which the chemical agent was supposed to have been taken or administered.

Neither Maryland State or Cumberland City Police had been called in on the case late last night a report disclosed, but Sheriff Edward R. Muir said deputies from his office are still working on it under the direction of the State's Attorneys office.

Authorities said the autopsy showed that Foreman died from "chemical nephritis," described by local physicians as an acute kidney condition resulting from a poisonous agent usually taken by mouth.

Service Medals Presented To Six Local Army Men

Approximately 45 persons attended a public ceremony at City Hall auditorium last night when three local reservists and three men still on active duty in the Army received World War II Victory and American Defense medals.

The presentations were made to Lt. Col. J. Leo Delaney, commanding officer of the 208th Composite Group; Lt. Charles A. Neff and First Sgt. Ross E. Powell of Company G, 319th Infantry, all reservists; and to First Sgt. William B. Rogers, administrative instructor for the 208th Composite Group; Master Sgt. Clarence Biehn and Tech. Sgt. Bernard L. Roudabush, both local recruiters, on active duty. All are Cumberland residents.

Col. Carleton Coulter, Jr., Baltimore, senior instructor for the state of Maryland, made the presentations. The ceremony was sponsored jointly by the Army recruiting station here and the Organized Reserve Corps.

The program opened with a talk by Maj. Allen W. Johnson, Baltimore, chief instructor for the Quartermaster Corps in Maryland, on the first phase of the Italian campaign during World War II.

Maj. Johnson, who was introduced by Col. Delaney, discussed the landings at Salerno and Anzio, the battle of Cassino and the peninsula campaign. His talk was illustrated by two Signal Corps motion pictures filmed under battle conditions, showing the drive from Sicily to Naples and Cassino.

Among those attending the ceremony were Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow, officer in charge of Army recruiting here, and Lt. George J. Gocke, public relations officer at the recruiting station.

Presentation of the medals marked the beginning of distribution of World War II Victory and American Defense medals to Army veterans in this area. Veterans may obtain their medals at the Army recruiting station, 111 Union Street.

The Allegany County Liquor Control Board has approved the transfer of the Class C beer, wine and liquor license from John C. Fisher to Harvey C. Landis for the Regal Club, Inc., 162 Baltimore Street.

Shotgun Victim's Funeral Saturday

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 21. — A funeral service will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in the Church of the Assumption for James Dorsey, 29, of 216 Piedmont Street, who, a coroner's jury decided this morning, took his own life late last night with a blast from a 16 guage shotgun.

Testimony at the inquest this morning indicated that Dorsey, a veteran of World War II, had been home a short time when he left his father in the living room and went to the kitchen. A short time later, according to Miss Madalyn Bazzle, acting coroner, he called "So long, Dad", and discharged the shotgun.

The verdict of the jury, composed of William Miller, Herman Rotruck, Benny Sims, Jr., Fred Tettenburn, H. L. Borgen and Charles Crawford, read: "We find that James Dorsey came to his death from a shotgun wound in the head and that he caused same with his own hand; the nature for which we are unable to determine."

The body will be interred in Queenspoint Cemetery.

Water Line Plans To Be Discussed

Local officials will go to Baltimore today to confer with representatives of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, consulting engineers, regarding plans for the new 36-inch alternate water line to be laid from Lake Gordon to the city, Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said yesterday.

Edwards will be accompanied by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and the latter's special assistant, William H. Marean.

The Mayor and Council last month authorized Edwards to advertise bids for the new line, which is expected to double Cumberland's present daily water supply of approximately 12,000,000 gallons.

Plans drawn up by the city engineer were submitted recently to the Baltimore engineering firm, which was retained some time ago by the city to make an overall report on Cumberland's facilities. Although the firm recently sent its report here, consideration of the water line plans was not included because they were received after the main report was completed.

Edwards said today's conference has been arranged to complete final plans for the auxiliary water main, adding that he will probably be ready to ask for bids in the near future.

Amvets State Convention Here Will Feature Election, Installation

Election and installation of officers will feature the two-day second annual convention of the state Amvets organization to be held here Saturday and Sunday, August 30 and 31.

Dr. James Marrone, Frederick, state commander, will preside during the convention, which will be attended by approximately 75 delegates from the 12 posts in the state.

Delegates are expected from the two posts in Baltimore and two in Capitol Heights, as well as the posts in Frederick, Middletown, Frostburg, Grantsville, Oakland, Takoma Park, Rockville and Cumberland.

Plans for the convention were made last night at a meeting of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, which will be host.

Registration will begin at noon on August 20 in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, to be followed by the first business session at 2 p. m. in the hotel ballroom.

At 7 p. m. a banquet will be held at the Queen City Hotel for delegates, members and guests, after which an informal dance will be held at the Fort Cumberland.

Taxicab Meters Will Not Tick Here Despite Contrary Reports

The cost of a ride in a taxicab in Cumberland will not be ticked off in a meter after January 1 despite some reports to the contrary.

At the last session of the Legislature, a bill was introduced by Sen. Robert B. Kimble which would have brought taxicabs operating in this city under the supervision of the Public Service Commission and meters would have been mandatory.

The measure was approved by the Senate and by the House of Delegates but Gov. Lane vetoed it at the request of the Public Service Commission.

Delegate William H. Geppert last night recalled that the bill was vetoed at the request of the Public Service Commission which said it did not have facilities to regulate taxicab operation in Cumberland.

The present law specifies that all cities of over 50,000 population must have PSC permits, but the measure vetoed by the Governor would have changed this figure to 40,000.

Under the 50,000 minimum, Baltimore is the only city affected and cabs there operate under PSC supervision, but the change to 40,000 would have meant the inclusion of Cumberland. Hagerstown would have been on the borderline.

Elder Street Housewife Badly Burned By Blast Is In Serious Condition

Mrs. Chester Erickson's Condition Serious; Cause Of Explosion Is As Yet Not Determined

An Elder Street housewife was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night at 11 o'clock in serious condition from first, second and third degree burns suffered in an explosion in the kitchen of her home that attracted neighbors from a wide area.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Chester Erickson, 33, 138 Elder Street, was taken to the hospital in an ambulance after Steven Lawrence, 204 Elder Street, helped her crawl through a bedroom window next to the kitchen, Lawrence said.

Hospital attaches said Mrs. Erickson was suffering from burns over her entire body, but explained her legs appeared to be burned the worst. Attaches said that while the woman's clothing was not badly burned, the flash flames seemed to have burned the body.

Police and firemen could not immediately determine the cause of the explosion which singed woodwork, consumed curtains and blinds and broke out the upper panes of glass in all of the other three rooms.

Screaming For Baby

Clarence Thompson, 206 Elder Street, told authorities that when they arrived the woman was sitting in an upright position on the porch screaming for her baby.

Thompson said he and Boone broke the glass in the door and released the lock and then began searching for the baby. The child actually was with its grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brown, Third Street.

Thompson said when he failed to find the child he and Boone began fighting the flames in the kitchen and declared that he turned off the gas in four burners on the stove that were wide open but not burning. Firemen said they turned the gas-heated water off but declared the water was not warm and it appeared that the tank had not been burinng for sometime.

Roy M. Breighner, 137 Elder Street, said he heard the explosion and immediately called the fire company. Both South End and Central Companies answered. Firemen said when they arrived the flames were under control with only the table cloth and a few rags burning in the kitchen.

The bedroom window, which is at right angles with the outside of the kitchen wall facing the kitchen, was raised when police arrived and the screen was broken. Lawrence said when he arrived at the top of the outside stair case Mrs. Erickson was crawling through the window, and he assisted he though then set her on the porch while he also searched for the child.

Explosion Was Loud

Police said Mrs. Erickson apparently was the only person in the house, and observers said Mr. Erickson, a Celanese employe, was called home shortly after he reported for work on the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift.

With the exception of the windows nothing was damaged in the kitchen by the force of the explosion, but the wallpaper and all of the cloth furniture coverings were badly burned. The doors and woodwork were blistered over the entire surface.

Thompson said when he entered the apartment the door leading from the kitchen to the living room was closed and a garment hanging on the door was burned on the exposed part.

Mrs. Brown, mother of the injured woman, said Mr. and Mrs. Erickson brought the baby to her home yesterday morning to be kept while they went to the races at Fairgo. There was a racing form on the kitchen table, which was not burned.

Observers said Mrs. Erickson pleaded not to be taken to the hospital, declaring she was not badly injured.

Nearby residents said the explosion was very loud and created a vibration throughout the neighborhood. However, Thompson and Boone said they were attracted by the smoke rather than by flames and noise.

Firemen said it would have been impossible to detect a gas odor in the room because it was filled with smoke when they arrived.

E. W. Lease, Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company inspector, who authorities said arrived shortly after the explosion, declared that he turned the main switch on the gas line as soon as he arrived.

Acting Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney and Detective Thomas J. See were investigating for the police department, and Officer Joseph Niland assisted in controlling the crowd.

Coleman Predicts Further Extension Of Rent Control

Celanese Union To Aid Tenants Here

William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, predicted yesterday that some form of rent control will be continued beyond February 29, 1948, when the present law is due to expire.

He based his opinion on the CIO belief that members of Congress will be favorably inclined to heed suggestions for extending the controls since next year will be an election year.

Coleman said the local is advising its 8,500 members and the public that tenants are not obligated to sign leases calling for 15 per cent increases in rents, pointing out that the figure stated is the maximum amount rents may be boosted in exchange for the lease which would run until December 31, 1948.

Will Inform Tenants

The Celanese union, he added, is having printed for distribution to interested tenants 500 copies of the digest of rent provisions of the Housing and Rent Control Act of 1947, which was prepared by the Office of Rent Control, successor to OPA.

Tht act, he said, extends rent control until next February 29 for such housing as was under rent control on March 1, 1947, but gives the housing expediter power to make adjustments to correct inequalities. Prior to December 31, 1947, a tenant and landlord may enter into a written lease for an increase in rent up to 15 per cent providing the lease runs to December 31, 1948.

The Maryland-District of Columbia Industrial Union Council has suggested that Coleman be appointed a member of a local advisory board to be appointed by Governor Lane to consider adjusting cases and to make official recommendations on the case.

May Seek Damages

The digest also points out, Coleman said, that tenants who have been overcharged may sue in any federal, state or territorial court within one year to recover treble damages or the sum of $50, whichever is greater, plus reasonable attorney's fees but if the violation was neither wilful nor the result of failure to take practical precautions, the amount shall be the total overcharge only.

If you are threatened with eviction, Coleman said, you should know the act prohibits eviction of tenants so long as rent is paid unless the tenant is violating the obligation of his tenancy, the landlord seeks possession for his immediate personal use, has contracted to sell to a purchaser for his immediate use, the landlord seeks to recover possession for extensive remodeling, or finally if the accommodations are non-housekeeping and furnished within a single dwelling unit not used as a rooming or boarding house and the remaining portion of which is occupied by the landlord or his immediate family.

EXPLOSION SCENE—Fireman James A. Jackson is shown examining the hot water heater, in the kitchen of the four room apartment at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Erickson, 138 Elder Street, where an explosion occurred last night shortly before 11 o'clock, in which Mrs. Erickson was seriously injured. The heater was reportedly turned on at full pressure.

Melvin M. Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, reported last night that five new instructors have been appointed to the faculty of the school and that the remaining two vacancies on the staff will soon be filled.

The new teachers, all of whom completed their education in colleges of this area this spring are:

Miss Evelyn Finster, Weston, W. Va., a graduate of Glenville State Teachers college. Miss Finster will teach social studies, including 12th grade problems of democracy, 11th grade American history, world geography and world history.

Galen Wolfe, Bridgewater, Va., a graduate of Bridgewater College who will teach six classes of mathematics at Ridgeley High.

Is W.V.U. Graduate

Miss Doris Elrick, Mt. Storm, W. Va., a graduate of West Virginia University will teach junior high English courses and Spanish.

Miss Inez Ansel, Springfield, W. Va., a graduate of Shepherd College, who will teach commercial subjects, including typing and shorthand.

Miss Susan Theis, Keyser, W. Va., a graduate of West Virginia University, who will teach vocational home economics.

Remaining from last year's faculty are Miss Barbara Babb, Maysville, W. Va., who will teach senior high English classes; Coach Jesse Riggleman, Petersburg, who will teach physical education and the new driver's course, also Principal Heiskell.

Two Teachers Needed

Still needed are a science instructor and a teacher for social studies and physical education for girls.

Present plans also call for music instruction by Miss Finster who will be in charge of the glee club and the band.

Ridgeley High School classes will get under way on Thursday, September 4, with a half-day session, followed by shortened morning and afternoon sessions Friday.

The pre-school faculty meeting for Ridgeley elementary teachers will be held during the morning of September 3 and high school teachers that afternoon, Heiskell said.

Playground Group To Continue Work

Although the playground season is scheduled to close August 29, the City Playground Associations group will continue to function throughout the fall and winter to make plans for next year's season, according to William H. Buchholtz, president.

A meeting of the group, scheduled for last night, was not held because only three playground associations were represented, and a quorum of five is needed. Buchholtz urged all members to continue their interest in the organization so that the program can be expanded next year. The next meeting will be held Thursday, September 4, at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Mrs. Grace VanPelt, playleader at the Virginia Avenue playground, reported that $250 was raised at a festival held there last week, and thanked those who contributed time and money to the project. The funds will be used to purchase additional equipment for the playground. Present equipment includes a sand box, two tables, a volley ball net and games.

Average daily attendance at the playground is over 60 children, and 171 have used the facilities since it was opened several weeks ago, Mrs. VanPelt said.

Mrs. Ralph Stein, city playground supervisor, said that pony rides will be available at the West Side playground next Monday from 6 to 8:30 p. m. Arrangements are being made by the two playleaders, Miss Odessa O'Neal and Mrs. Paul Burke, assisted by Oscar Ward.

Rec Club To Honor "Miss Maryland"

Miss Jean Dixon, who won the title of "Miss Maryland" in a statewide beauty contest held here recently, will be presented to Rec Club members immediately before intermission of the weekly club dance at Central YMCA tonight, according to Winfield H. Adams, program and boys' secretary.

Miss Dixon, a member of the Rec Club, will be presented by Ray Stevenson, president, and will sing several selections. She entered the contest during a registration session held at a Rec Club dance earlier this summer.

Adam also announced that the YMCA gymnasium will be closed next week for renovations, and that the pool will be closed the week of September 1 for the same purpose.

Police Tests Report Will Be Submitted

Examinations taken last Friday night for applicants for the positions of chief and assistant chief of police have been graded by the Civil Service Commission and will be submitted to the Mayor and Council before their meeting on Monday, according to Vincent P. Ingram, commission chairman.

Paper Talks Continue In Washington

Negotiators for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the United Paperworkers of America, CIO, were still meeting last night in Washington in an effort to reach an agreement on contracts for the Luke, Md., Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va., plants.

Union officials at Local 676, Luke, said last night they had been informed the talks were "progressing favorably." The contracts, which expired Wednesday, were extended until union negotiators return from the conference, they added.

James W. Towsen, a company representative, declined to comment on the discussions which he said were still in progress at 10 p. m.

Girl, 9, Drowns In Swollen Creek South Of Bedford

The drowning of a 9-year-old Cumberland Valley Township, Pa., girl Wednesday night was attributed last night by Vernon Geisel, Bedford County, Pa., coroner, to high water following a severe electric storm.

Geisel said the child, Agnes Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick E. Roberts, drowned in a swift, swollen stream on her parents' farm about 10 miles south of Bedford.

The drowning happened at 6:30 p. m. and the child's body was recovered by neighbors, David Hafer and Mr. Houseworth, after a four and a half hour search, according to Geisel, who issued a verdict of accidental death and said no inquest would be necessary.

The farm, mostly timberland, is located in an isolated section, and the girl and her mother left the house about 6 p. m. to go to the stable, located across a ridge about 200 yards away to do their chores, Geisel related.

Hearing the tinkle of a cow bell, the girl and her mother decided the animal was across a creek that runs through the farm and the child left to bring the cow back to the barn.

Shallow ordinarily, the stream was swollen to a depth of four feet and a width of 12 feet, the coroner said, but the girl believed she could wade across.

After starting, she either stepped into a hole or slipped on a stone and went beneath the rushing water, Geisel said. The body was found about 100 yards downstream after the water had receded.

The girl is survived by her father and mother, the former Lena Martin, and a brother, Patrick Edward Roberts, Jr. She attended Bedford Valley grade school.

A funeral service will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Thomas Catholic Church, Bedford, and burial will be in the church cemetery. The body is at the Pate Funeral Home, Bedford.

The degree team of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, will compete today at the national convention of the Moose in Columbus, Ohio, for the national championship. The local team won the state championship last month.

Some 25 or 30 degree teams from Moose Lodges all over the country are taking part in the competition and the winner will next year initiate candidates at the lodge's national convention.

The local team is scheduled for its showing at noon today.

Barn Dance Scheduled At Ridgeley Tonight

An old fashioned barn dance will highlight tonight's events in Ridgeley's Homecoming celebration which is being held this week. Tomorrow night a parade will be held at 7 p. m. with several floats, drum and bugle corps, and bands participating in addition to representatives of area firemen and veterans organizations.

Parade prizes will include $50 for the best musical organization in the line of march, $50 for the veterans' organization with the most men in line, $50 for the best appearing fire company, $50 for the veterans or firemen's organization coming the greatest distance and $10 for the best appearing majorette.

Candidates Will Be Sought For City Water Post

Edwards To Confer With Prospects

Plans are being made to secure candidates for the position of superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, to succeed the late Charles J. Bruce, who died August 9, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

The mayor said that Water and Light Commissioner William J. Edwards has been informed by the president of the Pennsylvania Waterworks Association that two men, at present employed as waterworks superintendents in Pennsylvania, may be interested in the position.

Edwards will attend a meeting of the association at State College, Pa., next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, at which time interviews may be arranged, the mayor added. Edwards will be accompanied by Andrew G. Bender, superintendent, and Simon K. Carroll, city plumber.

In the meantime, the mayor said he plans to contact Abel Wolman, consulting engineer for the Interstat Commission on the Potomac River Basin and consultant for Johns Hopkins University, with regard to securing other candidates for the post.

Mayor Post said that qualifications for the position include practical engineering experience, knowledge of water chemistry and supervisory and accounting experience. Appointment will be made by the Mayor and Council upon the recommendation of the Evitts Creek Water Company board of directors, he added.

Mr. Bruce served as superintendent for 18 years. Since his death, Charles Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent, has been serving as acting superintendent.

Medical Board May Review Cases Soon

A full review and investigation of the complaint of Celanese Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, that occupational disease claims of its members were being handled unfairly is expected to begin within a few weeks, William Boyd Coleman, president of the 8,500 member local, said he has been informed.

He said Emanuel Gorfine, chairman of the State Industrial Accident Commission, has promised an investigation of the charges and requested the names of the claimants so that testimony in the cases may be fully reviewed.

Cases which Coleman said have been pending for some time are those of William Timing, Virgil G. O'Neal, Regina J. Greene, Josephine Crawford and Mary B. Watkinson, and more recently Oscar Berry, Virgil McKee and Manuel R. Ayres.

Coleman said the union has suggested that the conferences begin sometime after September 1.

Mr. Davis is, ex officio, a member of the State Soil Conservation Committee, which supervises the organization and functions of the 22 soil conservation districts which have been established in all but two counties in the state.

Collection Day, Friday

Work Starts On Drafting LaVale Sanitary Bill

Measure Will Be Ready Next Week

Work was stared last night on drafting a proposed bill to establish a sanitary district in LaVale, at a meeting of the water committee of the LaVale Civic Improvement Association, held at the home of Miles G. Thompson, a committee member.

The committee set next Tuesday as the deadline for completion of the preliminary draft, which will be based on House Bill 637, the measure introduced in the recent session of the General Assembly for the establishment of sanitary districts in Allegany County.

Following a discussion of the original bill, which was "lost in the shuffle" and failed of passage, the committee decided to draw up a localized measure excluding incorporated municipalities and limiting the sanitary district to LaVale.

The bill, which is being drafted by Harry Kauffman, a committee member and attorney for the LaVale association, would authorize the election of a three-man commission to develop water, sanitary and drainage facilities in the area through a bond issue and tax and service charge.

James H. Schilpp, Baltimore, resident engineer of the State Department of Health, told the committee he belives the bill will met with the department's approval and hopes it will serve as a model for other communities in the county.

The committee, headed by William A. Douglas and also including Charles R. Wherritt and Blair Welsh, will meet to approve the preliminary draft early next week and will then submit it to the members of the Allegany County delegation for their approval.

It is planned to name a delegation from the LaVale association to attend a meeting of the Legislative Council in Baltimore on September 3 to ask that the bill be placed on the agenda for the special session of the General Assembly, to be held this fall.

Committee members said the delegation will also seek an audience with Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., to ask that the bill be given special consideration because of the emergency nature of LaVale's water shortage.

Copies of the bill will be sent to the Public Service Commission and to the State Department of Health.

At a meeting earlier this week with LaVale residents, members of the county delegation said they would give every assistance provided the proposed bill was modified to include only the LaVale section. The original bill was amended to exclude municipal water systems of Frostburg and Westernport to protect them from possible condemnation by a county sanitary commission.

Lightning Kills Team Of Horses During Storm

Electrocution of a team of draft horses was added yesterday to the relatively minor damage caused by a severe electrical storm in this area Wednesday.

The horses, owned by Dayton McKenzie, were grazing on the Hoye farm a few miles south of Big Savage Inn, when they were struck by lightning and killed.

Meanwhile, warmer weather was scheduled by the weather man again today after yesterday's partial respite from the longest and most humid heat wave of the summer.

The temperature hit a maximum of 84 yesterday, somewhat cooler than most recent days and a slight breeze was stirring, but the weather man expects this afternoon to become sunny and warmer after a cloudy morning.

Fifty lines of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, put out of order Wednesday as a result of the storm, were back in service last night, according to E. H. Bender, plant wire chief, and repairs were being made between Cumberland and Frostburg to a damaged cable running between the Cumberland and Piedmont, W. Va., exchanges.

One of the most unusual incidents in Wednesday's storm was reported at Frostburg when Enoch Price placed a hand on the handle of a car door at his Water Street home only to be knocked to the ground as the lightning hit. He was stunned but recovered immediately.

Charles A. Roeder reported here that a 40-foot flagpole on the Sky View Apartments, 609½ Piedmont Avenue, was struck at 4:22 p. m. Wednesday. He said some residents of the apartment were slightly stunned.

At the home of Leo F. Lueck, 22 Massachusetts Avenue, tubes in the radio were blown out as was a light in the kitchen stove.

Conduct Charge Preferred

A man identified only as E. Roach, Mapleside, was arrested yesterday at 3:40 and is being held in City Jail on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge. He will be given a hearing this morning, police said.

Foreman Promised Girl Friend He Would "Talk" After Recovery, She Says

SHOTGUN VICTIM — James Dorsey, 29, Keyser, W. Va., killed himself late Wednesday night with a blast from a single barrel 16 gauge shotgun, according to Miss Madalyn Bazzle, acting coroner, who said the discharge struck the veteran of World War II in the head.

Married Woman Admits Going With Veteran For Eight Months Before His Death

A 21-year-old married woman, who had been keeping company with John W. Foreman, Jr., World War II Veteran, before he died from what physicians said were other than natural causes, August 10 in Memorial Hospital, said yesterday "he promised to tell me what was wrong when he got well."

The woman said she had been going with Foreman about eight months before he became ill August 2, after being out with companions on the previous night, but declared she last saw him on July 31 and they had not planned to meet again until August 4.

The woman, whose husband admits that he knew of the affair, said she was informed of Foreman's illness by mail, when she received a note stating he was ill, at home.

Foreman's girl friend said she did not visit him at his home, 905 Virginia Avenue, after he became ill, but declared she did go to Memorial Hospital to see him.

Didn't Talk Much

He talked very little, the woman said, "and when I asked him what was wrong, he promised to tell me about it after he got well." Physicians attending Foreman said he showed signs of improvement after being admitted to the hospital, and stated that death came suddenly on Sunday afternoon, August 10.

Another local physician also disclosed last night that Foreman had received treatment from him for the past year and said the man, who was discharged from the Army in 1945, threatened to end his life with a German Luger shortly after treatment was begun a little more than a year ago.

The physician explained that the war veteran, who was wounded in Germany, was despondent over his illness at first but later apparently became apathetic because he did not report regularly for treatment.

Foreman, according to the doctor, missed many of the scheduled appointments and was last at his office "on about" July 10, this year.

Members of the family, however, along with Foreman's girl friend, and the physician who attended him during his fatal illness, continue to minimize the theory that he ended his life by taking a poisonous agent following his return from a West Virginia beer tavern on August 1 or early morning of August 2.

An autopsy performed here and later verified by a Baltimore toxicologist, established definite proof that the young man died from a chemical agent, medical authorities say.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, last night repeated his statement that he has not yet received a written report of the cause of death, and said that while he will give the official verdict of "suicide or homicide" in Foreman's death, he will base his opinion on findings made by the State's Attorneys office.

Check Taxicab Logs

Dr. Deming said he has turned the case over to the office of the State's Attorney, and while authorities of that office, continued to keep the investigation behind an "iron curtain," it was learned that witnesses are still being questioned and an examination of local drug store registers is being made to determine what persons have purchased "certain" poisonous agents recently.

Operators of various taxicab companies also confirmed reports that the State's Attorney is examining drivers' logs on trips made in the early morning of August 2.

The News also learned that Foreman did not report for work at the Celanese plant on August 1 the night on which the chemical agent was supposed to have been taken or administered.

Neither Maryland State or Cumberland City Police had been called in on the case late last night a report disclosed, but Sheriff Edward R. Muir said deputies from his office are still working on it under the direction of the State's Attorneys office.

Authorities said the autopsy showed that Foreman died from "chemical nephritis," described by local physicians as an acute kidney condition resulting from a poisonous agent usually taken by mouth.

Shotgun Victim's Funeral Saturday

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 21. — A funeral service will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in the Church of the Assumption for James Dorsey, 29, of 216 Piedmont Street, who, a coroner's jury decided this morning, took his own life late last night with a blast from a 16 guage shotgun.

Testimony at the inquest this morning indicated that Dorsey, a veteran of World War II, had been home a short time when he left his father in the living room and went to the kitchen. A short time later, according to Miss Madalyn Bazzle, acting coroner, he called "So long, Dad", and discharged the shotgun.

The verdict of the jury, composed of William Miller, Herman Rotruck, Benny Sims, Jr., Fred Tettenburn, H. L. Borgen and Charles Crawford, read: "We find that James Dorsey came to his death from a shotgun wound in the head and that he caused same with his own hand; the nature for which we are unable to determine."

The body will be interred in Queenspoint Cemetery.

Service Medals Presented To Six Local Army Men

Approximately 45 persons attended a public ceremony at City Hall auditorium last night when three local reservists and three men still on active duty in the Army received World War II Victory and American Defense medals.

The presentations were made to Lt. Col. J. Leo Delaney, commanding officer of the 208th Composite Group; Lt. Charles A. Neff and First Sgt. Ross E. Powell of Company G, 319th Infantry, all reservists; and to First Sgt. William B. Rogers, administrative instructor for the 208th Composite Group; Master Sgt. Clarence Biehn and Tech. Sgt. Bernard L. Roudabush, both local recruiters, on active duty. All are Cumberland residents.

Col. Carleton Coulter, Jr., Baltimore, senior instructor for the state of Maryland, made the presentations. The ceremony was sponsored jointly by the Army recruiting station here and the Organized Reserve Corps.

Capt. Thomas Stafford, inspector-instructor for the 208th Composite Group, was in charge of arrangements.

The program opened with a talk by Maj. Allen W. Johnson, Baltimore, chief instructor for the Quartermaster Corps in Maryland, on the first phase of the Italian campaign during World War II.

Maj. Johnson, who was introduced by Col. Delaney, discussed the landings at Salerno and Anzio, the battle of Cassino and the peninsula campaign. His talk was illustrated by two Signal Corps motion pictures filmed under battle conditions, showing the drive from Sicily to Naples and Cassino.

Among those attending the ceremony were Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow, officer in charge of Army recruiting here, and Lt. George J. Gocke, public relations officer at the recruiting station.

Presentation of the medals marked the beginning of distribution of World War II Victory and American Defense medals to Army veterans in this area. Veterans may obtain their medals at the Army recruiting station, 111 Union Street.

Water Line Plans To Be Discussed

Local officials will go to Baltimore today to confer with representatives of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, consulting engineers, regarding plans for the new 36-inch alternate water line to be laid from Lake Gordon to the city, Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said yesterday.

Edwards will be accompanied by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and the latter's special assistant, William H. Marean.

The Mayor and Council last month authorized Edwards to advertise bids for the new line, which is expected to double Cumberland's present daily water supply of approximately 12,000,000 gallons.

Plans drawn up by the city engineer were submitted recently to the Baltimore engineering firm, which was retained some time ago by the city to make an overall report on Cumberland's facilities. Although the firm recently sent its report here, consideration of the water line plans was not included because they were received after the main report was completed.

Edwards said today's conference has been arranged to complete final plans for the auxiliary water main, adding that he will probably be ready to ask for bids in the near future.

Taxicab Meters Will Not Tick Here Despite Contrary Reports

The cost of a ride in a taxicab in Cumberland will not be ticked off in a meter after January 1 despite some reports to the contrary.

At the last session of the Legislature, a bill was introduced by Sen. Robert B. Kimble which would have brought taxicabs operating in this city under the supervision of the Public Service Commission and meters would have been mandatory.

The measure was approved by the Senate and by the House of Delegates but Gov. Lane vetoed it at the request of the Public Service Commission.

Delegate William H. Geppert last night recalled that the bill was vetoed at the request of the Public Service Commission which said it did not have facilities to regulate taxicab operation in Cumberland.

The present law specifies that all cities of over 50,000 population must have PSC permits, but the measure vetoed by the Governor would have changed this figure to 40,000.

Under the 50,000 minimum, Baltimore is the only city affected and cabs there operate under PSC supervision, but the change to 40,000 would have meant the inclusion of Cumberland. Hagerstown would have been on the borderline.
